ONE BANDIT SHOT TO DEATH, TWO COMPANIONS CAUGHT AFTER SPECTACULAR RAID ON BANKOF GRANTVILLE, GA.

RELIEF PASSAGE AND ADJOURNMENT HOPED FOR TODAY

Senate Yields to House on Publicity on Reconstruction Loans, Assuring Final Action Within Few Hours.

HOOVER TO SIGN UNDER PROTEST

White House Opposes Publicity Provision But Will Let Congress Take Responsibility.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP)—By pushing the relief bill to within one step of completion, congress tonight virtually had cleared the decks for final adjournment some time late tomorrow.

Barring only a filibuster at the last leaders on both sides were certain they would ring down the curtain on this eventful and long-drawn-out session within another day.

The relief bill, assured of President Hoover's signature despite presence in it of a clause requiring publicity on all loans to be made by the reconstruction corporation, even to banks, lacked only final approval of the senate.

A deadlock in the conference between the two houses broke up early in the day—as soon, in fact, as assurance came that the president would sign the bill. The senators then yielded to the insistent house demand for the publicity clause.

The house then approved the conference report, 286 to 48, and sent the measure to the senate chamber. There it was permitted to lie without action until tomorrow.

The senate was busy with preparations for the adjournment. Long speeches, mostly political in character, were made. Authority was given for inquiries during the summer, and then Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, brought in a resolution for adjournment at close of business tomorrow. It went over for last-moment action.

The democratic leader, Robinson, of Arkansas, took a parting crack at the republican administration on the relief question and the long dispute over private loans it engendered between President Hoover and the democratic speaker, Garner.

"When the three musketeers (Secretaries Mills, Hurley and Hyde, campaign speakers for the administration) go forth to proclaim the policies and wisdom of the administration and criticize the speaker," said Robinson, "let them remember that he advocated equality of treatment and that they insist upon partiality of treatment.

The president's assurance of signing the bill was given despite house insistence upon publicity for all loans made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, including banks—a provision disliked by the chief executive and condemned as dangerous by corporation officials.

But Mr. Hoover told senate conferees if congress insisted upon enacting such a requirement, responsibility would lie upon the legislative branch.

This word quickly broke up a deadlock in the conference on the measure, resulting in almost immediate agreement between the house and senate representatives.

The Finance Corporation's funds are to be used in employment-produc-

MRS. SABIN FLAYS 'WET-DRY' PLANK OF REPUBLICANS

Former G. O. P. Leader Brands Party's Plank on Prohibition a 'Fraud' and 'Deception.'

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN.

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—The republican prohibition plank was caustically denounced as a "fraud and deception" tonight by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, the nation's most active woman anti-prohibitionist.

"Even the magic wand of the distinguished secretary of the treasury cannot transform it into a repeal plank," the former republican national committeewoman told a democratic rally on Long Island.

As head of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform Mrs. Sabin took the stump to analyze the prohibition stands of the two major parties in their 1932 platforms.

For nearly half an hour, she exhorted her audience to compare the two plans and not "falter with the truth."

Her address—packed with ringing denunciations and condemnatory adjectives—was the first she had made since her executive committee passed a resolution urging women anti-prohibitionists to support Franklin D. Roosevelt because of the democratic repeal stand.

She devoted 1,000 words to criticism of the republican plank and 150 words to praise of the democratic commitment.

She charged the republicans with "a desperate endeavor to compromise the issue"; with "complete contradictions"; with "an open invitation for all fanatic, and hypocritical drys to keep the pot boiling in the house and senate."

"One of the troubles with the authors of the republican plank," she declared, "is that they do not trust the people. Their minds are federalized and they think it is the sacred duty of the federal government to rebuke and restrain the people.

"They think they have to be wet nurses, or shall I say dry nurses, to all the people of the several states."

An indirect comment on the recent resignations of several prominent republican women from her organization was seen when she stated:

"I am sympathetic with the republican who puts his party loyalty above all things, but I have little patience with the republican who knows that national prohibition has failed and who excuses himself for not supporting wet candidates for public office because he thinks the republican plank opens the way to repeal. . . .

Haven't Read It.

"It is impossible for me to believe that the majority of people who make such a statement have ever read the plank."

The new amendment proposed by the republicans, she said, "first ex-

NEGLECT OF DUTY LAID TO 'VOICES' OF WHITE HOUSE

Robinson Charges Hyde, Mills and Hurley With Leaving Work To Stump for Hoover.

HARRISON PLEDGES PLATFORM SUPPORT

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP) Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, said today on the senate floor that he was for the prohibition plank adopted by the democratic convention.

The Mississippi senator told his colleagues that he had supported at Chicago a plank calling for resubmission of the prohibition question to the people.

"But now that a repeal plank has been adopted," Harrison said, "I will give it my support. I did not want to go that far, but I am for it."

Harrison called upon President Hoover to make his "position known on this question."

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP)—Secretaries Mills, Hurley and Hyde were characterized in the senate today by Senator Robinson, democratic leader, as "the three musketeers of the Hoover administration." He charged them with neglecting their official duties to make partisan political speeches.

Replying to recent speeches by these cabinet officers, Robinson said they were making every possible effort to discredit the democratic platform and the democratic candidates.

"They scoff at the proposal of the great nominee of the democratic party for president that the American people be given a new deal," he said.

"These three musketeers insist on playing the game with marked cards. Plainly there is a widespread demand for a change in the political policies of our government.

"They go forth by day and night to partisan meetings of state republican conventions and deliver bitter partisan addresses, causing them to be inserted in the Congressional Record and attempting, while neglecting their official duties, to influence the judgment of the electors."

Citing administration objections to democratic relief plans as "putting the government into business," Robinson thundered:

Federal Competition.

"Every measure promoted by the Hoover administration for the relief of the unusual conditions that prevail has been to put the government operating in a sphere heretofore regarded as properly occupied by the private citizen and private industry."

"They boast of the Reconstruction Corporation as a monumental action on the part of the administration.

"Yet there isn't a citizen who doesn't realize that every act of the Reconstruction Corporation belongs in normal times to the sphere of private business."

Turning to the relief dispute between the president and the democrats over the Garner program, Robinson said "the president thought enough of the proposition that the government make loans to private industry to

Kidnaping and Murder Seen in Death of Baby

MINNEAPOLIS, July 15.—(AP)—The theory was advanced late today that Leslie Delano, 20 months old, whose body was found in a sewage cess pool yesterday, might have been kidnaped and slain by a neighbor in suburban Columbia heights.

Deputy Sheriff Mike Auspos said bruises on the boy's body indicated he had fought against confinement, possibly in a small place such as a trunk. The person responsible probably lived in the neighborhood, he declared, and hid the body in the sewage basin, which had been previously searched.

Gala Opening of New Bridge To Attract Notables Today

Atlanta's newest civic improvement, the new Whitehall street viaduct, will be officially opened at 10 o'clock this morning with the blare of the Atlanta police band and accompanied by addresses from civic leaders and officials of Fulton county and the city.

The most pretentious program presented in Atlanta in many months will attend the opening, which will be directed jointly by the Central Marietta Street Association and a committee of Whitehall street merchants.

James D. Robinson, president of the Marietta Street Association, will preside, and addresses will be made by Robert F. Maddox, former mayor of Atlanta and chairman of the executive committee of the First National bank, which advanced Fulton county's share of the $38,000 cost of rebuilding the ancient structure; John M. Slaton, representing John W. Grant, who loaned the city its share of the $38,000, both loans without interest; Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta; Paul S. Etheridge, chairman of the Fulton county commissioners; Edward J. Bowles, of Regenstein's, chairman of the Whitehall street merchants' committee.

Councilman William M. Rogers, chairman of council's bridge committee, which directed the rebuilding program, will cut the red, white and blue ribbon as the speaking ends at the northern terminus of the bridge, thus officially opening it to traffic.

The bridge span was rebuilt at less cost than any similar structure ever was erected in Atlanta, due to the low price of materials. It is a handsome new structure of the most modern deck-type construction, and completes modernization of all downtown viaducts. It conforms in material and construction type with the Spring, Forsyth, Broad and Pryor street bridges and the Central avenue viaduct, all of which span the railway tracks in the heart of the city.

Reopening of the bridge will be the signal for relieving of traffic congestion in the central area. Although pedestrians were able to cross on a temporarily constructed bridge, vehicular traffic, including street cars, was diverted during the time it was closed. It replaces a bridge built in 1901, the oldest viaduct in the business section of the city.

The police band, under the direction of Captain John Scharf, will begin playing promptly at 10 o'clock this morning, under the plans of the com-

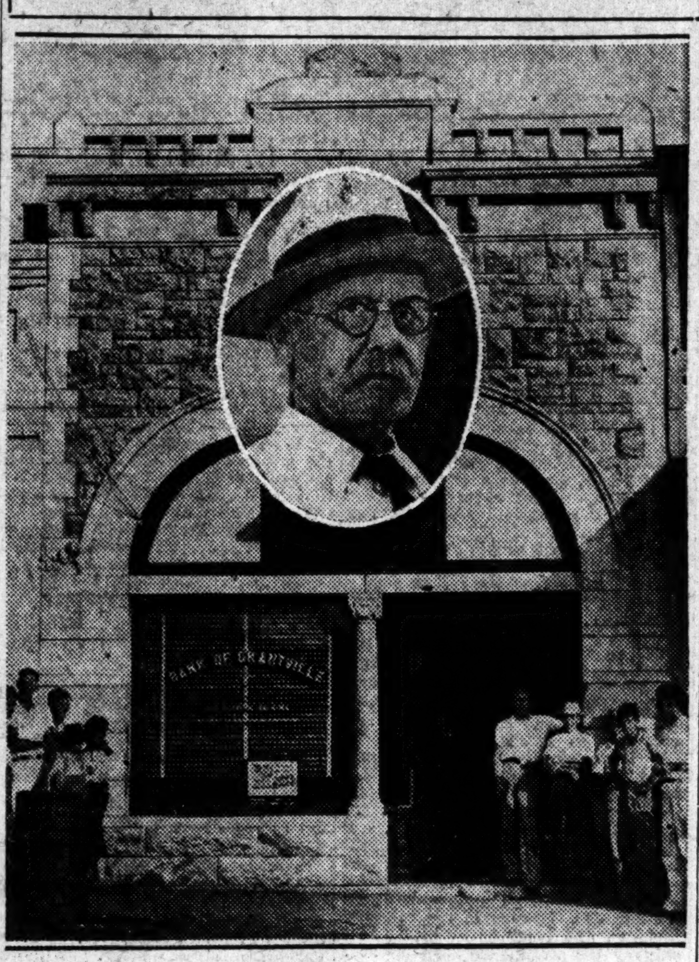
Sheriff's Fire Halts Bandit Trio



Less than two hours after the Bank of Grantville, shown above, was held up and robbed by three men, Sheriff Jake Jarrell, veteran Meriwether county officer (inset), heading a posse, halted the trio of bandits as they sped through Greenville, killing one and capturing his two alleged companions. Sheriff Jarrell has been sheriff of Meriwether county for 27 years. He will retire on January 1. Staff photos by George Cornett.

ELECTION STAND SPLITS DRY RANKS

Colvin Resigns Board of Strategy; Borah Denies He Is Candidate.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP)—The National Prohibition Board of Strategy today urged its member organizations to support "those candidates who believe that prohibition ought to be the law."

This advice was contained in a summation of campaign policy drafted by a subcommittee and approved by the board.

Appended was a resume of the record of the republican and democratic nominees for the presidency and vice presidency with quoted utterances from them on the prohibition question.

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, stated definitely today he is not and never has been a candidate for a third party presidential nomination.

Those wishing him to lead the prohibition party refused to accept this as ending their hopes, however.

In fact, Dr. Leigh Colvin, chairman of the prohibition party, said a movement was under way to create a greater party with Borah for president at the head of its ticket and a platform giving equal prominence to economic issues and the liquor question.

Colvin has been trying for weeks without success to persuade Borah to accept the prohibition party's nomination.

At the recent convention at Indianapolis, ex-Congressman William D. Upshaw, of Georgia, was nominated, but he stands ready to step down for Borah.

The senator made his statement today after a conference with Colvin and other prominent prohibition leaders here for the meeting of the National Prohibition Board of Strategy.

It refrained from indorsing specifically any candidates. Behind this lay effort on the part of one group within the board to have it declare at once for the re-election of President Hoover. This proposal was rejected by a vote of the board when offered as an amendment to the subcommittee's statement.

The policy declaration set forth a belief that "the question of retaining, modifying or repealing the prohibition

France Endeavors To Correct Impression of Compact Against U. S.

By the Associated Press.

France led off yesterday in the current series of international statements about what happened at Lausanne, with the assertion that there was no intention among European powers to form a united front against the United States on war debts.

This followed two days behind news dispatches considered semi-official and distributed by the Havas (French) news agency quoting Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, as declaring Great Britain could not undertake to make debt payments to the United States without first consulting France.

Fast on the heels of this Havas statement came statements from London to the effect that no agreements entered into at Lausanne could prevent Great Britain from settling her American debt as she wished.

Next on Thursday came a letter from President Hoover to Senator Borah, of the United States senate foreign relations committee, which said America could not be pressed into action by any combination of debtors, provided such a combination existed.

The last of the series was the French denial of a united front, and it came from the foreign office with an explanation of M. Herriot's interpretation of the Lausanne agreements.

The foreign office said embarrassment had been caused by "an apparently mistaken version" of what the premier reported to the finance committee of the chamber of deputies.

It was added officially that the Franco-British accord for mutual consultation initialed at Lausanne did not attempt to impose any restrictions on Great Britain or any other state.

The official French attitude last night was that it was best to allow interpretation of the "gentlemen's agreement" also signed at Lausanne and the Franco-British accord to lie dormant.

No official denial of M. Herriot's statement before the finance commit-

Many Atlanta News Events 'Shot' For Constitution-Rialto Newsreel

Atlanta was "shot" from many angles Friday as newsreel cameramen gathered the first episodes for The Constitution-Rialto Newskoop reel which is to be shown for a week beginning today at the Rialto theater in connection with presentation of "Hollywood Speaks," Columbia pictures' dramatic story of movie studio life.

Variety will be the keynote of the local newsreel, each day bringing new films of Atlanta activities to the Rialto screen. Two veteran Hollywood cameramen, V. A. Lambert and Henry White, are being assisted by Laboratories, in preparation of the daily newsreels.

Among interesting subjects covered Friday were the address of Mrs. W. T. Healey, of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, at a meeting of the Legion auxiliary, and the state golf tourney at Brookhaven, where Charlie Yates and Dave Black defeated Scott Hudson Jr. and Tommy Barnes in the semi-finals. The cameras snapped A. Ten Eyck Brown, architect of the new $3,000,000 post-office, going over plans for the structure, and caught "good ol' summertime" activities at Piedmont park pool. W. M. (Bill) Turner, foreman of The Constitution pressroom, was photographed at his beloved presses, while receiving congratulations on his 54 years of service from Julian Harris, director of news, who was a cub reporter on this paper 40 years ago. Roy Robert, Constitution radio reporter, was interviewed by the cameramen while preparing his newscast for the night. At the Legion auxiliary meeting, Mrs. Healey was introduced by Dr. Robert C. Eve, of base hospital No. 48. Clark Howell and Major Trammell Scott also spoke. The Whitehall viaduct opening ceremonies will be covered this morning.

"Hollywood Speaks" is highly recommended entertainment. It gives an insight into what goes on behind the scenes in the movie lots, and shows just how motion pictures are directed and made on the set and in the laboratory. The cast includes Genevieve Tobin, Pat O'Brien, Rita La Roy and Lucien Prival.

FRANK A. HOLDEN NAMED ASSISTANT ATTORNEYGENERAL

Lawyer Assigned to Special Work for Revenue Board; Last of Six Assistants Authorized.

Frank A. Holden, formerly of Athens but for the last two years a member of the Atlanta bar, has been appointed an assistant attorney-general and assigned to special work for the state revenue commission, it became known at the statehouse Friday.

Holden has been at work since July 1, but there has been no formal announcement of his appointment. It was definitely reported Friday that he is the last of six assistant attorney-generals Governor Russell was authorized to appoint under the reorganization law at a salary of $5,000 each.

Paul H. Doyal, chairman of the revenue commission, said that he did not know whether Holden had been appointed as the sixth assistant attorney-general or not.

"All I know," Doyal said, "is that he has been assigned to special work in our department."

John Andy Smith, attorney for the department under a previous administration, is still in the legal division of the revenue department.

"I have not been formally notified of Holden's appointment," State Auditor Tom Wisdom said, "and there has been no budget request for a payment of salary to him so far."

Lawrence S. Camp, chairman, state democratic executive committee, is attorney-general and his assistants are: T. R. Gress, assigned to the office, who served in the Napier administration; John I. Kelley, assigned to the public service commission; J. Spencer Powell, assigned to the highway commission; William King Meadow, assigned to the office. Boyd Sloan is a special assistant and assigned to the banking department.

Conference Reported On Reopening of Fox

Indications that a movement is underway to reopen the Fox theater gained strength Friday when it was reported that N. Edward Beck, former manager of the Georgia and Paramount theaters here, had been in conference with a group of executives of Paramount-Publix and Warner Brothers in Atlanta during the week.

Those in conference with Mr. Beck were said to have been Ernest Morrison, director of the Paramount-Publix southeastern seaboard division; Willard C. Patterson, a Warner Brothers' Film Company executive; R. B. Wilby, operator of the Georgia theater, and Emmett Rogers, Publix district manager at Chattanooga.

Rumors that the Fox would reopen after its close several weeks ago were current in theatrical circles and among the general public.

Georgia Gang Convict Is Killed by Guard

GAINESVILLE, Ga., July 15.—Frustrated in his second attempt to escape from the chain gang today, Lee Burl Maness, young white prisoner, was shot and killed by William House, a guard, when he attempted to overpower House and seize his gun.

House reported that Maness escaped this morning but was overtaken and apprehended. The guard said the prisoner made a second attempt to flee but was seized. The guard reported that Maness then wrestled with him and attempted to take a shotgun from his hands. House said he fired when he believed Maness was overpowering him.

Maness was serving a sentence of six months on a petty larceny charge. He was a resident of Hall county.

CRISP DECLINES TO MEET RUSSELL IN DEBATE TODAY

Candidate in Refusing To Accpts Challenge, Says Governor Might 'Lose Temper Again.'

Challenged to a joint debate at Blackshear's six-county political rally today, to which all other candidates have been invited, Congressman Charles R. Crisp Friday declined the invitation and notified the governor that "you, of course, can conduct your own campaign as you see fit and I will do likewise."

Crisp's telegram to Governor Russell, declining the joint debate proposal, said:

"Your wire, suggesting we have 12 joint debates, received. The plane on which you pitched your campaign and have followed up was disappointing and surprising to me. I can see no wholesome purpose to be subserved by such debates. You might lose your temper again. Therefore, I decline your offer. You have been campaigning for several months, while I have been engaged in performing my public duties. You, of course, can conduct your campaign as you see fit and I will do likewise."

The governor's challenge to Crisp, who is in Americus enjoying a brief rest between a long, arduous session of congress and the start of an intensive campaign for the United States senate seat next Wednesday, was issued quickly after Crisp headquarters in Atlanta announced that T. Hicks Fort, one of Georgia's outstanding platform speakers, would represent the congressman at the Blackshear meeting.

In a statement issued Friday morning, Governor Russell said:

"The press carried a statement that Mr. Crisp had cancelled his acceptance of the invitation extended both of us to appear on the program at the six-county political rally to be held at Blackshear and that he was undertaking to substitute T. Hicks Fort, of Columbus, to meet me there.

"In my opening radio address I predicted that such men would soon appear on the stump in Mr. Crisp's behalf. I shall not waste my time in debating irresponsible people whom Mr. Crisp might engage in his behalf, but will be glad to meet the candidate anywhere in Georgia."

Sought Needed Rest.

At Crisp headquarters it was explained that the congressman had received several invitations to make speeches Saturday and, principally because he has had no opportunity for a

Another Heat Record Melts As Mercury Here Passes 95

The "sunny" south's biggest advertisement, Old Sol, went out for a new Atlanta summer record of performance Friday and at 3 o'clock, post meridian, sharp, hung up a high temperature reading of 95.3 degrees. Holding this for a few minutes, the mercury slowly dropped until at 4 o'clock, it stood at 94.

But while the sun poured his ultraviolet rays down on Atlanta for a high mark of 95.3, his efforts in other parts of the state and south were more effective, with readings of 97 to 101. Macon sweltered with 101.8 degrees, the highest reported in the state.

Georgia's first heat death was reported Friday from Cobb county, near Atlanta, where Henry C. Pannell died suddenly Thursday after drinking a large quantity of water while working on a farm near Marietta. J. W. Webb, his father-in-law, with whom he was working, also collapsed, but physicians said he would recover.

Reports of mules and cattle being killed by the heat Thursday were numerous and local veterinarians were kept busy Friday administering treatment to animals for sunstroke.

On the fourteenth floor of the Citizens & Southern building, with high-powered fans humming, Arthur Scott, acting forecaster, mopped his brow and plodded from room to room looking for an omen of relief.

"It just isn't," he observed between moppings. "There is no relief in sight and something has got to happen somewhere else before we get any rain or any let-up."

At midnight Wednesday, the official thermometer read 79 and the same at 1 and 2 o'clock Thursday morning. At 3 o'clock in the morning it was 78, at 4 it was 77 and at 5 it had tumbled to 76. Then at 6 o'clock it started upward, reaching 77 and jumping at 7 o'clock to 81. It then moved progressively upward until 3, as follows:

8 a. m.	86	Noon	92
9 a. m.	89	1 p. m.	94
10 a. m.	91	2 p. m.	94
11 a. m.	92	2:30 p. m.	95
		3 p. m.	95.3

After 4 o'clock, breezes brought a little cheer to a city which had sweltered a full union day, but there was little promise of a cooler night.

Atlanta, however, was far from lonesome with its heat wave. The entire south was gasping and people

VETERAN SHERIFF OF MERIWETHER HERO OF CAPTURE

Jake Jarrell Fires on Robbers, Kills One and Disarms Other Two; All But $40 of $1,700 Loot Is Recovered.

CASHIER, CUSTOMER PUT IN BANK VAULT

Banker's Cries Bring Rescuers and Start Pursuit Within Few Minutes. Lively Gun Battle Staged

BY L. A. FARRELL,
Staff Correspondent.

GRANTVILLE, Ga., July 15.—At 1:45 o'clock this afternoon three bandits raided the Bank of Grantville, locked up the cashier and a customer, scooped up $1,740 and fled.

In less than two hours one of the bandits was dead and his two companions were behind the bars of the Coweta county jail at Newnan, awaiting a special session of the grand jury which is expected to indict them for robbery and assault with intent to murder.

Slightly more than $1,700 of the loot was back in the bank vault and this peaceful Georgia community settled down to continue its talk about the weather and politics.

To 68-year-old Sheriff Jake Jarrell, of Meriwether county, bosom friend and supporter of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, goes the thanks of the state for his speedy end to the bandits' flight. He organized a posse and met the bandits as they sped past Greenville's courthouse and when they refused to obey his command to halt, returned fire with fire, killing one of the three, puncturing the tires of the bandit car and capturing the remaining two.

Most Exciting Day in 27 Years.

Sheriff Jarrell, who will retire on January 1 after 27 years as a peace officer, said he had had his closest call and his most exciting and most successful day.

The dead bandit was identified as Arthur (Red) Pendergrast, of LaGrange, formerly of Grantville, a cotton mill worker. His two companions are R. P. Garver, LaGrange, a typewriter mechanic who often had worked on machines in the bank and elsewhere in Grantville, and a man giving his name as Jack Wilkerson, who Grantville folk say is known as Chick Vinson. Pendergrast was 28, Garver is 40 and Wilkerson or Vinson is 27.

Cashier C. Edwin Brasch, 26, was alone in the bank when two men, later identified as Pendergrast and Wilkerson or Vinson, entered. The latter presented a check for $53 drawn on a Montgomery, Ala., bank and signed by C. J. Rudisell. He told Brasch he wanted the check put through for collection.

As the cashier examined the check both men drew pistols and when he raised his head to tell them he would

Methods of Dry Raiders Bring Bloodshed Threat

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N. Y., July 15.—(AP)—The Chamber of Commerce today informed officials at Washington that a "serious situation resulting in possible death and bloodshed will result inside of 48 hours if something is not done" about methods used in prohibition raids here.

Immediately the officials wired back that a searching investigation had been ordered.

The protest of the Chamber of Commerce went to Treasury Secretary Ogden L. Mills, Commissioner Woodcock, of the prohibition service; Senators Royal S. Copeland and Robert F. Wagner, and Representatives Bertrand H. Snell and Francis D. Culkin. The legislators immediately asked Mr. Woodcock for action.

He already had ordered Andrew McCampbell, state administrator of prohibition, to proceed to Alexandria Bay for the inquiry. Mr. McCampbell in turn notified Colonel Jefferson Davis, deputy administrator in charge of the northern New York district, of the orders.

The chamber's telegram:

"For the second time in two days prohibition officers from Syracuse office raided village in spectacular manner, first time spoiling Spanish War Veterans' convention assembled here and causing riot. The raids carried out in the most brutal fashion, doors being bursted down without cause, furniture broken, two people knocked down and seriously injured, and violence provoked by officers.

"Would request all possible efforts on your part to secure enforcement of nation's laws on manner suitable to the dignity of the government and according to the constitution of the United States and the bill of rights. Serious situation resulting in possible death and bloodshed will result inside of 48 hours if something is not done."

The telegram was signed by the chamber's secretary, G. J. Savage, on Tuesday, when the first raids were made, a mob of 100 persons attacked two of the raiders on the street, and beat them and kicked them. State troopers escorted the men out of the village in a federal car, whose tires had been slashed by the attackers. It was impossible to verify a report that "buy men," who entered five places before the raids, had worn war veterans' buttons. Prohibition officers said they knew nothing about this.

Last night Ross Visger, 45, and Cora Bradley, hotel maid, were caught between automobiles allegedly used in two more prohibition raids. Visger was believed to be injured internally and the maid was bruised and cut. As a result of the incident, Federal Agent Burke Bornemann, of the Syracuse office, was arrested and charged with a highway law violation.

Raid Victim Buried; Arrest Seen Today

With the body of Clarence Densmore, 22, of Afton, Ga., victim of a bullet fired by a "citizen dry raider," buried in Dawson county Friday, members of Densmore's family immediately began laying plans for vigorous prosecution of Fred Pierce, of Gainesville, on a murder charge. Densmore was killed Wednesday near Douglasville while federal officers were seeking persons who were said to have driven away from a still.

M. A. Densmore, father of the slain youth, and Ray Burt, father-in-law, vowed legal vengeance for the death of Densmore, and it is expected that they will take out a murder warrant this morning. Sheriff S. B. Baggett, of Douglas county, said he will make no arrest until a warrant is sworn out, but Solicitor Sam W. Ragsdale, of the Tallapoosa circuit, said he could not understand why Baggett delays placing Pierce in jail.

amendment should be settled by the votes of the people, "in senatorial, congressional and legislative elections."

Asserting the resume of President Hoover's record made him out to be dryer than was warranted, Dr. Leigh Colvin, national chairman of the prohibition party, resigned from the board of strategy. He is pushing actively plans to put a strong, nationally-known bone-dry third party ticket into the field.

Three Factions Represented.

Discussion, which preceded adoption of the statement, revealed three divergent views. One group held for the policy finally approved. A second, led by Oliver W. Stewart, of the flying squadron, urged immediate indorsement of President Hoover. A third, including Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, held that a declaration for Mr. Hoover should be deferred until he utters his personal views on repeal. The text of the board's statement follows:

"We favor the retention of the eighteenth amendment unchanged. We are opposed to any modification or amendment which would remove the brand of the criminal from the traffic in beverage intoxicants, and which would legalize that traffic in any form.

"We fully agree that the question of prohibition should be settled by the votes of the people, who, under the constitution have the right to vote in the election of senators, congressmen and legislation, which officers after election are charged with the power to vote for or against the submission or ratification of amendments to the constitution.

"The eighteenth amendment was embodied in the organic law by the votes of senators, congressmen and state legislators, all elected by the people in the constitutional manner.

"The question of the retention, modification or repeal of the eighteenth amendment should likewise be determined by vote of the people in senatorial, congressional and legislative elections.

Appeal to Voters.

"We urge our people to meet unwaveringly the serious obligation which has been thrust upon them in the coming election for president, vice president, senators, congressmen, governors and state legislators, by voting for those candidates who believe that prohibition ought to be the law and by opposing openly and vigorously the proposals which have been made for modification or repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the weakening of the Volstead act.

"That our people may have clear definite information as to the attitude on prohibition of all candidates for president, vice president, senator, congressman and state legislator, we strongly advise that the record and present attitude of all such candidates on the question of submission, modification of the Volstead act or of the state prohibition enforcement laws, be secured and published, in order that the position of such candidates may be clearly indicated in present and future elections.

"It may be taken for granted that as a result of the 1932 general election, either the republican or democratic candidates for president and vice president will be elected. We, therefore, present herewith the record, public declarations and attitudes of the candidates of those parties for president and vice president:

Hoover's Prohi. Stand.

"Herbert Hoover: While secretary of commerce he said: 'There can be no doubt of the economic benefits of prohibition. Viewing the temperance question only from this angle, prohibition has proved its case.'

"In his speech of acceptance at Palo Alto, Cal., on August 11, 1928, he said:

"'I do not favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. I stand for the efficient enforcement of the laws enacted thereunder. Whoever is chosen president has under his oath the solemn duty to pursue this course.

"'Our country has deliberately undertaken a great social and economic experiment, noble in motive and far-reaching in purpose. It must be worked out constructively. . . .

"'Modification of the enforcement laws which permit that which the constitution forbids is nullification. This the American people will not countenance. Change in the constitution can and must be brought about only by the straight-forward methods provided in the constitution itself.

Right of People.

"'There are those who do not believe in the purposes of several provisions of the constitution, No one is denied their right to seek to amend it. They are not subject to criticism for asserting that right.'

"In his inaugural address, March 4, 1929, discussing disrespect and disobedience of laws, he said:

"'It is only in part due to the additional burdens imposed upon our judicial system by the eighteenth amendment. The problem is much wider than that. Many influences had increasingly complicated and weakened our law-enforcement organization long before the adoption of the eighteenth amendment. . . . It must not come to be in our republic that it can be defeated by the indifference of the citizen, by exploitation of the delays and entanglements of the law, or by combinations of criminals.

"'Of the undoubted abuses which have grown up under the eighteenth amendment, part are due to the causes I have just mentioned; but part are due to the failure of some states to accept their share of responsibility for concurrent enforcement and to the failure of many state and local officials to accept the obligation under their oath of office zealously to enforce the laws.'

Wickersham Report.

"In sending to congress the Wickersham report, January 20, 1931, he said:

"'The commission, by a large majority, does not favor the repeal of the eighteenth amendment as a method of cure for the inherent abuses of the liquor traffic. I am in accord with this view. I am in unity with the spirit of the report in seeking constructive steps to advance the national ideal of eradication of the social and economic and political evils of this traffic, to preserve the gains which have arisen under this experiment. I do, however, see serious objections to, and therefore must not be understood as recommending, the commission's proposed revision of the eighteenth amendment, which is suggested by them for possible consideration at some future time if the continued effort at enforcement should not prove successful. My own duty and that of all executive officials is clear—to enforce the law with all the means at our disposal without equivocation or reservation.'

"In his acceptance speech, he will doubtless deal further with this subject.

"During the presidency of Mr. Hoover, federal enforcement of the prohibition laws has steadily advanced and has attained a higher degree of efficiency than in any other period since the adoption of the eighteenth amendment.

Curtis' Record Cited.

"Charles Curtis: An active participant in the fight for local and later national prohibition since 1885. He has announced no change from the position he took in January 25, 1928, when, in a letter addressed to Senator Borah, he wrote:

"'I, personally, favor a plank referring to the eighteenth amendment and the laws enacted to carry it into effect, and I favor a plank pledging the nominee to a fair, vigorous and faithful enforcement of them. In my opinion, it is the greatest moral issue of all ages and public sentiment demands that both of the political parties declare themselves unequivocally upon it;' adding:

"'I am opposed to a policy which will allow any state to determine for itself the alcoholic content of beverages to be manufactured, sold and transported throughout the country, but I believe the states should join with the officers of the United States in enforcing the laws of congress, as was contemplated by the constitutional amendment.'

"In his speech of acceptance, August 19, 1928, he referred to his past record, saying, 'My own record shows clearly that I believe in and practice enforcement of the law,' adding: 'Not only am I heartily in favor of faithfully enforcing all our laws, but, further, I am opposed to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment or of the Volstead act.' This position he repeatedly emphasized during the 1928 compaign.

Roosevelt on Dry Law.

"Franklin D. Roosevelt: On October 25, 1928, he declared, concerning the re-enactment of the state enforcement act repealed several years earlier:

"'There is no practical advantage in enacting another Mullan-Gage law as a part of the statutes of New York. That is the way I feel about it. That is where I stand.'

"On September 9, 1930, as a candidate for re-election as governor of New York, he declared he indorsed the democratic state platform of 1928 which favored repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"On March 31, 1931, he signed a bill requesting congress to call a national constitutional convention to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

"In his acceptance speech at the Chicago convention, July 2, 1932, he said:

"'This convention wants repeal. Your candidate wants repeal, and I am confident that the United States of America wants repeal, . . . I say to you now that from this date on the eighteenth amendment is doomed.'

"He further said:

"'That admirable document, the platform which you have adopted, is clear. I accept it 100 per cent,' which includes his indorsement of all the provisions of the democratic convention plank on prohibition.

Garner's Record.

"John N. Garner: As a member of the United States congress, he voted for the Webb-Kenyon bill; against the Jones-Works District of Columbia bill; for the Alaska prohibition bill; for the Jones-Randall bill; against the Sheppard District of Columbia prohibition bill; against the prohibition food control bill; for the proposed Igoe amendment to the Volstead act; for the Volstead act, but is recorded as not voting for the act over the president's veto.

"He summed up his present position and past records on June 21, 1932, by giving to the press this brief statement:

"'When the prohibition amendment was proposed, I, as a member of congress, voted against it.

"'I have never believed it sound or workable, and it should be repealed.'

"We present the foregoing statement for the careful consideration of the voters of the United States."

BONUS ARMY JOINS SIEGE OF CAPITOL

Entire Force Ordered to Mass With California Demonstrators

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(UP) Orders were issued tonight for the entire bonus expeditionary force, some 15,000 strong, to mass at the capitol tomorrow with the besieging California egiment to protest against the adjournment of congress.

Capitulating to the showmanship of Roy W. Robertson, commander of the Californians, who have been marching in single file across the capitol grounds for nearly four days, Walter W. Waters, commander of the bonus army, decided tonight to join him in his vigil during the closing hours of the congressional session.

Officials of the Workers' Ex-Service League, communist affiliated, as soon as they learned of Walters' order, arranged for their own men to go to the capitol.

The plan is for all the bonus army to march singly and in small groups from their camps and barracks and to arrive at the capitol at 10 a. m. They will simply stand or sit in the plaza until congress adjourns, tomorrow afternoon or evening.

Police were fearful of a serious situation, due to the number of men and the probability that they would attract thousands of sightseers.

If even one man in three of the Waters army went to the capitol, they said, control of the crowd would be difficult.

There were more men in the capitol parade tonight than at any time since the siege started at noon Tuesday. All during the evening the ranks were swelling. Men would drop out and rest as they neared exhaustion. An average file of 600 men, with a scattering of women and children, their spirits high, singing, cheering, whistling, participated in the slow, shuffling, monotonous march.

Prohi Repeal Would Put 300,000 to Work, Mrs. Healey Says at Joint Legion Luncheon

Left to right: Trammell Scott, commander of the Legion post; Mrs. Healey, Dr. Robert C. Eve, of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, and Clark Howell, editor and general manager of The Constitution. Repeal of the national prohibition law would provide jobs for 300,000 persons at present unemployed and bring $300,000,000 yearly into the treasury of the United States, Mrs. William T. Healey, state chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, said in an address Friday.

Speaking before a joint luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Post No. 1, of the American Legion and the Legion auxiliary, Mrs. Healey asserted that the dry law, more than anything else, had served to bring about the present crisis in the financial affairs of our government.

"Repeal of the prohibition law will divert from the pockets of the bootlegger and the racketeer that money which should go into the national treasury," she said. "With its repeal we will not only restore temperance but will divert immense funds from Al Capone and his ilk to Uncle Sam!"

Mrs. Healey said the prohibition law had resulted in the formation of an intellectual "Siamese twinship" between the reformer and the bootlegger.

"We are witnessing in this country the grotesque, revolting and tragic spectacle of a moral and intellectual Siamese twinship," she declared. "Whether they like it or not the bootlegger and the prohibitionist are Siamese twins. The prohibitionist is the bootlegger's greatest asset as he cannot survive without the prohibition enforcement agent. The bootlegger's business is possible only as long as the unenforceable law stands. Repeal the prohibition amendment and on that day the bootlegger dies, as one Siamese twin ceases to breathe when the lungs of the other are deprived of air."

Clark Howell, editor and general manager of The Constitution, who also was a guest of honor at the luncheon, made a brief talk in which he said he indorsed everything Mrs. Healey had said.

The luncheon, which was held in the civic room of the Ansley hotel, was presided over by Major Trammell Scott, commander of the post. The speakers were introduced by Dr. Robert C. Eve, of the United States veterans' bureau.

N. J. Elks, Entertained Here, Backing Roosevelt to a Man

Strong for Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of their neighboring state and democratic candidate for president, New Jersey's delegation to the Elks' convention at Birmingham spent Friday in Atlanta en route home.

Approximately 35 Elks and 15 ladies made up the New Jersey party, which enjoyed the open house hospitality of Atlanta Lodge No. 76 in the Peachtree street home. Although there were a number of republicans in the party, the entire delegation was said to be solidly for Roosevelt with the slogan that "it will be ruin if Roosevelt is not elected."

The New Jersey Elks were met at the Terminal station, where their two special cars were parked for the day, and were escorted to the Biltmore hotel, where they enjoyed breakfast. The visitors were taken to Stone mountain, the federal prison and the Grant Park cyclorama.

The delegation was made up of exalted rulers and past exalted rulers of New Jersey lodges, with Timothy Sheehan, of Jersey City, as their spokesman and leader. Joseph R. Cooke, exalted ruler of Atlanta lodge, and his fellow officers extended every effort for the pleasure of the visitors, and were glad to hear the report that the New Jersey delegation resumed their journey Friday night with pleasant smiles, tired but happy after an enjoyable day.

St. Lawrence Inquiry Resolution Cheers Roosevelt on Sea 'Voyage'

BY WALTER T. BROWN.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., July 15.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, tonight, in an ocean interview expressed his pleasure with the news that Senator Borah today had pushed through a resolution to look into the St. Lawrence waterways treaty negotiations.

Talking with newspapermen across 50 feet of water as he maneuvered his yawl Myth II toward this harbor, the democratic presidential nominee said also he would make no campaign appointments until after her had returned to Albany.

Completing one of the longest legs of the voyage up the New England coast, the governor and his party planned to stay in Marblehead Harbor tonight after a 55-mile beat from Marion, where he remained last night.

His interview was made as the press boat and the yawl idled through a purple sea, scarcely rippled by the breeze.

A persistently slow wind kept the Myth at sea from the rising sun until long after it had dropped behind the rugged coast of the bay. The sun was just falling behind Nahant, spashing the sea with gold, and a brilliant moon was rising when the news writers pulled alongside.

"Governor, Senator Borah put through a resolution to investigate the St. Lawrence treaty negotiations," one of the reporters megaphoned to the white-clad skipper at the wheel of the Myth. "Any comment?"

The governor laughed, threw up his right arm and waved away any declaration. The resolution enables him to lay before congress his contention that New York state, with an interest in water-power development on the international river, has been ignored by the federal negotiators.

One or two members of the Myth's crew were finishing their supper, seated on deck eating from tin plates.

"What did you have for supper?" somebody asked.

"We had a fine supper," the governor shouted back.

"Sure, lobster," added John, the executive's youngest son, "plenty of lobster, the boat smells terrible."

A spanking 20-mile east wind that greeted the presidential nominee when he left Cape Cod canal and drove the little boat through the blue waters of the bay at eight miles an hour, dropped to a mere zephyr just north of Duxbury.

It was the third day that the governor fell short of his goal. He had intended to reach Gloucester or Manchester tonight, both north of this yachting center on Boston's north shore.

NEGLECT OF DUTY LAID TO "VOICES" OF WHITE HOUSE

come to congress and personally deliver a message urging that it be done.

"The difference between the two propositions is that the president proposed discrimination in favor, necessarily, of a few established industries.

"When the three musketeers go forth to proclaim the policies and wisdom of the administration and criticize the speaker, let them remember that he advocated equality of treatment and that they insist upon partiality of treatment."

Smoot Defends Hoover.

After him, up rose tall Senator Smoot, one of the old guard republicans.

"No man who ever sat in the White House has been more devoted to the public welfare than Herbert Hoover," Smoot said.

He claimed that nearly every practical step for nation-wide economic recovery had been initiated by the president.

Co-author of the Smoot-Hawley tariff law, object of many a democratic brickbat, the veteran Utah senator vigorously defended that measure.

"If there was ever a time in the history of the United States when we need tariff protection, it is today," he said.

Many democratic senators joined in with jabs and jibes at their political foes.

Harrison said he had been a "dry," and then he called upon President Hoover to make his "position known on this question."

Senator Kean, republican, New Jersey, called Harrison's attention to the republican prohibition platform, which Harrison promptly termed "as clear as mud."

Harrison then asked Kean if he intended to support the republican platform.

Kean said he stodd by the repeal plank advocated by the New Jersey delegation, which was rejected by the republican platform committee.

"The American people will have a clear-cut issue," Harrison retorted. "If the people of New Jersey want Mr. Hoover and want the vice president and your weak, milky prohibition plank, they will vote with the republicans.

"If they want repeal, they will have an opportunity to vote for it."

SENATOR LONG WILLING TO HELP WOMAN SOLON

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP)—Questioned about rumors in Arkansas that he intended to campaign in Arkansas for re-election of Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway to the senate, Senator Long, democrat, Louisiana, said today he had no such plan. He added with a smile, however, that he "might go, if asked."

MRS. CARAWAY SILENT ON SENATOR LONG'S OFFER

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., July 15.—(AP)—Interrupted in her candy making at the home of a friend here today by newspapermen Senator Hattie W. Caraway would make no comment on reports that Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana might, if invited, come to Arkansas and take the stump to assist her in her campaign for renomination.

DISTORTION OF PLATFORM CHARGED FARMER-LABORITE

OMAHA, July 15.—(AP)—Frank Lowson, of Washington, D. C., former chairman of the farmer-labor party's platform committee, whose expulsion from the party was announced Sunday by Roy M. Harrop, chairman of the executive committee, today retaliated with a series of charges against Harrop. The charges were contained in a letter sent members of the executive committee.

He asserted that the farmer-labor platform as printed and distributed by Harrop had been "forged" and was a "spurious news bulletin edition." He compared the "original" platform with the one distributed by the national committee and showed where it allegedly differed in a dozen places.

Coincident with receipt of the latter, Harrop announced that "General" Jacob S. Coxey, new presidential candidate of the party, would arrive August 6 to begin a speaking tour of Nebraska.

WIDOW OF "TEDDY" TO SUPPORT HOOVER

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the late president, will vote for President Hoover this fall, despite that Governor Roosevelt is a fifth cousin of her husband.

In a letter to Chester Burger, 11-year-old Brooklyn boy, who had asked for her autograph and expressed his admiration for "your cousin," Governor Roosevelt, she said:

"Franklin Delano Roosevelt is a distant cousin of my husband. I am a republican and am voting for Herbert Hoover."

REPEAL MOVE LOSES IN OHIO G. O. P. MEETING

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 15.—(AP)—Ohio republicans today smothered a "dripping wet" delegation from Cincinnati and decided to stick to the party's national stand on prohibition.

Although its candidate for governor and senator campaigned as opponents of the 18th amendment in winning the nomination the party's state convention overwhelmingly approved the national republican platform which calls for resubmission of the liquor question.

Tornado Strikes Blackville, S. C.

BLACKVILLE, S. C., July 15.—(AP)—Three persons were injured, 20 stores and two homes were unroofed, stocks in practically every store in town were damaged and the streets littered with trees and debris by a tornado that struck here late today.

The three injured persons were cut by flying glass. None was seriously hurt. Damage was estimated at $50,000.

The storm struck without warning shortly before 7 p. m., after a day of intense heat.

President Hoover Takes 20 Per Cent Cut

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP)—For the first time in history a president of the United States today ordered his own pay cut, arranging to send back to the treasury $15,000 of his $75,000 annual stipend.

Nobody else could cut it for him, the constitution itself preventing, but congress in the national economy act, which prescribed pay reductions for almost everyone else in the government service, gave specific sanction to President Hoover's voluntary return of any amount.

In taking his own cut President Hoover also sliced the pay of his cabinet officers by 15 per cent or about $2,500 a year.

Nashville City Jail Empty for First Time

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 15.—(AP)—The city jail was empty today, the first time in the memory of police and jail officers that no cell was occupied.

All the doors in the building stood open, while turnkeys and other attendants sought cool spots to escape the heat, which sent the mercury climbing toward the 100-degree mark.

$100,000,000 Worth Chemical Products Seen in Southeast by Geologist

GREAT SUPPLY RAW MATERIALS IN GA. AND ALA.

These Vast Resources Have Only Been Scratched, Says H. S. Young. Dr. Maynard Points to Phenomenal Deposits.

BY VICTOR BARRON.

Notwithstanding the already marked strides Georgia and Alabama have made in developing their untold wealth in raw materials, these vast resources of a great variety, have only been scraped, according to H. S. Young, assistant general passenger agent of the Atlanta, Birmingham & Coast railroad.

In an analysis of "Raw Materials" in the territory of the A., B. & C. Dr. Poole Maynard, Ph. D., industrial geologist of the railroad, summarizes his findings as follows:

"Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana, North Carolina and South Carolina consume annually $68,500,000 worth of chemical products. The increase in the consumption of chemical products in these states has been phenomenal in the past decade, and with the present increase of manufactured products there should be, in the next decade, a market for more than $100,000,000 of chemical products. The present production of chemicals in these states is less than $9,000,000."

The wealth of raw materials which are found in the territory of the A., B. & C. serves to occupy a unique position with relation to the development of raw materials and the establishment of new industries.

GREAT VARIETY.

Here are some of the raw materials along the A., B. & C., as revealed in Dr. Maynard's survey (detailed information relative to these deposits is available in the office of the industrial department of the road):

Red iron ores, gray iron ores, brouwn iron ores, iron ores, limestone and dolomites, coal and coke, limestones, dolomites, lime and sand, gannister and lime, sand limestones shales, limestone fullers earth, dolomites acetic acid, sulphuric acid, graphite No. 1 flake, No. 2 flake, dust; slates, granites; gneiss, limestones, dolomites, marbles, cherts, diorites; soapstone, gold, mables; quartz, quartzite lime, bauxitic clays, refractory clays, kaolins; shales, pefmatites of quartz, feldspar, mica, and china clay; mica schists; fullers earth and mauxites; clays, including fullers earthclays, alluvial clays, kaolin, fire clays, slag; pyrite, trap rock, coal, coke, slag; kaolin—feldspar, quartz, arseno—pyrite, sand, sawdust, coke; sand and coke; lime and coke; iron—silica rock, coke, titanium ore; dolomites—hydrochloric alc, coke—sand and phosphates from Florida and Tennessee; limestone—dolomite; phosphates from Tennessee and Florida—potash slates from Cartersville; sulphuric acid from Birmingham and Copper Hill, Tenn.; ammonium sulphates from Birmingham.

A., B. & C. SERVES TERRITORY.

The proximity of Georgia and Alabama to the markets of the east and to those of the middle west are due in part to topography. Great trunk lines extend northeast and southeast from Georgia and Alabama along the base of the Appalachian mountain system.

"The natural advantages of the south, such as abundance of raw materials, in close proximity to the great fuel supplies and cheap hydroelectric power, with adequate cheap transportation are again asserting themselves, so that Georgia and Alabama are again fastly returning to occupy their place in the sun of industrial prosperity," Dr. Maynard said.

Industries in Georgia and Alabama have the natural advantage of assembling their raw materials from the five geologic provinces in the southeastern states, and each geologic province is characterized by well defined types of mineral resources. The A., B. & C. traverses these five provinces, making possible the assemblage of a great variety of raw materials.

Arcade Restaurant Cool; Menu Satisfies Customers

Georgia's famous and delicious watermelons, cantaloupes, peaches and cream, and a large variety of meats and seasonable vegetables from "home," as well as distant markets, are being served in all their appetizing manner to a great number of customers of the Arcade restaurant, located at 110 Forsyth street, N. W.

This restaurant, which was founded here in 1904, is one of the most modernized and sanitary in the city, being under the management and ownership of the original founders.

The success of the establishment is attributed to "satisfied customers," and the establishment numbers among its customers some of the leading business men and women of the community as well as throughout the state. Theatergoers and party crowds have found the Arcade a delightful, quiet and cool place to enjoy a meal of the choicest foods obtainable and served to satisfy each individual taste.

The Arcade is under the ownership and managership of Nick Mantrangos, Chris Mantrangos and John Tunas.

Officials of the concern declare that never before have they been able to serve such delicious and choice foods for such low prices as now prevail. The Arcade specializes in a low-priced lunch, and their steaks are prepared in such an appetizing manner that they have become famous throughout the state. They feature a splendid dinner each Sunday for the entire family at moderate prices.

The Arcade for years was located near Five Points on Peachtree street. There it gained fame for its splendid and courteous service and high-grade foodstuffs. Outgrowing those quarters the establishment moved a few years ago to the Forsyth street address, adjacent to the Ansley hotel, opening one of the finest and most up-to-date restaurants in the city.

Super-sanitation rules throughout the place. Watermelons, cantaloupes, peaches and other fruits and perishables are constantly kept in their huge ice refrigeration, as well as meats, seafood and poultry of the choicest grades. Huge electric fans keep the place cool, thus furnishing comfort to customers during the service of their meals.

GUTHMAN DISCUSSES POSTAGE INCREASE

The new increase in first-class postage rates, which it is said will cost Atlantans $2,500 a day above the old postage cost, is causing a great many changes in mailings, particularly those used for advertising purposes, according to S. Guthman, president of the Atlanta Envelope Company.

"One result of this 50 per cent increase," Mr. Guthman said, "is the very noticeable trend toward the use of special postage saver type of envelopes which can be mailed under other classifications than first class. A great many firms are adopting this policy for their advertising mailings and are depending on well-designed, attractive envelopes to give mailings the prestige which might be lost when first-class postage is not used. In such cases the total mailing cost is usually considerably under the old 2-cent rate.

"Still other firms who feel that it is to their advantage to continue to use first-class for their advertising mailings, in spite of the increased rate, are resorting to the economies made possible by going through their mailing lists very carefully and removing those names which are not their best prospects.

"The policy to be adopted, it seems to us, is dependent both on the product or service to be advertised and the type of prospects whom the advertiser wishes to reach. Under some conditions one procedure will prove profitable, while under other conditions an entirely different procedure will prove best. In the light of our experience with envelopes and advertising mailings over the past 39 years we are glad to go over the problems confronting our various customers and recommend the course we consider most advisable to pursue."

Mr. Guthman and his experienced organization are well qualified to make suggestions on any question concerning advertising mailings. The company itself is one of the large users of direct mail advertising in the south.

MOTOR TRUCKS ARE OPENING UP NEW BUSINESS AREAS

J. M. Simmons, of Hoover Motor Express Company, Points Out Advantage This System of Transportation Offers.

The motor truck express is opening up new trade areas to Atlanta, and this form of direct delivery from the shippers' platform to the receivers is steadily increasing, according to J. M. Simmons, vice president of the Hoover Motor Express Company, Inc., located at 554 Stewart avenue, S. W.

He is vice president of the concern, which was organized in 1928, with main offices located at 2415 Fifth street, Nashville.

Out-of-the-way cities and towns off the direct rail routes are being brought closer as are those on the main arterical highway lines, according to Mr. Simmons. Routes throughout Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama and Florida are traversed by the company.

Promptly at 6 o'clock in the evening Hoover trucks, under guidance of skillful, bonded drivers, move out to major Tennessee centers—Knoxville, Nashville and Memphis—serving en route numerous cities and towns. The trucks have an overnight haul to Nashville and Knoxville, and on the second morning arrive in Memphis. Freight transported by this company is given every consideration. Each cargo is insured against damage in any way, as well as all property of the company.

NEW TRADE TERRITORIES.

"We are opening up new trade territories to the merchants and manufacturers of this section," Mr. Simmons said.

"Our business is that of facilitating transportation. We pick up freight at the door of the shipper and deliver it to the door of the consignee, and our rates are the same as the less-than-car load rates approved by the interstate commerce commission for the railroads.

"Business is finding more and more that the motor truck is the essential adjunct to their business and a source of greater profit and both are benefiting as a consequence."

COVERS 3,500 MILES.

Mr. Simmons said that these motor truck routes came into being to serve a definite purpose and a large number of people.

"Shippers here and throughout our territory have learned that it is only necessary to telephone for our pickup man one day and the next day their freight is delivered at the door of the addressee. Our equipment covers 3,500 miles of the south's highways every night, bringing 7,000,000 people within overnight reach of each other via motor truck."

Northwestern Mutual To Hold 75th Meet

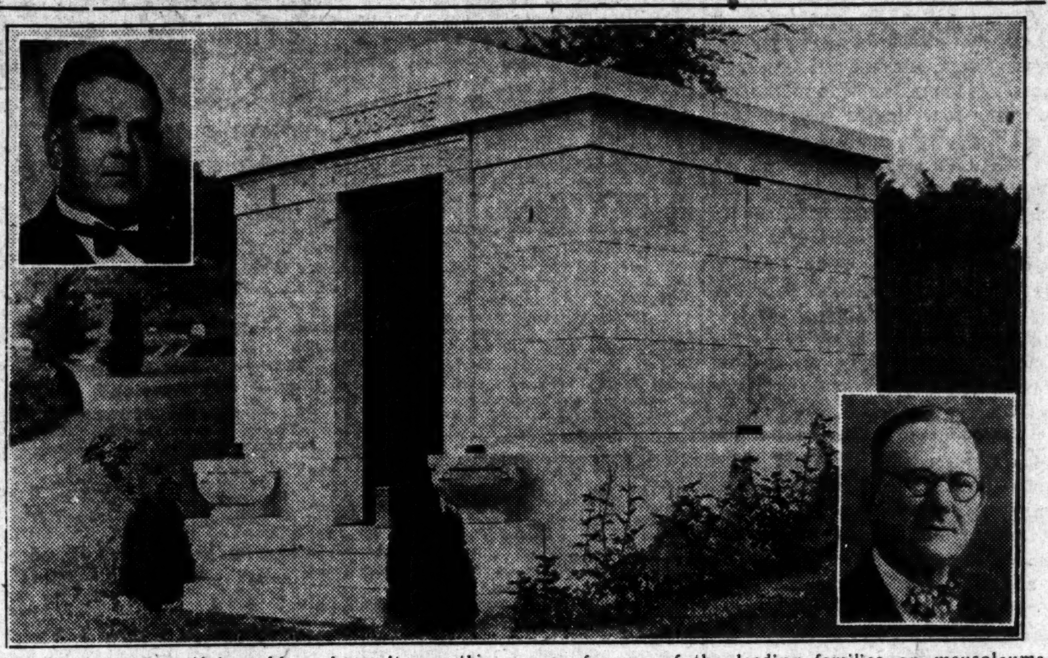
Luther E. Allen, general agent for the state of Georgia for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, together with five other representatives of the company in Atlanta and the state, will attend the company's diamond jubilee in Milwaukee, July 25-27.

Mr. Allen will leave Wednesday via automobile accompanied by Mrs. Allen and their son. They will be joined in Milwaukee by Paul Frazier, N. A. McAfee and Ross E. Bacon, special agents from Atlanta; Ed L. Fryer, district agent, from Rome, and Hamilton Yancey Jr., district agent from Americus.

Agents of the company from all parts of the country will attend the meeting, the attendance being estimated at 1,000. It will be one of the most interesting in history of the association of agents. With the 75th anniversary of the company occurring this year, the committee has prepared a program that will be different from anything in recent years, Mr. Allen said. One of the features will be a series of dramatic episodes depicting events in the history of the company. These episodes will be staged throughout the business sessions.

Mr. Allen has represented his company here for 27 years.

Beauty-Durability in Mausoleums and Monuments



Carved in beautiful marble and granite are the names of some of the leading families on mausoleums and monuments in the cemeteries of Atlanta, the entire southeast and in New York—some with inscriptions, paying the highest and loving tribute to the deceased; something beautiful to not only express the heart throbs of loved ones left behind, but also to blend with the purity and durability of white, pink and chocolate marble and granite from Georgia and Minnesota quarries. They represent the work of the North Atlanta Monumental Works, of which A. L. Bandy (inset, left) is president, and Asmon Lewis (inset, right) is sales manager. Center, Jacob-Wise mausoleum at Crest Lawn.

Beauty, durability and an exemplification of love for those whom have passed to the great beyond, are all embodied in the work of the North Atlanta Monumental Works, located at 1471 Marietta road.

This concern, which specializes in monuments, mausoleums and tombstones and other appropriate cemetery work, is headed by A. L. Bandy, president, and Asmon Lewis, sales manager. The company's slogan is from factory to purchaser.

The company handles the best grade of silver marble purchased direct from the Georgia Mable Company, at Tate, Ga., beautiful Minnesota granite in pink and chocolate and granite from the quarries of Elberton.

The North Atlanta Monumental Works has for years made steady strides in Atlanta and throughout this section. It also numbers among its customers people in all parts of Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, North and South Carolina and New York.

Among some of the beautiful mausoleums here are that of the Jacob-Wise at Crest Lawn, that of John E. Murphy, at Oakland cemetery, the Henson-Parrish, all having been made from silver grade Georgia marble.

The concern has executed some of the finest monuments in this section, including those of the Mays, Sommers, Whittaker at Crest Lawn, and Parker, Bell, Issac Schoen, Morris Rich, Ike Hirschberg, Regenstein at Oakland, and that of Professor Crichton at West View, and the Serocia family monuments as well as that for the Marshall family.

All the work of the company is of the latest designs.

Mr. Bandy has been in the monumental business for more than 30 years. Before establishing his business, he was superintendent of the former Sharkey Stone Company for 10 years. During that time he supervised the marble work for the former Fourth National Bank building, and the stone work on the old First Baptist church.

Mr. Lewis is one of the most widely known businessmen of Atlanta. Prior to his connection with the North Atlanta Monumental Works last June a year ago, he was assistant superintendent at the Grady hospital for 10 years and previous to that time he operated a wholesale grocery business on Decatur street.

Both Mr. Bandy and Mr. Lewis exercise utmost care in their designs and have a staff of expert designers, stone cutters, etc. They seek to satisfy the taste and individual desire of their customers.

ERECT AWNINGS AT LOW PRICES--COUCH

With the mercury ascending around the century mark, thousands of owners of homes, office buildings and business houses appreciate more than ever the value of their awnings, and those who have not equipped their establishments with awnings are feeling the discomfort of not having this protection.

The Atlanta Tent & Awning Company, with offices and factory located at East Point, Ga., not only emphasize the protection and beauty of having appropriate awnings of a durable and attractive quality, but point out that leading architects now are incorporating them in their designs for homes.

Established here more than 40 years ago, the Atlanta Tent & Awning Company has a staff of awning experts who are assisting home owners daily in the selection of designs and estimating the cost free of charge.

According to J. D. Couch, general manager of the concern, the firm has a variety of designs and color combinations of nearly 100. The wide variety of fabrics has been obtained to make all awnings harmonize with the color scheme of the painting on every home or other building for which awnings are provided, he said. He says it now is possible to make awnings a distinctively decorative feature of any home.

He further explained that the awnings installed by the company are all made to order at the plant of the company to suit exactly the requirements of each individual customer.

Mr. Couch declared that now is the time for home and building owners to either erect new awnings or replace old ones while prices are the lowest in years and while there is such a wide variety of colors and materials on hand. "Prices surely will not always remain at such low levels," he said.

REPAIR HOMES, BUILDINGS NOW SAYS WILLINGHAM

Considerable Money Can Be Saved by Taking Advantage of Low Prices for Labor and Materials. Service to Community.

"With the price of labor and materials in an overflowing abundance and at the lowest prices in history of the present generation, this is a splendid time to make those badly needed repairs," declared W. D. Willingham Jr., secretary and treasurer of the Willigham-Tift Lumber Company, Friday.

This is one of the largest and most conservative lumber companies in the south with their spacious establishment, covering an area of more than 11 acres, located at 866 Murphy avenue, S. W.

Mr. Willingham stressed the fact that home and building owners could not perform a more patriotic service to their community than by taking advantage of the low price of materials and labor and make these much-needed repairs.

"There are a great number of houses and buildings badly in need of repairs," he said. "And there are also a lot of good men idle, but they can be put to work if home and building owners will command them. Owners can save considerable money by doing this necessary work now. I have never known material and labor to be at such ridiculously low prices."

Mr. Willingham declared that his company is doing everything possible to keep their forces at work," and if those that are able will go ahead and place their orders for materials and call in these idle men to do their work, they will have served a great service for the community," he said.

Mr. Willingham expressed the belief that the bottom has been reached in the business setback, and unless something unforseen develops conditions will be better this fall and winter.

"I firmly believe that something is going to happen in the not distant future that will give business a healthy and long overdue stimulus," he said.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 16, 1932.

EQUALITY DOCTRINE UPHELD.

The plea of the railroads for equality of regulation among all forms of transportation is strengthened by decisions of the United States court upholding the laws of Texas and Kansas dealing with the operation of motor carriers in those states.

A wide scope is covered by the two decisions, the ruling on the Texas law confirming the right of a state to limit the size and weight of vehicles used on the public roads, and the Kansas decision establishing the right of taxation, including exemptions from taxation, granted in the wisdom of the proper state authority.

The Texas law limits the width of a vehicle, including load, to 96 inches, the height to 12 1-2 feet, the length to 35 feet and the length with trailers to 45 feet, farm implements being exempt from these limitations.

The Texas law was aimed primarily at the transportation of cotton, which the railroads of that state had found to provide destructive competition. The law limits the load of a single truck to 14 bales of not more than 7,000 pounds weight. Huge trucks with trailers carrying a considerably greater load of cotton were making the transportation costs lower than the rail lines could meet, and they were at the same time ruining the highways. Under the new weight limitation the transportation charge per bale is automatically raised to a point where the roads can successful compete for the business.

In its ruling on the Texas law the supreme court says that "In exercising its authority over its highways, the state is not limited to the raising of revenue for maintenance and reconstructions, nor to regulations as to the manner in which vehicles shall be operated, but the state may also prevent the wear and hazard due to excessive size of vehicles and weight of load."

In upholding the provision of this law that larger loads could be carried when being hauled from the point of origin to the nearest railway station, the court goes farther in holding:

> The state has a vital interest in the appropriate utilization of the railroads which serve its people, as well as in the proper maintenance of its highways as safe and convenient facilities. The state provides its highways and pays for their upkeep. Its people make railroad transportation possible by the payment of transportation charges. It cannot be said that the state is powerless to protect its highways from being subjected to excessive burdens when other means of transportation are available.

In the decision on the Kansas law the court deals frankly with the question of the destruction of the highways, holding that—

> These public highways have become the roadbeds of great transportation companies which are actively and seriously competing with the railroads which provide their own roadbeds; they are being used by concerns for the daily delivery of their products to every hamlet and village in the state. The highways are being pounded to pieces by these great trucks, which, combining weight with speed, are making the problem of maintenance well-nigh insoluble.

The decisions of the supreme court in these two cases will no doubt result in the enactment of new laws throughout the country, or in amendments strengthening laws now in existence.

The decisions firmly establish the doctrine of equality of regulation not only on the points at issue, but as to other restrictions, as between the railroads and the motorized transportation companies.

The juice of a South American plant is said to have the property of making the natives see visions of things which could never happen. Up here without the aid of drugs we're constantly seeing things that never could happen, but did.

Dr. Milliken has been spending hundreds of dollars and several years measuring the speed of light. After he finds out how fast it travels, wonder what he thinks he's going to do about it.

CONSTRUCTION PICKS UP.

A steadily increasing upward turn in construction in the southern states, reported by the Manufacturers Record, is significant and gratifying indication of the economic strengthening in this section.

The $43,000,000 total in large contracts awarded during June tops the May figures by 25 per cent and brings the total for the first six months of the year to $167,000,000.

That the climb in June over May is the continuance of a steady progress upward, and not merely a temporary increase, is shown by the fact that the May figures were 35 per cent larger than those for April.

While the greater portion of the work authorized during the first six months of 1932 is for state, county and municipal improvements, a significant increase in the June figures is shown in commercial building. Particularly is this true of the textile industry, which reports many improvements to buildings and the installation of new and improved machinery.

The figures announced by the Manufacturers Record are based only on large awards, and the statement is made that if small contracts had been included the total would undoubtedly have been in excess of $200,000,000.

Since construction and cotton textile activities have marked the turning point in every period of depression through which the country has gone, the figures presented by this outstanding southern business publication are an encouraging and concrete evidence of the basic turn towards normalcy in the south.

As the usual thing, the fellow who is yelling so loudly for more liberty is the one who already is taking too many liberties.

OVERBURDENED AGRICULTURE.

The world's agriculture is now struggling to rehabilitate itself under the burden of the greatest variety and a more widespread application of artificial price-supporting measures than ever before in modern times, according to L. R. Edminister, economist of federal department of agriculture.

An equal upsetting of established methods of production and marketing would bring ruin to any line of business in existence. It is no wonder that under such a worldwide condition of political and governmental meddling the farming interests of every country on the globe are at their lowest ebb in many years.

Japan has tried to stabilize silk at an artificial price, and failed; Brazil is still destroying huge stocks of coffee which was impounded by the government in the hope that prices would be inflated; in the United States the federal farm board has worse than squandered a half billion dollars in the vain attempt to successfully combat the law of supply and demand.

Whether the experience in other countries suggests action to be emulated or avoided in the United States, thinks Mr. Edminister, "it is important that it should be examined."

These experiments have been going on for more than a decade, having started in some of the European countries shortly after the World War, and the result is that agriculture collectively is farther down the scale than ever before known.

It is not likely that the suggested examination of the "experiences" of foreign agriculture under the destructive influences of governmental meddling will be received with an enthusiastic welcome in the United States.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

The Revolution Goes On.

Side by side with enterprises which other nations would shrink from attempting, staggering undertakings such as the successful attempt to produce as much hydro-electric energy as America, stands the purely human aspect of the bolshevik revolution. On the one side it is something so heroic that it must fill one inevitably with amazement and admiration. And on the other side one cannot escape a feeling of deep pathos. Life in Russia at present is like a mighty river that, frozen up during the winter months, now has broken its bounds of steel-like ice and is thundering and roaring its way toward the sea, tearing away chunks from the shores, carrying everything with it on that tempestuous course with irresistible force.

The revolution has no mercy. It destroys its own children, its leaders with the immense tasks they set themselves. It uses up its best men in astonishingly short time. The work is so intense, without any let-up, without the slightest slowing down in its tempo, that men are worn out in a few years. Their place is taken by others, who in turn catch the fever of creative work and are physically destroyed by it in record time.

That is the pathos of the revolution. And, I must admit, for I want to remain truthful and objective, that this phase of the gigantic overturn grips my heart with terror because of its unparalleled cruelty, its inexorable determination. The more so, because in the final analysis the bolshevik experiment aims at the transformation of life and the betterment of men. In this transition period that aim is not realized. Later, surely, but for the moment it uses up human life like so much material. But then again, I must say, there are no greater idealists than those who willingly and consciously throw themselves into this vortex, knowing that it will sap their strength and render them useless in a few years, in the hope that through their sacrifice a better world may come into existence.

Peasants Come To Cities.

At the end of the war, Russia had approximately 3,000,000 industrial workers. In the last five years this number has risen to 20,000,000. This means that 17,000,000 peasants, strongly attached to the soil, left that soil and came to the cities. As a result the population of Moscow alone trebled in the last ten years. And still the cityward movement goes on. As in Leningrad, so in Moscow I saw train upon train of peasants debarking in the city. They come bringing their belongings in sacks and bundles and suitcases, battalions, regiments and armies of them.

It's like a great new crusade, a crusade of labor this time. For a moment the mass of the newcomers seems bewildered, don't know what step next to take, where to go, where to sleep. But they find their way. And in an astonishingly short time. Moscow absorbs them like Leningrad in a day. It's obvious that under such circumstances there must be overcrowding and there is. Yet every family has now a minimum of two rooms at its disposal. It used to be only one. And this again shows how much building there must have been in the last few years. Not only was space found for the newcomers, that is to say building did not only keep peace with the immigration, but it outstripped the influx by 100 per cent.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

PHYSICAL EDUCATION IS NOT HEALTH CULTURE.

When the high school teacher who trains his pupils in football rises to defend biology from my attacks on the farce the high schools make of human physiology and anatomy, we are getting off the mat a bit. That is perhaps one of the principal reasons why both hygiene and physical education are so inadequately dealt with in our common schools. There is no more intimate association or relation between physical training and physiology or hygiene than there is between chemistry and general housework, perhaps not as much, yet everywhere the two subjects are confusedly jumbled together in an aimless way and if there is no official physical instructor the whole silly mess is left to the mercy of whatever teacher happens to have some spare time or even a nurse if she has nothing else to do.

I am aware that students in schools or colleges of physical education receive instruction in anatomy and physiology, and I am aware that students of nursing in some schools, as well as students of medicine and students of the arts in some colleges, receive more or less physical education. But I do not believe such training qualifies any individual to teach both physical education and physiology and hygiene in any school.

Human anatomy is at least as important as algebra, from any point of view. A fair elementary knowledge of anatomy, such as any eighth grade pupil could gain in a term, is absolutely essential as a preliminary to the study of physiology, and physical education has practically nothing to do with the question.

Before anyone can hope to learn how to keep well, and that is the purpose of all study of hygiene, he must have a fundamental knowledge of physiology. He must know how the body works when it is normal if he hopes to care for it intelligently when it is sick or working abnormally. Such a knowledge of physiology sufficient for his needs could be obtained by every school pupil if the study of physiology were given its proper consideration in the school curriculum. If it is a small school with only one teacher for science, the science teacher should be required to have the same proficiency for teaching physiology as he has for teaching physics.

The practice of including little smatterings of alleged physiology in a shortcut joblot course which staggers along under the ponderous title of "Biology" is just one of those cheap tricks of freak educators, opportunists, faddists, who have evidently achieved the ascendancy in educational administration for the time being.

As long as the schools follow the present dumb policy the people of this country will remain what they are now, a fine lot of prospects for every conceivable line of hokum that bids for patronage with health appeal.

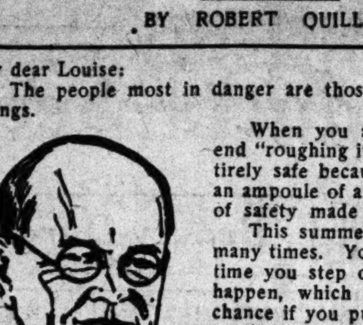
Letters From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise:

The people most in danger are those who have faith in the wrong things.



ROBERT QUILLEN

When you and your crowd spent a week-end "roughing it" in the mountains, you felt entirely safe because one of the boys took along an ampoule of antivenin. Doubtless that feeling of safety made you more careless than usual.

This summer you will be in snake country many times. You may disturb a rattler the next time you step over a log. And if that should happen, which God forbid, you won't have a chance if you put your faith in "cures."

Antivenin serves a purpose, but it won't save your life—nor will solutions or crystals of potassium permanganate or any other chemical known to man.

People have faith in these things because they seem to counteract the effect of venom, but the only people they "save" are those who didn't get enough poison to kill them.

The minimum fatal dose of a rattler's venom is one milligram to each pound of your weight. And big rattlers kept on snake farms have ejected as much as 640 milligrams at a stroke. That dose would kill six like you.

Now figure the worth of your trusted antivenin. It is put up in little glass bottles called ampoules. Each ampoule contains 10 c. c. of serum and is supposed to neutralize only 15 milligrams of poison. To neutralize the big snake's 540 milligrams you would have to inject 45 ampoules—which would cost over $300.

Don't depend on it, child.

There is only one safe treatment for the bite of a poisonous snake. You can tell the poison ones, for the pain is intense and violent. First bind a ligature above the puncture. A handkerchief will do. Then make crossed incisions half an inch deep and equally wide at each puncture. Then suck. Use a suction pump if you have it. Or use your mouth. And keep up the suction for half an hour. That will save you, and nothing else will.

Loosen the ligature every 15 minutes to prevent gangrene. The venom is absorbed very slowly, for it destroys every cell it touches. If it spreads, make new incisions at the edge of the swelling and again suck out the venom and bloody lymph.

Use your antivenin to neutralize the venom that gets into your blood stream. It will do that. But suck the poison out. If you don't, your blood will still be absorbing it 18 hours later—if you live that long.

Only one snake in 10 ejects enough venom to prove fatal, but you can't take a chance. Keep your head; cut, bleed and suck.

And send somebody hotfoot for me. Love. DAD.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 15.—A salary cut no longer is news in Hollywood, but the announcement sent out by Loew's, Inc., to its employes throughout the world stating that the entire staff of Loew's, Inc., M.-G.-M. and all other subsidiaries will receive a cut in wages next week has thrown Hollywood into a mild panic.

All this because professionals consider M.-G.-M. more or less of a barometer of the condition of our industry today, as this studio has managed to keep things going and come out financially on top as well.

According to the story that is current in Hollywood, the salary cuts will range from 5 to 30 per cent, depending on the amount of the original pay check.

It is said that the members of Loew's organization will make less fuss about accepting this cut than have the workers in any other studio, as they have felt all along that M.-G.-M. was in the lead financially, and would never ask their employes to take a reduction in salary unless it was imperative.

Let's hope that this move is more of a defensive measure than one caused by absolute necessity.

Do you remember when Ramon Novarro made such a hit in "The Arab" in the old silent days? Well, you'll have a chance to see him again in this same story, as he intends to make it into a talkie as his next starring vehicle.

Ramon Novarro has been making picture for M.-G.-M. for 10 years now, and is the only actor on the screen today who has maintained such a fan following over this number of years.

John Gilbert, who has nearly finished making his own story, "Downstairs," will go into the cast of "Red Dust" next.

Jean Harlow will play oppisite him in this story of an Indo-China rubber plantation.

Which looks as if the famous John were far from being licked by the talkies, as was once predicted.

Georgia Heroes Of the World War

By Sergeant L. E. Jaeckel
(All Rights Reserved.)

CHARLES W. FLINK, coxswain, U. S. navy, awarded the navy cross for heroic and distinguished services in the line of his profession while serving as a member of the armed guard of the steamship Lake Ownes.

When that vessel was torpedoed on September 3, 1918, in the night, the commander of the guard was injured and rendered unconscious in his stateroom. Flink took charge and manned the guns, but the submarine could not be seen. The merchant crew abandoned the ship, which was sinking rapidly. Flink then carried the unconscious commander to the boats, the main deck then being awash, and with disregard for his own danger, saw that his superior was comfortably situated before he himself would consent to take his place in the boat.

ANOTHER RECORD MELTED BY HEAT

with a flair for fun were remembering that Mark Twain once said: "Everybody talks about the weather but nobody does anything about it." Even this bit of classic humor found few people with enough reserve strength to smile.

Showers at a few points saved portions of Dixie from an expected scorching but nowhere was there as much as the proverbial faint promise of relief.

As the mercury climbed past the record mark, Police Commissioner James P. Allman issued an order prohibiting use of water by residents to sprinkle roof tops and sidewalks. So many people were trying to cool off the air in this way, he said, the water pressure had fallen from 35 to 15 pounds a square inch and the city was in danger if a fire broke out.

The record-breaking temperature here was not, however, as high as that in many cities to the west and south. Kansas City reported a temperature of 101; Concordia, Kan., 102; St. Louis, 100; Shreveport, La., 102; Yuma, Ariz., 106, and Omaha, 100.

Charlotte, N. C., felt fairly comfortable with a high reading of 95, the result of afternoon showers. The top Thursday was 101.1. Columbia, S. C., had 97 at noon, but breezes and clouds came to the rescue. Virginia was a little cooler with a top of 94 at Richmond.

Terrific heat continued in the main portion of the cotton belt, so much so that traders began to fear the crop would be damaged and the staple rose $1 a bale on the New Orleans market as a result. Early Friday afternoon New Orleans had a reading of 97.7, while Biloxi, Miss., recorded 100.

Montgomery Has 99.

Montgomery, Ala., had 99, the highest temperature of the year, with 98 to 102 expected today. Birmingham's 97 also was a season record.

Nashville, Tenn., had a high of 95, which was not quite up to the season record set during the present heat wave. "Continued warm for a day or two," the forecaster said there.

Jacksonville and Tampa, Fla., both had new season records, Jacksonville at 99.2 on top of a 13-story building and Tampa at 97. Jacksonville residents only felt the hotter for a brief shower. Miami's temperature failed to reach the season record of 90, set Thursday. West Palm Beach had 92. St. Petersburg had 93, one degree under the 17-year record set Wednesday.

At Savannah, Ga., a reading of 99.5 was the highest of the summer. The previous high was 99, on June 23.

MORE THAN FORTY DEAD IN NATIONWIDE HEAT WAVE

CHICAGO, July 15.—(UP)—A blistering heat wave which caused more than 40 deaths and sent temperatures soaring to all-time records in many cities gripped midcontinent states today from the Canadian border to the Gulf of Mexico and from the Rocky mountains to Pennsylvania.

Upwards of two score deaths were attributed directly or indirectly to the heat and hundreds of prostrations were reported.

Weather bureaus predicted relief soon for some sections, but indications were the heat wave would continue for perhaps several days in most of the 30 states affected and that it might become as serious as the prolonged wave which took 1,500 lives in 1930.

In many of the states today was the sixth in succession that record or near record-breaking temperatures were experienced. Chicago and other cities on the Great Lakes had obtained one day of relief through cooling lake breezes but today these breezes were stilled and the temperature here soared at 2 p. m. to 96 degrees, equalling the all-time record for July 15.

Talladassee, Fla., and Florence, S. C., battled it out among the high ones but the best either could do was 104 degrees. Other high spots included Columbia, S. C., at 101; Charleston at 100; Orangeburg, S. C., at 101; Macon, Ga., 101.8, and Texarkana, Ark., 102.

At least three deaths in Chicago and about 18 in other cities were attributed directly to the heat. Sixteen persons drowned among the hundreds of thousands who sought relief at the beaches and lakes throughout the 30 states. In Nebraska a man committed suicide when the heat became so excessive he felt he could stand it no longer.

The heat in Kansas became so intense that farmers changed their working hours from sun-up to sun-down to sun-down to sun-up. On many of the great wheat ranches horses and mules were dropping dead in the fields when forced to work under the midday sun which sent temperatures higher than 100.

The heat wave, threatening to become another national catastrophe unless relief comes soon, had, nevertheless, some lighter features.

In Aberdeen, Miss., ministers announced they would hold joint church services at a swimming pool Sunday and that if any worshipper wished to wear his swimming suit it would be all right.

John Sweeney, of Rock Island, Ill., decided during the night to step through his bedroom window onto the roof to cool off. The roof, it happened, was two stories down. He suffered many bruises but no broken bones.

Policeman Francis Plunkett, of Chicago, faced a trying problem when a big police dog jumped into the fountain at Fountain Square to cool off. Plunkett coaxed in vain and was about to go into the water after the dog when a passerby suggested using an ice cream cone as "bait." The dog left the pool immediately to get the cone.

A Chicago girl appeared in a suburban department store dressed only in a bathing suit and carrying her pocket book. She assured clerks that she was shopping. When she was allowed to remain, the news spread rapidly and by noon the store was crowded with girls in swimming suits. On a crowded Loop street a checkup disclosed every tenth person was wearing a bathing suit, on his way to one of the beaches. Park officials estimated that more than a quarter million persons were at the beaches during the day.

TALMADGE ATTACKS 'LAST-MINUTE' BILLS

Would Veto Any Legislation Passed After Clock Is Turned Back.

BLAIRSVILLE, Ga., July 15.—Commissioner of Agriculture Eugene Talmadge bitterly attacked legislation by the Georgia general assembly in the closing minutes of the biennial sessions after the clock had been set back to prevent sine die adjournment, in his speech here this morning. Talmadge in his speech also attacked his nine opponents in his race for governor.

After declaring that he would veto, if elected governor, any last-minute bills rushed through by politician and lobbiest, Talmadge was given an enthusiastic greeting by the audience which packed the courthouse.

Talmadge took as his main subject the muzzling of the market bulletin by the last legislature. He charged that after all attempts to impeach him had failed, his enemies "went to the last meeting of the legislature after midnight, and when the session had legally ended, turned back the clock in violation of law and lobbied through the famous rider completely preventing me from giving any messages to the farmer.

"If you elect me governor, I pledge the people that when the time comes for the legislature to adjourn, if any midnight to sun-up legislation takes place, I'll veto it. In other words, the lobbyists and politicians will not have an opportunity to tack on riders and defeat the will of the people, for I'll prevent it by the veto."

Talmadge spoke for an hour and a half and received many assurances of support. He was introduced by Frank Dyer, a prominent farmer of Union county.

Talmadge's voice was husky from the strenuous campaigning which he has conducted for the past two weeks, but his ardor was undiminished by the slight throat irritation.

He poured scorn upon his nine adversaries in the gubernatorial race, assailed the federal farm board, laughed at his ancient bugbear, the cotton co-ops, and ended with a perroration which brought the crowd to its feet.

Promising relief to the dairymen who have been suffering from powdered milk importation, Talmadge urged adoption of strict regulations for the milk trade and urged that this be done at the next general assembly. "Do this and make a cow worth something," the commissioner urged.

Talmadge termed the tax exemption plan offered by Hardwick, also a candidate, as "a Trojan horse." Talmadge stated that in his home county of Telfair this plan would only allow two negroes to pay their taxes and would exempt approximately 65 per cent of the white citizens.

The commissioner introduced many statistics and figures into his address, dealing at great length with reduction of freight rates and adequate taxation of trucks and busses. He cited fundamental laws of economics to show the causes and effects of the present farm slump in Georgia.

In concluding his address Mr. Talmadge urged the audience to consider platforms in the present race and to pay no heed to the things which would divert their minds from the real issues at stake.

BIG CROWD AT CLAYTON HEARS TALMADGE SPEAK

CLAYTON, Ga., July 15.—Eugene Talmadge spoke to a crowded courthouse this afternoon at Clayton in his campaign for governor. Hon. Lamar Smith, an attorney of Clayton, introduced him as the next governor of Georgia and he was given a splendid reception when he arose to speak. In opening his speech he paid tribute to Judge Logan E. Bleckley, whom he described as without a peer in Georgia and without a superior in the United States.

He continued to describe Hardwick and Holder as "the Siamese twins," running for both governor and chairman of the highway department at the same time and on the same ticket. He described his opponents as a baseball team against him with Holder pitching and Hardwick catching. He said, "Hardwick as catcher calls to the pitcher, honest John Holder, and says, 'Honest John, throw me a crooked ball.' If you people help me I'll knock that crooked ball clean over the fence and make a home run on September 14."

At the end of his speech a large part of the audience crowded around Talmadge and pledged their support to him.

CRISP DECLINES TO MEET RUSSELL IN DEBATE TODAY

rest preliminary to the campaign, he had asked Fort to "pinch hit" for him at Blackshear. The governor's challenge for a joint debate to the candidate, and his reference to Fort, it was explained, moved the Columbus lawyer to withdraw acceptance of an invitation to attend the rally as the congressman's representative.

Crisp's next speaking engagement is at Americus on Wednesday. His home folks are planning a barbecue for 10,000 people and the address will be made in the city park. An American Legion band will furnish music for the celebration.

Governor Russell, prevented from going to Twin Lakes Thursday by official business, resumed his campaign at Cromer's mill, in Franklin county, Friday with a speech in which he renewed his assault on the acting chairman of the house ways and means committee for the action of the conference committee on the tax bill concerning a direct levy upon consumers of electric current.

Permanent organization of the Terrell county Crisp-for-Senate Club will be perfected at a Crisp rally to be held in the county courthouse at Dawson Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, Crisp supporters in Terrell announced Friday.

Henry T. McIntosh, editor of the Albany Herald, will be the principal speaker.

BLACKSHEAR RALLY TO HEAR SPEECHES BY MANY ASPIRANTS

While several of the candidates for governor are speaking at other places today, a large number of candidates for state office, other than for the senate, will take part in the six-county rally at Blackshear today.

Among those who left Atlanta Friday were R. F. Burch, state supervisor of purchases and candidate for commissioner of agriculture; W. H. Duckworth, candidate for attorney-general, and Judge I. H. Sutton, candidate to succeed himself on the court of appeals.

Continuing a week's speaking drive which began in south Georgia and saw him move up state, Eugene Talmadge, at Blairsville, attacked the legislative rider of 1931 which took from him the right to write editorials in the Market Bulletin and asserted that, if elected governor, he would veto any legislation "passed between midnight and sun up."

John N. Holder, former chairman of the state highway department formally launched his campaign for the governorship [illegible] at 6:45 o'clock, [illegible]

LEAGUE TO SPONSOR ECONOMIC MEETING

GENEVA, July 15.—(AP)—The council of the League of Nations today became the sponsor for an international financial and economic conference and although the place and date were not officially mentioned, it was understood the gathering would probably come in October either at London or Geneva.

The council set up a combination of political and technical organizations to prepare the way for the conference which was projected by the Lausanne agreement July 8, and to which the United States was invited.

The progress of preparations will determine the date but a lively argument may come in September before the assemble of the League.

ANTI-U. S. MOVE DENIED BY PARIS

tee was issued. As quoted in the London press, and as paraphrased in other capitals, the statement was:

"In the future no problem affecting the interests of France and Great Britain can be treated separately by either government. The American consequence of the new pact (the Franco-British pact) will be that Great Britain cannot as in 1923 undertake in the future to make payment to the United States for settlement of debts without previously consulting the French government. The certainty of a concerted attitude is henceforth an acquired fact which will facilitate success in negotiations with Washington."

The Lausanne conference on war debts and reparations ended in an agreement July 8, which bonded German reparations at around $712,000,000. This was supplemented by a "gentlemen's agreement" among the former allied powers, that the Lausanne agreement shall not be ratified until a satisfactory settlement has and Great Britain signed their accord been made of war debts. Then France for consultation on all European problems. There was no reference to the United States in the text of this accord.

SEEKING TO COOL SELF, MACON MAN DROWNS IN RIVER

MACON, Ga., July 15.—(AP)—To cool himself off, James Brooks, 27, jumped into the Ocmulgee river below the Spring street bridge early tonight and drowned in the swift deep current. His body has not been recovered.

J. C. Hudson, who had been fishing with Brooks in the late afternoon, undressed and jumped into the stream in trying to rescue Brooks. Hudson became exhausted a few feet from Brooks, but reached a sandbar and then called for help from the Macon Motorboat Club.

Hudson told police that he had begged Brooks not to go in swimming. He said Brooks swam across the stream once and returned safely and went down on his second effort.

Brooks came to Macon from Augusta about a year ago, where his mother, Mrs. Susie Edwards, resides. Brooks' wife is a daughter of W. R. Balch, of Stoneham, Mass.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID MRS. MARY K. COOLEY

GAINESVILLE, Ga., July 15.—Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Kytle Cooley, [illegible] Hall county woman, and mother of the late Johnny S. Kytle, famous southern aviator, who died Tuesday at the residence at Leo, Ga., two miles south of Cleveland, after a long illness, were held Wednesday afternoon at the Concord Baptist church, Clermont. The services were conducted by Revs. Homer Humphreys and D. B. Rutledge. Interment was in the cemetery there.

Mrs. Cooley was born and reared in Hall county and was a member of a pioneer family, being the daughter of the late J. W. and Caroline Haynes, of Clermont. She had been a member of the Baptist church since girlhood. She was prominent in the social, civic and religious life of her community.

Beside her second husband, Colonel J. D. Cooley, prominent White county citizen, she is survived by a son, R. C. Kytle, of Leo; a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Johnny S. Kytle, and grandson, Johnny S. Kytle Jr.; one sister, Mrs. Julia DeLong, of this city; five brothers, G. C., Joe M. and P. M. Haynes, of Americus, and several stepchildren.

tends freedom to the states and in the next breath takes it right away from them."

"Their plans," she declared, "make it possible for congress to re-enact the Volstead act, and would launch the country "upon an experiment far more uncertain and confusing than the 18th amendment itself, which at least is specific in its terms."

She asked whether, when the republicans pledged themselves to preserve the gains made under the 18th amendment, they meant "the speakeasies, gangsters, hypocrites and lawbreakers."

After a brief analysis of the democratic plank, she said: "In other words, the democratic party believes that the people of the several states can be trusted."

KENTUCY WOMEN INDORSE ROOSEVELT

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 15.—(AP) Officers and members of the executive committee of the Kentucky branch of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform indorsed the action of the national executive committee in urging its members to vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt for president in a statement issued here today.

Mrs. James Ross Todd, a republican and chairman of the Kentucky committee, issued the statement. Mrs. Todd pointed out that the indorsement was based on the organization's support of the repeal plank and not on the entire democratic platform.

The officers of the Kentucky branch, the statement said, reiterated their intention of working for the election of "repeal candidates irrespective of party."

Mrs. Todd's son, Jouett Ross Todd, is seeking the republican congressional nomination in the third district.

RELIEF PASSAGE AND ADJOURNMENT HOPED FOR TODAY

ing construction of self-sustaining projects.

The house record vote on adoption of the relief conference report was 286 to 48.

The house also approved a conference report on legislation extending the agricultural loan provisions of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to crops and live stock production, including poultry, dairy farming and summer fallowing during the year 1932.

Following assurance from President Hoover that he would sign the bill the Reconstruction Corporation sent a letter to the conferees stating:

"Such a provision (for publicity on all future loans by the Reconstruction Corporation) is against the public interest and may result in irreparable damage. No one can contend that the publication of the names of the 3,600 banks that have borrowed from this corporation will tend to strengthen their position.

"In the opinion of the board, this provision, if enacted into law, would undo much that has been accomplished by this corporation in preserving the credit structure of the nation, and, in a large measure, restrict its usefulness in the future."

They recommended, but to no avail, that a congressional committee be set up to investigate its books at all times. The house insistence upon the language of the publicity provision was absolute.

As finally agreed upon the bill bears the general outline of the measure drawn up by senate democrats weeks ago and approved by the senate at that time.

It provides an emergency fund of $300,000,000 for immediate relief loans to states and municipalities upon the basis of need; a $322,000,000 public construction program and an expansion of $1,500,000,000 in the Reconstruction Corporation's capital to make loans encouraging employment.

put the check through they ordered him to hold up his hands. Brasch complied and the two men came around behind the cage. One placed a pair of cheap handcuffs on his wrists and then gagged him with a handkerchief.

Customer Is Robbed.

As the two directed Brasch to enter the open safe, Cecil McKoy, 24, a Grantville garage proprietor, entered to get change for a $5 bill. He, too, was ordered into the vault, the bandits taking his $5 bill and a pocketbook containing some papers. The two then scooped up all the money in sight, slammed shut the safe, ran to their waiting car and fled.

As Pendergrast and Wilson jumped into the car they spilled a quantity of silver on the sidewalk. This attracted the attention of R. L. Bohannon, who rushed into the bank. He heard the pounding of Brasch and McKoy on the safe door and after the latter had removed Brasch's gag the cashier shouted the combination to Bohannon and he soon opened the safe.

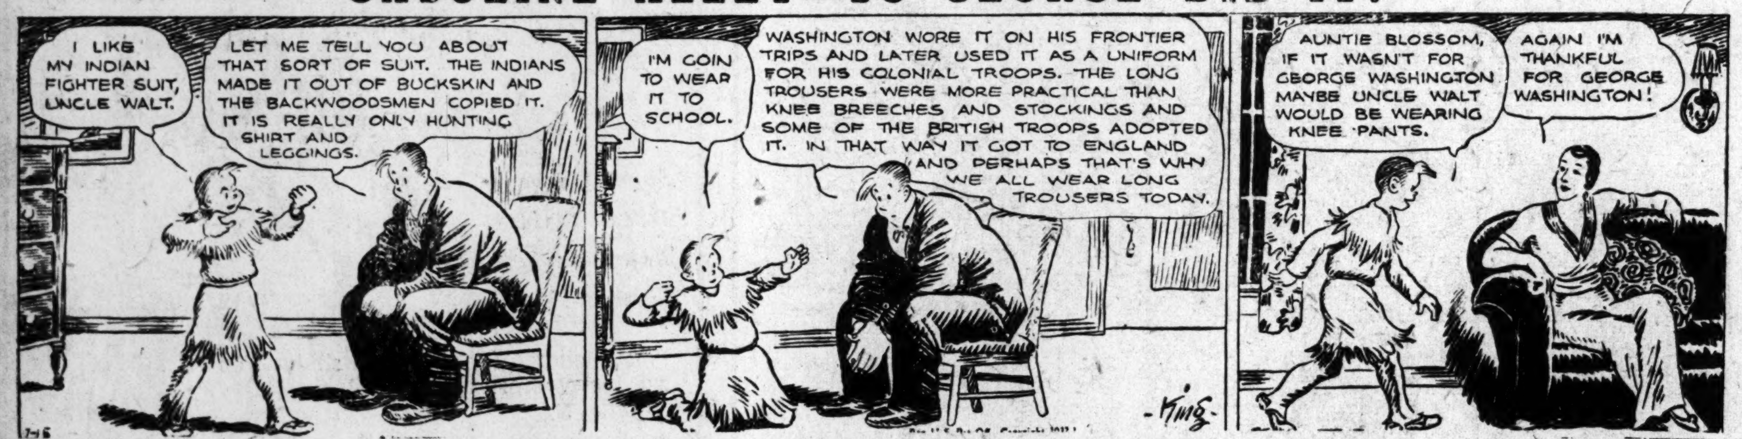
GASOLINE ALLEY—SO GEORGE DID IT?



I LIKE MY INDIAN FIGHTER SUIT, UNCLE WALT.
LET ME TELL YOU ABOUT THAT SORT OF SUIT. THE INDIANS MADE IT OUT OF BUCKSKIN AND THE BACKWOODSMEN COPIED IT. IT IS REALLY ONLY HUNTING SHIRT AND LEGGINGS.
I'M GOIN TO WEAR IT TO SCHOOL.
WASHINGTON WORE IT ON HIS FRONTIER TRIPS AND LATER USED IT AS A UNIFORM FOR HIS COLONIAL TROOPS. THE LONG TROUSERS WERE MORE PRACTICAL THAN KNEE BREECHES AND STOCKINGS AND SOME OF THE BRITISH TROOPS ADOPTED IT. IN THAT WAY IT GOT TO ENGLAND AND PERHAPS THAT'S WHY WE ALL WEAR LONG TROUSERS TODAY.
AUNTIE BLOSSOM, IF IT WASN'T FOR GEORGE WASHINGTON MAYBE UNCLE WALT WOULD BE WEARING KNEE PANTS.
AGAIN I'M THANKFUL FOR GEORGE WASHINGTON!

BABES ON BROADWAY

by JANE DIXON

SYNOPSIS.

Tony Brookes was 18 when her father and mother were killed in an automobile accident at Centerville, her home town. She had intended to study art but her capital had dwindled to $12 before she got a job in Madame Simone's dress shop in New York. Her frankness in telling women what they could not wear soon brought her dismissal on the same day that Leslie (Lee) Moran, a model, was discharged. Lee had no money and Tony shared her third-floor back room at Mrs. Higgins' with her. Before Tony got a job at an art gallery, Lee became a taxi dancer at El Tango, where she met Adam Leonard, whom she called Uncle Lenny. He was a kindly looking man between 50 and 60. Tom Stewart, a young engineer in love with Lee, missed her at Mrs. Higgins'. Tony fell in love with him at once and tried to bring herself to tell Lee. Lee had insisted that Tony go out for an evening with Leonard and an out-of-town friend, Donald Kemp. As they were leaving a night club, Leonard's wife saw them and made a scene. Leonard had been unhappily married and Kemp, a lawyer, arranged for Mrs. Leonard to get a divorce. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

"He didn't have time to get the monogram. I'm to get it myself, with some of this." She snapped open the bag and drew out a packet of bills neatly caught in a gold clip.

"Oh, Lee, you shouldn't have allowed him to do it." Tony stroked the velvet leather. "Suppose you were watched. You know they've been following you."

"Ye-ah, just suppose." Lee wreathed her arms above her head. "What are they going to do about it? There's no law against a friend giving you a present, is there? Uncle Lenny told me not to open the pocketbook until I got home. I didn't know what was in it myself until this minute. Let's take a count. Not so bad. Not bad at all. Five hundred raspberries. A fair night's work. And I'll tell the cock-eyed world that Clara Leonard can bawl me out seven nights in the week at $500 a bawl."

Tony put down the purse, placed her hands on Lee's syncopating shoulders.

"You've got to give it back," she said. "If you want to keep the bag, I don't suppose it would matter so much. But the money—how are you going to spend it?"

"Pal, oh pal, you'd be surprised. Clothes, good-bye Higgins, an apartment with elevator and doorman—there, it's all spent."

"You've forgotten Tom Stewart. How are you going to account to him for this sudden fortune?"

Lee tossed her head. "Why should I account to Tom? It's none of his business. Did he—ask you things?" suspiciously.

"No. Of course not. But he will ask you—if there's an understanding between you." Why had she added that if? Because she wanted to know. She must know if there was a definite promise between Lee and Tom.

Not that it mattered, ever could matter again. Tom's eyes would never carry the tocsin torch, the age-old signal fire of mate to mate, for her. Last night, when she went with him to supper, she had extinguished any remotest hope that such a light might be kindled. She had been frivolous. She had been disgustingly light-minded and dishonest. She had prattled of "parties," of "speakies," of "my heavy suitor from the west." That meant Donald Kemp. Donald Kemp was not her suitor. He was scarcely an acquaintance.

How had she endured, almost enjoyed the pain that had come into Tom Stewart's eyes with her revelations of a self that was as foreign to her as plumes are to Plymouth Rock hens? Maybe she wasn't a Plymouth Rock hen . . . exactly . . . but neither was she a peacock nor a bird of paradise as she had vaunted.

Oh, well, the song was ended. And if the melody lingered on it would die out, as the light had died, the torch had flickered to swimming darkness in Tom Stewart's eyes. One didn't go on suffering indefinitely. Pain is its antidote. It kills itself with its own poignancy.

Tony remembered that Lee had not risen to the bait of that "if." Lee had not said whether or not there was an understanding between her and Tom. Heart be still. Stop leaping. Lee simply does not think the implied question worth answering. She takes it for granted you know she is promised to Tom.

"Listen to this, angel." Lee unrolled her hair and pinned it in "squews" as a precaution against the morrow when she would release ash-blonde curls to an admiring world. "I'm taking up correspondence. I'm going to be the correspondent in Uncle Lenny's divorce."

Tony dropped the plate she was carrying to the washery behind the screen.

"You—you mean—you—"

"Exactly. Pull yourself together, my dear. It isn't anything like it sounds. Just nice undercover stuff and swell pay for doing nothing except be myself. I'm not Lee Moran at all." Lee burlesqued her idea of a court scene: "'You have me wrong, Judge. I'm Miss X, the unknown quantity. I'm the hussy who was found with that sterling citizen and patron of the arts, Mr. Adam Leonard.' 'You don't tell me, Miss X? Well, Mr. Leonard, what have you to say about this?' 'Nothing, your honor, I admit all.' 'Very well, sir, I shall award your noble wife, Clara, a divorce, lump sum and so many hundred dollars a week while you both shall live. Next victim, please.'"

"But you're not guilty of anything," Tony protested. "I shouldn't think Mr. Leonard would ask a girl to place such a stigma on herself."

"He didn't. I asked myself. In fact, I insisted. There had to be someone, so why not me? Uncle Lenny bucked like a mule. I gave him to understand I cared too much for him to have any other woman messed up in his life. After that he weakened. He'll give me anything I think is right for helping to see him through. I'm shooting for five thousand dollars."

"Oh, Lee," reproachfully. "You wouldn't sell your right to look the world in the face for five thousand dollars?"

"The world isn't going to know. You seem to forget I'm Miss X, the lady of mystery."

"Yes, but if something should happen you'd either have to be a perjurer or be branded one."

"I'll take the chance," defiantly, "for five thousand dollars."

Tony thought: "Now I must play my trump card. Now she will realize how impossible it is to go on. What about Tom? Do you think it fair to turn over to him a woman who has been branded in the divorce courts?"

Lee sat for a while, hands tightly clasped over knees, eyes staring into space. Her defiance was giving way to something furtive, sinister. Tony held her breath for Lee's answer.

Looking back at Tony, finally, Lee answered her with a question.

"How long do you think it would take me, on the jobs I've had," she said, "to save $5,000? How long will it take Tom Stewart to get that much money together when it's almost as much as he makes in a couple of years?

"I tell you I may never have another chance to put my hands on so much cash. Ye gods—to have a roll like that, all your own! I told you when we lost our jobs at Simone's I was going out to get some of the easy money and these good times that are rolling around. Well, my dear, things seem to be rolling right into my lap. As for Tom—I haven't really done anything—that way. It's only pretending, like in a play."

. . . .

Donald Kemp arrived in the city and took the entire matter of the Leonard embroglio in hand. He was a lawyer of note, it developed. Under his sure and skillful hand the machinery of settlement began to function smoothly. He knew how to handle Clara Leonard. Only once did she unleash her temper for him. It was for the purpose of stampeding him into raising the figure Adam Leonard offered her for his freedom.

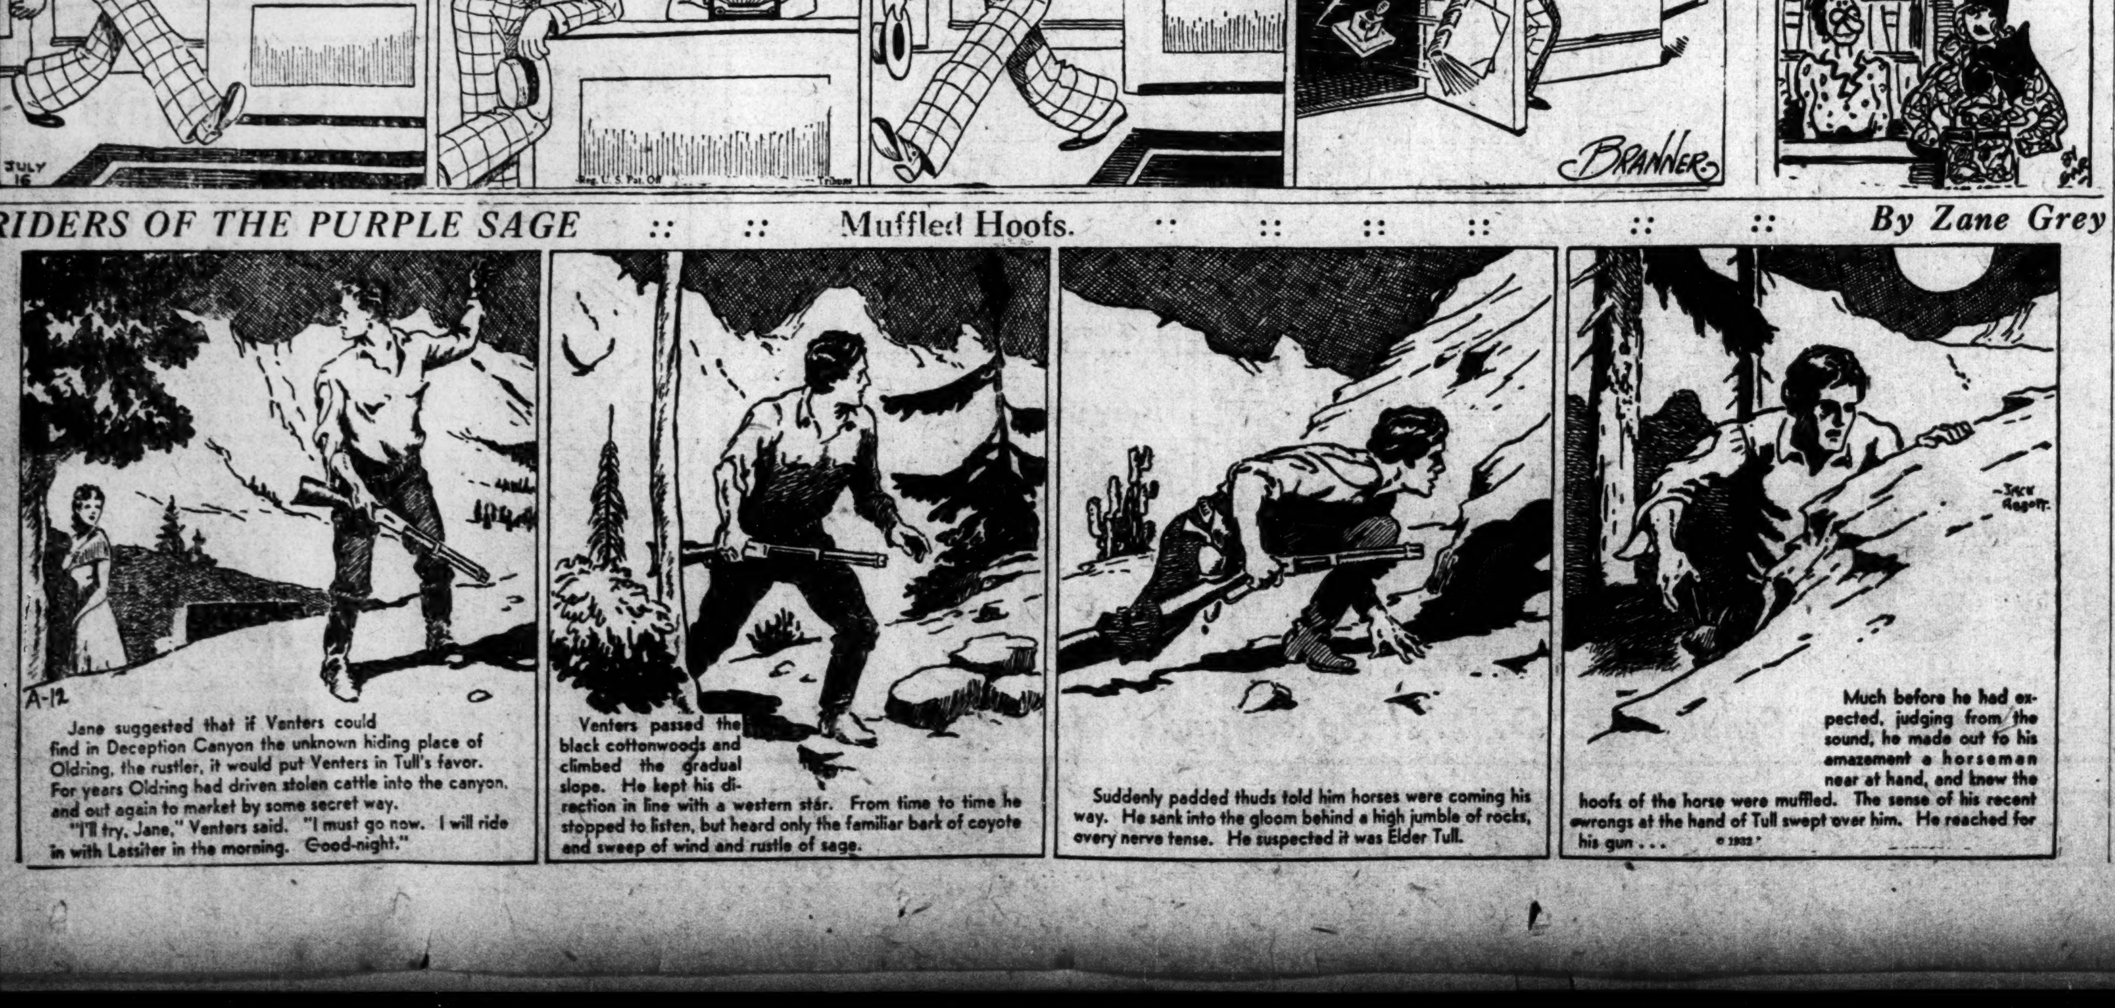
RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE :: :: Muffled Hoofs. :: :: :: :: :: :: By Zane Grey



Jane suggested that if Venters could find in Deception Canyon the unknown hiding place of Oldring, the rustler, it would put Venters in Tull's favor. For years Oldring had driven stolen cattle into the canyon, and out again to market by some secret way.

"I'll try, Jane," Venters said. "I must go now. I will ride in with Lassiter in the morning. Good-night."

Venters passed the black cottonwoods and climbed the gradual slope. He kept his direction in line with a western star. From time to time he stopped to listen, but heard only the familiar bark of coyote and sweep of wind and rustle of sage.

Suddenly padded thuds told him horses were coming his way. He sank into the gloom behind a high jumble of rocks, every nerve tense. He suspected it was Elder Tull.

Much before he had expected, judging from the sound, he made out to his amazement a horseman near at hand, and knew the hoofs of the horse were muffled. The sense of his recent wrongs at the hand of Tull swept over him. He reached for his gun . . .

JUNGLE CRASH VICTIM FOUND AFTER 18 DAYS

Companion of American Airman Reported Killed in Accident.

MEXICO CITY, July 15.—(AP)—Clarence McElroy, Medaryville, Ind., airplane pilot, was found today after he had wandered for 18 days without food through dense tropical jungles in the state of Oaxaca, where his plane crashed June 27.

His partner in the flight, Roy Gordon, an American resident of Tegucigalpa, Honduras, was killed. Neither Gordon's body nor the wreckage of the plane was found by the rescue party.

Too weak to walk and almost too weak to talk, McElroy was first seen yesterday afternoon by an Indian woodsman five miles west of San Geronimo, Oaxaca. The woodsman went back for help and at noon today a searching party found the airman.

How McElroy ever kept alive seemed inexplicable. He was entirely unfamiliar with jungle conditions and, according to one newspaper dispatch, he suffered a broken leg in the crash of his plane, but nothwithstanding he managed to drag himself a considerable distance through the brush.

Water provided another problem. Apparently he avoided death from thitrst by catching rain during the numerous tropical downpours to which he was exposed.

McElroy said the crash was caused by a severe tropical storm in the midst of which his motor failed.

Hitler Opens Drive For July 31 Elections

BERLIN, July 15.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler started his campaign for the reichstag elections July 31 by declaring in a speech at Tilsit tonight that the pillars of the new state he would erect in Germany would be honor, liberty and bread. There were loud cheers.

Virtually the entire 40,000 inhabitants of historic Tilsit heard the nazi chieftain speak. He asserted that the day of reckoning in German politics was at hand.

Meanwhile, here in Berlin, one of his reichstag followers, Hermann Goering, told an election meeting at the Sportpalast that the nazi battlefront was equally against the Catholic church and Marxism. Both, he said, led to bolshevism.

Interest Is Sought On Service Deposit

Public utilities operating in Georgia were cited Friday by the Georgia public service commission to show cause why they should not pay customers annual interest on advance deposits for service.

The order, reciting that many customers, under existing laws, "use the service for long periods of time after making guarantee deposits and should not be required to wait more than one year for interest payments," was sponsored by Commissioner Jule W. Felton, of Montezuma.

KELLOGG LAYS CRISIS TO 'FINANCIAL DRUNK'

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state and now a justice of the World Court, came home with Mrs. Kellogg on the Leviathan today and described the economic situation as the hangover from "a financial drunk."

"We are economically sound, our resources are great, our people are able and inventive," he said, "but we have been on a financial drunk for years. We have got to get over it—that's all."

He declined to discuss the Lausanne conference or domestic politics.

$4,000 Debts Canceled By Alabama Merchant

CLANTON, Ala., July 15.—(AP) The grocery bills of 300 Clanton residents were marked "paid in full" today.

Wiley Littlejohn, a retired merchant, publicly forgave his debtors the $4,000 written against them in his account books.

"I don't want anybody to think I'm a rich man," Littlejohn said. "I'm in bad circumstances financially just like everybody else.

"These 300 people owe me $4,000 for merchandise I sold them out of my store. I feel like they are not able to pay it. And I don't want to be worried trying to collect it. Maybe it will lighten their burdens. I have determined that all accounts owing to me are considered canceled."

Man Who Asked Road To Reynolda Is Sought

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 15. (AP)—An unidentified man who asked directions for reaching the Reynolds home a few hours before the fatal shooting of Smith Reynolds, 20-year-old heir to millions and husband of Libby Holman, the actress, was sought today by Sheriff Transou Scott.

Pursuing his investigation in an effort to determine how the youngest son of R. J. Reynolds, the late tobacco king, met death July 6, the sheriff said he had obtained "new evidence" since adjournment of the coroner's jury. A verdict of death by a gunshot wound inflicted by a person or persons unknown was returned after the inquest.

Scott said he had been informed of the stranger's request for directions by two Winston-Salem citizens, who told him the man had a traveling case in the rear of his automobile. He expressed the opinion it was merely one of the guests invited for the evening.

Solicitor Carlisle Higgins, in a formal statement, said he had completed his part of the investigation as required by law, and would take no further action unless a presentment is returned by the grand jury on a warrant issued for some individual or individuals.

The next grand jury convenes July 25.

In the meantime, R. J. Reynolds Jr., (Dick) Smith's older brother, is expected to arrive here about the middle of next week.

REYNOLDS' DEATH RECALLS MYSTERY IN HOLMAN FAMILY

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 15.—(AP) The fatal shooting of Smith Reynolds, tobacco fortune heir, at Winston-Salem, N. C., nine days ago, recalled today an earlier mystery in the family of Libby Holman, his widow.

While North Carolina authorities struggled with a maze of puzzling clews in the death of Reynolds, acquaintances of the Holman family in Cincinnati harked back to the unknown fate of the widow's uncle, who mysteriously disappeared 27 years ago.

Alfred Holman, father of Libby, and who aided her during recent days when she was subjected to questioning at Winston-Salem, was apparently the last man who saw her uncle alive.

Mrs. Reynolds, now in virtual seclusion with her family here, was still unborn when her father's brother, Ross Holzman, as they then spelled the name, disappeared.

Alfred and Ross Holzman were the affluent heads of a prosperous Cincinnati brokerage house, Holzman & Co., when it failed in 1905 with what was then reported a $250,000 loss.

Locally, the failure was a big sensation, but Cincinnati was more startled June 26, that year when Alfred announced his brother had left for Sidney, Ohio, in search of cash to save the company, had not returned, and that his whereabouts were unknown.

Though 27 years have passed, Ross Holzman never returned, and has not been seen or heard from since.

BUSTER KEATON, WIFE AGAIN ARE SEPARATED

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—(AP)—The Examiner says Buster Keaton, motion picture comedian, and his wife, Natalie Talmadge Keaton, have separated for the second time this year.

Mrs. Keaton, according to information which the Examiner said came from friends of the Keatons, has left their Beverly Hills home to "think it over," intimating she will return next Monday with a decision as to whether the separation is to be final.

Vote on Future Wars Urged by Frenchman

PARIS, July 15.—(AP)—No more general mobilizations and no more wars by nations unless the people themselves authorize them by national referendum, is the object of a resolution introduced in the chamber of deputies for the purpose of putting real teeth in the Briand-Kellogg peace pact.

The author of the resolution, Leon Abrami, independent radical and former undersecretary for war, declared tonight that his project already had the support of 70 of his colleagues as well as associations of former soldiers, workers and intellectuals.

The resolution invites France to have the League of Nations ask its members and the signatories to the Briand-Kellogg pact to insert provisions in their constitutions interdicting mobilization or war unless their people, both men and women, approve by a two-thirds vote.

METHODISTS ACTIVE IN SPITE OF HEAT

Church activities at the Druid Hills Methodist church are going ahead at the usual rate in spite of the hot weather, an announcement from the church said.

Last summer, the announcement said, the various circles of the Woman's Missionary Society either did or did not hold meetings in the summer months. This year it was generally decided that all circles would have the regular meetings straight through the summer and their attendance is holding up beautifully. This organization of the church is headed by Miss Annie Mae Broach.

The Sunday school is offering almost each Sunday a record-breaking attendance report. The church congregations at both the morning and evening services are taxing the capacity of the church auditorium and balcony. This fact has been so noticeable that letters from Atlanta businessmen who are Druid Hills Methodist members are coming in to Dr. John Brandon Peters, the pastor, commenting on the fact.

LORD IRWIN IS CHOSEN FOR EDUCATIONAL POST

Survey Made Here By Social Workers

After a detailed survey of social conditions in Atlanta, the American Social Hygiene Association Friday made a report of recommendations for improvement at the institute on parent education in session at Emory University. According to Dr. R. E. Wager, the report was submitted in 1927, but was "pigeon-holed."

A state industrial farm for adult women delinquents, and a training school for girl delinquents, the passage of a law punishing persons assisting in operating organized vice activities, a special adult court to deal with minors between 16 and 21 years old, an amended state law to make effective model repressive laws now in use in 14 states were recommended to prevent juvenile and adult delinquency.

It was suggested that Atlanta schools have a definite program of sex education; that city officials co-operate with organizations dealing with city social problems, and that more social hygiene literature be given to the public.

"B. C." Relieves Periodical Pains In Three Minutes

It is so unnecessary to suffer month after month from inorganic pains, because "B. C." will bring soothing relief in three minutes. "B. C." is prepared by a registered pharmacist, compounded on a different principle from most relief-giving agencies in that it contains several ingredients, used by many physicians, so blended and proportioned as to accomplish in a few minutes what we believe no one drug formula can do in so short a time. "B. C." should also be used for the relief of common colds, headaches and neuralgia, muscular aches and pains, reducing fever and for quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit-forming drugs. Get "B. C." in 10c and 25c packages, wherever drugs are sold.—(adv.)

'SWEAT BOX' PROBER RECEIVES NEW THREAT

Duval Grand Jury Foreman Told To Cease Inquiry or Lose Son.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 15.—(AP)—Further death threats were received today by Al F. Gorman, foreman of the Duval county grand jury which recenty inquired into prison conditions and indicted two road camp officers for murder in the "sweat box" death of a young New Jersey prisoner.

As a result of the threats against Gorman and his family a special police guard was thrown around his home tonight, but he appeared little worried himself, going about his business as usual.

The latest threat Gorman received he said came in an envelope postmarked from Raiford, where the state prison farm is located, and was addressed to him as foreman of the grand jury. As a result, he said, he would not make public its contents, but said it was similar to others he had received.

Still another note, crudely pencilled, he said, was found on the hotel room door of an International News Service staff writer who has been here for several days. Pinned on the door, Gorman said, were three notes, one to himself, one to the newspaperman and the other to a photographer who accompanied them to Raiford yesterday, where they made inquiry into prison conditions.

Gorman received his first threat of death yesterday in a letter postmarked from Starke, near Raiford.

This morning, soon after Gorman went to his office, he said, he received an anonymous telephone call demanding that he cease his activities in connection with prison investigations, and if he did not he said the man threatened to kidnap his 18-year-old son, Herbert.

"You know about the Lindbergh case," Gorman quoted his caller as saying. "Well, unless you stop this investigation, your son will be kidnaped."

Gorman said the letter he received late today addressed to him as foreman of the grand jury, was signed "A Friend." He said it was delivered to the office of the state's attorney.

Newspapers were warned by the chief of police against inflaming public sentiment against the neighboring republic.

Opening Skirmishes Reported in Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 15.—(AP) Despite reports peace between Provisional President Getulio Vargas and rebels in his native state of Sao Paulo was about to be effected, dispatches from the south today told of a battle in which four rebels were wounded.

This was the first actual military contact between the loyal federal troops of the president and the rebels, and further reports during the day indicated federal planes had bombed the rebel positions in northern Sao Paulo.

The skirmish occurred at Itatiaya, and was between the vanguard of the third infantry, under Captain Zenobio Costa and a small detail of the Sao Paulista.

The two detachments opened fire on sight, and after a short and hot set-to, the rebels retreated, leaving four wounded.

ERIN, BRITAIN FAIL TO REACH ACCORD

Irish Reprisal Tariff Expected To Be Passed in Dublin Soon.

LONDON, July 15.—(AP)—All efforts by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald and President De Valera, of the Irish Free State, to avert an Anglo-Irish economic war with tariffs as the weapons failed tonight, and tomorrow Mr. MacDonald will fly to Lossiemouth, Scotland, while Mr. De Valera will return to Dublin.

The Irish reprisal duties bill, drawn up by the De Valera government in retaliation against the 20 per cent tariffs imposed against the principal imports from Ireland into Britain, goes to the Irish senate Monday. It cannot be blocked there and early next week it may become effective.

"Conversation was begun between Prime Minister MacDonald and Mr. De Valera and continued with the lord chancellor and the attorney-general present," said a communique issued at the conclusion of tonight's meeting.

"The situation between the two countries was considered, but neither party was able to depart from the position taken up in published dispatches."

The controversy between the Free State and Britain rests on two main causes. One of these is Mr. De Valera's insistent attempt to eliminate the oath of allegiance to the British crown and the other is his refusal to continue payments of land annuities to the London government.

These annuities represent old financial operations which enabled Irish tenants to become owners of the land they worked.

Britain took the lead in laying down tariffs against Irish goods when the Free State government defaulted in the land annuity payment due June 30. Now Ireland is choosing the same method of warfare.

Norris Charges Nutt Linked in Power Trust

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP)—Senator Norris, the independent republican from Nebraska, who charged President Hoover with a desire to halt the federal trade commissions' investigation of the power industry, has linked Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the republican national committee, to power company operations. Senator Norris charges that Nutt was a member of a syndicate which bought companies in Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and Colorado in 1912.

Nutt has now as "his principal job the re-election of Herbert Hoover as president of the United States," the senator said.

She organized the Manhattan chapter of the D. A. R. and was secretary of the New York state chapter and state treasurer and state regent.

She was born in New York, the daughter of Stephen Allen, the first elected mayor of New York city.

HONGKONG, China, July 15.—(AP) Serious fighting was reported today between Cantonese and communist troops in northern Kwantung.

CAROLINIAN IS FREED IN JEWEL ROBBERY

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 15.—(AP)—Wallace Scales, 24, was acquitted of a first-degree burglary charge in Forsyth county superior court today despite a confession by William Pryor to Chicago police that he and Scales staged a $15,000 jewel holdup of four women at a bridge table in the home of A. H. Galloway here in 1931.

Solicitor Carlisle Higgins ordered the youth kept in custody on charges of robbery with firearms in other cases.

Scales, scion of a well-known Greensboro family, has been involved in several criminal actions, and is an escaped convict.

SHANNON TO CONTINUE PROBE OF U. S. STORES

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP)—Chairman Shannon announced today the special house committee investigating the government's business activities in competition to private trade would open hearings in Kansas City Monday and probably in New Orleans later.

"The clamor for the government to keep out of business in competition with private trade is increasing," Shannon said.

"Hundreds of merchants have informed me of the cut-rate prices commissaries are allowing private citizens, which were set up originally for enlisted men in the army and navy."

CAROLINIAN EXECUTED FOR SLAYING WIFE

RALEIGH, N. C., July 15.—(AP) Confessing in the chair that he shot and killed his wife, Plato Edney, 34-year-old Henderson county farmer, was electrocuted at state's prison today.

Theft of $50,000,000 Charged to Kreuger

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—The Irving Trust Company trustee in bankruptcy, alleged in a motion filed in federal court today that Ivar Kreuger, Swedish capitalist, stole $50,000,000 in bonds of the International Match Company while he was its president. He committed suicide last March in Paris.

The allegation was made in a motion granted by Federal Judge Julian W. Mack to force Lee, Higginson and Company, the Chase National bank and five Swedish banking concerns to show cause why they should not be restrained from paying $1,500,000 interest on German reich bonds to anyone but the receiver.

The complaint set forth Kreuger, ruler of a vast match empire at the time of his death, "did abstract, remove and take away" the bonds and "did deposit them to his own credit unlawfully and without any warrant" with the Skandinaviska Kreditaktie Bolaget, one of his manifold enterprises.

The fifth work-food depot will open Monday at Center Hill, and plans are being made to open the sixth near Buckhead later in the week.

The self-help program began with opening of a commissary in Egan Park. Others were opened in Lakewood Heights and in the Howell Mill road section. More than 400 destitute unemployed have been given jobs which will provide their families with a week's rations for two days of work.

County Commissioner Walter B. Stewart, chairman of the special relief committee, expressed satisfaction with the manner in which the self-help program is operating.

Sale of Angelus Temple Is Denied by Hutton

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—(UP) Repeated rumors that Angelus Temple was to be sold by its evangelist, Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, brought a prompt and emphatic denial today from David L. Hutton Jr., husband of the Four Square Gospel leader.

Renewed reports of the impending sale followed a reported visit to Mrs. McPherson-Hutton's bedside by Rev. Grover Ernest Roberts, who was said to be representing Rev. Paul Rader, Chicago evangelist, who has been conducting a tabernacle here for several months.

"Absolutely nothing to it," Hutton emphasized. "Mrs. Hutton has not talked to anyone about the sale of the temple."

COLUMBIA, Ky., July 15.—(AP)—Two of the three men held as suspects in the robbery yesterday of the bank of Creelsboro were said by officers today to have been identified by James Popplewell, cashier, who was abducted by the robbers. The two identified by the cashier were the pair captured last night after a fight with officers in which both suspects were wounded. They refused to give their names today.

ORANGE MOB ATTACKS LIVERPOOL CATHEDRAL

LIVERPOOL, England, July 15.—(AP)—A strong police guard surrounded the cathedral here today after last night's attack when 300 Orangemen surged up the hill on which the edifice stands and hurled brick through four of the lofty windows.

DR. J. B. FICKLEN, MINISTER, IS DEAD

Secretary of Presbyterian Synod Was Widely Known Throughout State

Dr. James B. Ficklen, executive secretary of the Georgia Presbyterian synod, and widely-known minister, died Friday morning while undergoing an operation at a private hospital. He had been in ill health for several months, but his condition was not thought to have been serious. He died while under the anesthetic.

Born in Buckingham county, Virginia, 57 years ago, Dr. Ficklen was a graduate of Hampden-Sydney College and of the Union Theological Seminary at Richmond, Va. He was awarded by Hampden-Sydney College with the honorary degree of doctor of divinity in 1928, and was considered an outstanding minister and executive in the synod of Georgia, a position which he had held for the last 11 years. He maintained offices at 701 Columbia avenue, Decatur, in connection with his work.

Dr. Ficklen began his ministerial career soon after his graduation at Rome, where he was well known and liked. From there he came to Atlanta as pastor of the Inman Park Presbyterian church and was later pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Covington. He began his work as secretary to the synod following this pastorate, and held the position at the time of his death.

Surviving are a son, J. B. Ficklen Jr., a student at Davidson College; a daughter, Miss Miriam Vannerson Ficklen, a student at the Decatur High school, and five sisters, Mrs. Hunter Marshall, of Charlotte, N. C.; Mrs. Lewis Arthur and Mrs. B. W. Mosely, of Greenville, N. C.; Mrs. G. C. Jeter, of Lynchburg, Va., and Mrs. Elizabeth Myers, with whom he resided at 704 South McDonough street, Decatur.

Funeral services will be held Sunday and interment will be in West View cemetery. Other arrangements will be announced by A. S. Turner, funeral director, at whose chapel the body lies.

ANGERED BY CHILDREN, RECLUSE KILLS 1, SELF

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—(AP)—For two years, James W. Brown, 60-year-old recluse who lived in a two-room shack on the southern edge of the city, had complained of the noise made by children. No one heeded his complaints.

Last night, Brown fired a rifle into a group of children playing baseball in the street. The shot killed C. A. Butler, a negro, who was watching the play, and wounded Mrs. Mamie Dorrinsky, a white woman, who was playing with the children.

As the children and grown-ups fled, Brown continued to fire. Police arrived and after an exchange of shots, broke into the shack. They found Brown dead. He had shot himself.

ELECTION CAMPAIGN FORESEEN FOR SPAIN

MADRID, July 15.—(AP)—The possibility of a new election campaign in the Spanish republic cropped up today as the socialist party in a manifesto threw down the gauntlet before Alejandro Lerroux, radical republican leader, who had announced he intended to test the government's majority in the assembly.

A meeting of the radical republican party was hurriedly called to discuss the possibility of withdrawal of its members from the government and the beginning of an anti-government campaign here tomorrow.

WOMAN IS MISSING IN CONEY ISLAND FIRE

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—A renewed search of the ruins of the fire that swept several square blocks of Coney Island Wednesday afternoon was ordered today when it was reported that Mrs. Fanny Belford, of Brooklyn, had been missing since she went to Coney Island Wednesday.

She returned to the home to rescue her sister and later some of her household goods before the small home collapsed. When the fire headed for the garage, she ran through a blazing fence to rescue her dog and a cow.

Outlook Most Dismal For Duncans' Creditors

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—(AP)—It may be slim pickings for the creditors of the Duncan sisters.

Some eight months ago the famous comedy team of Rosetta and Vivian, perhaps better known as "Topsy and Eva," went into voluntary bankruptcy owing more than $400,000, or so their creditors claimed. O. T. Gilbank, federal trustee, went to work.

Today his labors had netted $200 in cash and two $1,000 bonds for which he has been offered less than the fare to St. Louis and back, and at the railroads' reduced rates, too.

Garland Smith Freed In Death of Sheriff

DANVILLE, Va., July 15.—(AP)—Garland Smith was acquitted today by a Danville jury in his third trial for the killing of Bernard Puryear, Mecklenburg deputy sheriff, as the officer returned from a raid on a still.

Gordon Ambler, defense counsel, told newspapermen he would immediately petition Governor John Garland Pollard to pardon the young North Carolinian from the 20-year sentence given him upon conviction of slaying Mack Tuck, Clarksville chief of police, killed in the same volley which mortally wounded Puryear.

The verdict today was returned 35 minutes after the jury resumed the deliberations begun last night. The crowd staged a demonstration with cheering and hand-clapping and drew sharp reprimands from Judge Henry C. Leigh, who threatened individuals with imprisonment for contempt.

QUEBEC READY TO FIGHT ST. LAWRENCE PROJECT

Premier of Maritime Province Attacks Plan for Waterway.

MONTREAL, July 15.—(AP)—A dispatch to the Montreal Gazette from Quebec today said the Quebec attorney-general's department is preparing for a legal fight to block the St. Lawrence waterways project "the minute the work starts or a further move is made."

"Premier Taschereau," the dispatch said, "has stated plainly that he will not allow the work to be started without utilizing all legal means to stop it.

"The legislature has unanimously adopted a resolution opposing the plan. The policy of the province of Quebec has been to attract Americans to establish industries here by prohibiting the export of power across the border. This would become futile if the waterway scheme is carried out. This is one of the main objections of the government."

Premier Taschereau yesterday described the waterways agreement as a "national crime" and a "grotesque proposition."

POWER FIRM GIVES DARKNESS, DIVORCE CHOICE TO WOMAN

(Copyright, 1932, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

CHICAGO, July 15.—The Illinois commerce commission today was asked to remove Mrs. Dale West-Moose, of East St. Louis, from a dilemma whereby she must either sit in the dark, use kerosene lamps or divorce her husband.

The commission was asked to force the East St. Louis Light & Power Co. to light Mrs. West-Moose's home. The home became her property on death of her first husband. Recently she married John Moose and decided to move into the house.

But the company, it was charged, refused to serve the house with electricity because Moose never paid his light bill on a cafe he had owned. The light company even refused to accept a cash deposit, it was charged.

"You'll either sit in the dark or divorce your husband," Mrs. West-Moose said the company told her. The commission is investigating.

PHILIPPINE LAW BODY MUST CUT EXPENSES

MANILA, July 15.—(AP)—The Philippine legislature, meeting tomorrow for its annual 100-day session, is faced with necessity of wielding the axe of economy with considerable more ruthlessness than the 72d congress, and of finding new sources of revenue.

All appropriations must be trimmed—most of them already have been reduced under a legislative emergency provision of last year—and taxes must be increased if the insular government's functions are not to be seriously crippled.

FASCINATING PATTERN THAT IS VERSATILE.

Now a dainty pale pink dotted voile inspired the first model. Its darling wee frills with picot-edge and cross over collar were plain white voile. Its buttons, creating a double breasted effect, were pink pearl. And can't you imagine it in dimity prints, batiste prints, dotted swiss and pastel crepe de chine?

Should hardy cottons be your consideration of the moment, then you only have to omit the frills. You may bind the edges. For instance, you'll find white bindings against a blue pique or plain gingham delightful. The trim with white pearl buttons.

Style No. 492 is designed for small girls of 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 2 1-2 yards of 35-inch material with 3-8 yard of 35-inch contrasting.

KELLOGG INTRODUCES SIX-HOUR WORK DAY

The Kellogg Company, manufacturers of food products, has reduced its working day from eight to six hours, and has found that the new arrangement provides more employment and eliminates much extra overhead expense.

The old plan of working was three eight-hour shifts, each employe receiving a half-hour meal period and time and a half for all time over eight hours as well as for working Sundays. Employes working on the 3 p. m. to 11 p. m. working shift were paid 3 to 5 per cent more than the employes working on the 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. shift, while those working on the 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. shift received 10 per cent more.

On December 1, 1930, the six-hour day was introduced in the plant, creating four six-hour shifts instead of three eight-hour shifts. The first shift commences at 6 a. m. and works to 12 noon, the second shift from 12 noon to 6 p. m., the third shift from 6 p. m. to midnight, and the last shift from midnight to 6 a. m. Under such a schedule there seems to be no irregularities and each shift has equal advantages. This new schedule eliminated the need for extra allowances for any shift and also eliminated a stop for meals, since each shift works straight through without a break.

This plan spread employment to a larger number of workers and resulted in many definite economies for the plant, and also created more advantages for the employes. The list of advantages to the company includes increased daily production, due to the fact that more work per hour is obtained from the employes, elimination of meal periods and the expense of a large cafetera, increased return from the capital investment, and decreased overhead rate.

In reducing the number of working hours a day under the six-hour day plan, there was, naturally, a reduction in the day wages for the higher paid employes. This was accompanied, however, by an increase in hourly base rates so that the minimum daily wage for men is $4 per day.

The plan has been in operation for over a year, and it is believed that the company will continue to operate permanently on the six-hour day. The management believes it is a profitable operating plan for the workers and equally profitable for the business, due to the increased operating efficiency and the lowered cost per unit of production.

BREAK of the DAY!

By Ralph McGill

Thundering cheers rumbled through the valleys and the dells of the rolling Capital City Club course Friday afternoon. And the spattering applause of hand-claps, like scattering rifle fire, echoed with the rumbling cheers.

A great gallery was dividing its time between two magnificent golf matches in the state amateur golf tournament. The weather was humid and hot but it was no hotter than the golf that Tommy Barnes, the lonesome-looking youngster from West End, and Charley Yates, the defending champion, were shooting at one another. It was to go 19 holes before a trickling short putt failed to go down for Barnes and the champion dropped his to go into the finals.

Meanwhile a part of the gallery had dropped back to see Scott Hudson's game come-back against Dave Black in the second semi-final match. At the start of that match, Black's short game had riddled Hudson. Black's pitching and putting were so accurate that through the first six holes Hudson was five down.

And no greater tribute could come to Hudson than the murmur of surprise that grew and grew with the perspiring throng waiting at the 18th tee when the word came in that Hudson was but one down and had a chance to square it. It was thought he was hopelessly out of it. He might have but his approach at the 18th was in the trap to the right and Black's was on. And Black's putt, 50 feet at least, rolled to the lip of the cup and hung there. Hudson shook hands.

Meanwhile the throng was all spread out about the first tee as young Barnes and Yates went there for the 19th hole.

Barnes had seemed to be about in a short while before. He, too, had made a great come-back after being two down. He won the 15th to go one up.

On the 16th came one of those vagaries of fate which seemed to indicate that he was the one on whom fortune was smiling, the one whom the fates were about to touch with their magic wand.

His ball came to rest on a bridge near the green. He had to chip from the bridge. But chip he did to get on and down with his putt and a half.

The gallery was growing in numbers and charging over the course. Tournament experience, which Yates has and Barnes hasn't, began to tell. Barnes' second shot on the 17th was shanked ever so little, but it was enough to give Yates his chance. He took it and the hole.

Barnes seemed to have the touch back on the 18th. He was a bit off the green but as high as Yates. Yet Barnes was well up and got his three and a half.

It ended on the 19th. Tommy Barnes, a slight, solemn-looking youngster just turned 15 years, is a new golf figure in Georgia and a popular one.

There is no quit in either Yates or Barnes. And what a match it should be today with Dave Black and Yates. Both are tenacious and both are skilled.

AT LEAST THEY DIDN'T BITE IT.

A MOTORIST COMPLAINED FRIDAY THAT WHEN HE STUCK OUT HIS HAND TO INDICATE A TURN IT WAS SHAKEN BY SEVEN OF THE TEN CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR BEFORE HE COULD GET IT BACK IN THE CAR. Affidavit by Jake Harris on request.

THE SOUTH STEPS.

Emmett Toppino, the flying young man from New Orleans, outran the national field at Los Angeles Friday in the Olympic trials for the 100 meters. He defeated two of the greatest sprinters at that distance in the world in George Simpson, of Ohio, and Ralph Metcalfe, the dusky flyer from Marquette University. Metcalfe was the man experts thought could not be beaten.

Metcalfe, incidentally, is an Atlanta boy, although the fact seems to have been generally overlooked. His parents were residents of Atlanta and moved to Chicago when the present sprint star was a youngster.

The fleet Toppino is just one of other Dixie stars expected to win in the various Olympic trials. Each year finds more and more southern athletes placing first in national events. Toppino's victory in the 100 meters is the finest victory since Ed Hamm, of Georgia Tech, won the broad jump in the last Olympic games. Toppino is virtually sure, barring injuries, to win in the games themselves.

THE CRACKERS WIN FRIENDS.

While no second division team will draw large crowds, the Crackers have undoubtedly won some friends during the last two weeks. Disaster after disaster has struck them but the club has kept trying.

The Crackers have probably used more players in an effort to find a winning combination than any other team in the league. Even Memphis has not purchased any players despite the two real drives by the Lookouts which threatened to topple them from the peak.

Chattanooga is the only team which has stepped out into the market and that is easy to explain. The Washington club supplies the Lookouts with their needs. The Lookouts do not have to buy. They simply write letters to Santa Claus and he answers all the letters. Not one of the other clubs has been able to buy players this season. They are willing to spend but wish to know what to use for money.

MISS ROBERT'S OPPORTUNITY.

One cannot help but become more than a little excited at the opportunity which is presented to Miss Louisa Robert this morning and afternoon at Jones Beach, Long Island.

She is to realize an ambition that has been growing for three years—to swim against the best in the world in the backstroke—Miss Eleanor Holm. She believes that she can win. If she does it will mean a featured place on the Olympic team for her.

Miss Robert is an Atlanta girl, who has worked hard with but little encouragement and little opportunity for competition. She has already won the junior championship in the backstroke. The more one considers her record the more one is forced to the conclusion that she is one of the finest athletic representatives the state has had. Miss Eleanor Holm faces two competitions today. She is known as one of the most beautiful of the girl swimmers in the world. And Miss Robert is a favored competitor in that event. At any rate, all Georgia wishes her well today.

Griswold Cup Won By Glenna Vare

EASTERN POINT, Conn., July 15.—(AP)—Glenna Collett Vare, of Philadelphia, today won the Griswold cup invitation golf tournament for the sixth time by defeating Miss Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wis., 7 and 6, in the 18-holes final match.

BAN LIFTED.

Now that he is no longer champion, Max Schmeling has been released from a contract restricting him from fighting anywhere excepting for Madison Square Garden.

Miracle Triumphs In Eclipse Stakes

SANDOWN PARK, England, July 15.—(AP)—Lord Rosebery's Miracle at 10 to 1 won the rich Eclipse stakes today from a field of 13 thoroughbreds.

Miracle galloped home three lengths ahead of M. Boussac's Goyescas, a 9 to 4 favorite, with Aga Khan's Firdausse at 13 to 2 third, two lengths back.

The stake was worth $10,500 sterling. Distance was a mile and a quarter.

GRANT, COURTS, REESE, SUTTER PLAY DOUBLES

Stands Erected To Seat 500 at Piedmont Driving Club.

With the erection of stands to seat 500 tennis enthusiasts at the Piedmont Driving Club courts, all is in readiness for the exhibition singles match between Bryan Grant Jr., Atlanta's star netman, and Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans and Tulane, sixth ranking player in the United States, to be held here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Bolstering the program, which is being staged by the Atlanta Junior League for the benefit of its ward in the Henrietta Egleston Memorial hospital, will be a doubles match which will also find Grant and Sutter on opposite sides of the corded barrier. Bryan will pair with Malon Courts, his old friend and doubles partner, against Cliff and Billy Reese, present city champion.

Both matches will be played at best two sets in three.

FANS ENTHUSED.

Atlanta's host of tennis fans has not been slow to indicate appreciation of this opportunity to witness two of the country's outstanding singles players in action. Bryan has not played publicly here since competing in the Georgia state tourney of 1930, while Sutter's appearance will be his first since attaining national prominence three years ago.

The two are great rivals, unquestionably the finest singles players the south has ever developed, and are constantly clashing in the major tournaments. Cliff holds an edge over Bryan in this season's engagements to date, having conquered the tiny Atlantan in the final rounds of the national intercollegiate and the southern. As a partial offset, Bryan erased Cliff in straight sets in the semi-final of the recent national clay courts meet at Memphis.

A victory for Grant here Sunday would, therefore, place the two on an even footing again, and Bryan—benefited by the week's rest he has had from the stress of the tournament competition—is sure to exert himself to the utmost in the effort to win. Holder of the No. 12 position in the national ranking at present, "Bitsy," by his brilliant play so far this season as runner-up in all three of the major events which he has entered, has high hopes of achieving a better rating for the 1932 campaign.

SUTTER BRILLIANT.

In Sutter, who has twice held the intercollegiate crown and been a member of the Davic Cup squad, Atlanta fans will see a player regarded by critics as one of the finest stylists in tennis. His is a perfectly rounded game with no weakness in any department of play.

Tickets for the matches are on sale at the Atlanta Athletic Club, Spalding's, Milo's Tennis Shop, the East Lake Club, the Standard Club and the Piedmont Driving Club.

Mrs. Alison Thornwell is president of the Junior League, with Mrs. John Grant Jr. chairman of the committee in charge of the tennis exhibitions and Mrs. Reginald Fleet director of publicity.

CITY TOURNEY OPENS TODAY

Play in the annual city tennis tournament, with 58 entries in the singles division, is scheduled to open at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon on the Georgia Tech courts, which have been especially groomed for the occasion. Twenty-five matches will be run off today, reducing the field to more wieldy proportions for the tighter competition of next week.

Billy Reese, defending champion, has been seeded No. 1 for the tournament, but he faces a real battle in defense of his crown. Jack Mooney, veteran Atlanta chop-stroke star, is rated as Reese's most formidable rival and likeliest opponent in the finale. Hence he occupied the No. 2 slot in the draw.

Other seeded players are as follows: No. 3, Jack Simpson; No. 4, Malon Courts; No. 5, Harry Gault; No. 6, Jack Boykin; No. 7, Gene Morgan; and No. 8, Louis Enloe.

Jack Mooney, in charge of tournament arrangements, announces that there are several openings remaining in the first-round draw, now filled by byes, and requests that any player desiring to enter this morning communicate with him at Spalding's. Entry fees are $2 for the singles and $3 for the doubles, no players being allowed to take the courts for play until the fees have been paid. Prizes will be awarded winners and runners-up in each division.

Play in the men's doubles is scheduled to open Tuesday, and pairs may enter for this competition up until Monday afternoon when the draw will be held.

Matches scheduled for this afternoon, classified according to starting times, appear below. Players are cautioned to be on time in order to avoid defaults.

2:30—Billy Reese vs. Glenn Dudley; Howard Brown vs. Chris Conyers; A. C. Johnson vs. Mollie Williamson; L. Beers vs. Lindsey Hopkins Jr.; Britt Knox, bye; B. M. Greenbaum vs. Malcolm Keiser; Joe Duckwort vs. Russell Bobbitt; Gene Morgan vs. G. S. Aiken; Harry Gault vs. Joe Williams.

Vickers Is Winner On Buckhead Card

K. O. Vickers knocked out K. O. Karr, of Birmingham, in one minute and five seconds in the feature match on the Buckhead card Friday night.

Vickers looked good in his first fight in Atlanta in a year. He has lost but one fight in the last 20.

In the main event of the wrestling card Jack McAdams won the match from George Mauldin. McAdams won the first fall in 14 minutes. Mauldin won the second in six and McAdams came back to take the third in six minutes and a few seconds.

In another mat match Bob Anderson defeated Jack Damond.

FLORIDA STAR TAKES HONORS OVER COLEMAN

14-Year-Old Katherine Rawls Is New Diving Champion.

By Foster Hailey,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

JONES BEACH, STATE PARK, NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—Little Katherine Rawls, of Miami Beach, Fla., came to this Long Island beach resort today to dethrone the great Georgia Coleman as America's finest woman diver and give the outstanding performance of the first day of the Olympic swimming and diving trials for women.

Defeated in the 200-meter breaststroke final, where she is national champion, even edged out for third place and membership on the American swimming team, she calmly rowed out to the springboard platform and gave such an example of poise and skill as to pile of 78.64 points and edge out Miss Coleman for first place.

GREAT PERFORMANCE.

Jane Fauntz, of Chicago, won the third place on the springboard Olympic team.

Her performance was all the more remarkable when it is noted she is only 14 years old and was competing in only her second national diving championships against a field of comparative veterans. She also was the only diver competing in the swimming events and went directly from her gruelling 200-meter test to the diving board.

Helene Madison, of Seattle, holder of every world free-style record for women, although several have not yet been accepted, won as expected in the 100-meter free-style event, while Margaret Hoffman, of Kingston, Pa., came back to her championship form of 1930 to win the 200-meter breaststroke, the other event on today's program.

McKIM SECOND.

Miss Madison was a second away from her unaccepted world record of 1:08 2-5 in winning in 1:09 1-5 but a fifth of a second under the accepted world standard for the distance.

Josephine McKim, of Los Angeles, was second to Miss Madison, six feet away, and Mrs. Eleanor Garratti Sayville, of San Francisco, was third. The next three finishers, Helen Johns, of Brookline, Mass.; Lenore Kight, of Homestead, Pa., and Edna McKibbon, Miss Madison's clubmate from Seattle, also probably will be picked for the American Olympic team, to compete with Miss Madison in the 400-meter relay.

TOPPINO WINS AGAINST STARS

STANFORD STADIUM, PALO ALTO, Cal., July 15.—(AP)—Three world record performances contributed to a sensational beginning today for the final American Olympic track and field tryouts as upsets eliminated some of the nation's outstanding stars.

Two stalwart easterners, Leo Sexton and John Anderson, both of the New York A. C., surpassed world marks in the shot put and discus throw, respectively, after Eddie Tolan, Detroit negro flash, equalled his own world record of 10.4 seconds, against the wind, in the 100-meter trials.

Sexton topped the shotputters with a mighty heave of 52 feet 8 inches, as his most feared rival, Herman Brix, of the Los Angeles A. C., barely gained the fifth qualifying place by three-eighths of an inch with a put of only 49 feet 2 inches. Sexton's toss was a half inch beyond the official world record.

Anderson hurled the discus 165.54 feet to surpass the listed world record of 163 feet 8 3-4 inches, made in 1929 by Eric Krenz. Paul Jessup was second at 156.37 feet.

Tolan's startling dash against a head-wind enabled him to whip Frank Wykoff, of Southern California, after Emmett Toppino, New Orleans flyer, had taken the measure of George Simpson, of Columbus, Ohio, and Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette negro, in 10.9 seconds in the first trial.

These five, with James Johnson, another dusky speedster, of Illinois State Normal, competed the sextet of qualifiers for tomorrow's 100-meter final.

In their first tests since the famous intercollegiate 440-yard record race two weeks ago, Bill Carr, of Pennsylvania, outshone Ben Eastman, in the 400-meter trials. Carr, running beautifully, equalled the Olympic record of 47.6 seconds to win his heat, after which Eastman had a struggled to capture the second trial in 48.8 seconds.

Barrett Winner On Thomas' Card

Red Barrett won a decision over Chief Jack Redfern in the main event of another well-balanced card at Lakewood last night.

There were 13 bouts on the program and Promoter Jay Thomas expressed himself as well pleased with both the showing of the boxers and the attendance.

Other results:

Ed Hansen defeated Charley Brown; Lawton Barber defeated Battling Boggs; Baby Johnson defeated T. J. Maddox; Paul Seagers defeated Ralph Tarrant; Glenn Lawson won a technical knockout over Carl Hapgood; Bill Austin defeated Horace Bussey; Bill Herndon and Howard Bennett fought to a draw; Tommy Phillips defeated Pierce Morris; Chuck Barrett defeated Hugh Youngblood; Bill Brazil, no contest, Bo Walker injured a hand.

---And Now We Are Two!

These four state golfers, all from Atlanta, composed the semi-finals of the state golf tournament Friday at the Capital City Club. They are, left to right, Tommy Barnes, West End; Scott Hudson Jr., East Lake; Dave Black, Capital City, and Charley Yates, East Lake. Yates won from Barnes in 19 holes and Black won from Hudson. They meet today in a 36-hole match to decide the state championship. Photo by George Cornett, Constitution staff photographer.

CRACKERS LOSE TO LOOKOUTS, 8-3

By Jimmy Jones.

Well, the great Mails won't have to retire from baseball after all. The Duster had threatened to do just that if Rube Marquard, his lefthanded adversary, beat him last night. Chattanooga won, 8 to 3, but not until Clyde Barfoot, Bert Niehoff's ace, had appeared in the role of the Duster's savior to shut out the Crackers for the last three innings.

The series is now even, one game each.

The Rube started in fine fashion, holding the Lookouts to one hit and no runs in the first four innings. He started the fifth by striking out Joe Bonowitz but during the round he lost control and failure of the Cracker infield to pull him out with the bases full when they had a chance at a double play spotted the opposition three runs.

RUBE LASTS ROUTE.

Marquard, although hit hard, may find some solace in the fact that he stayed the route and the Duster lasted but five and one-third innings.

Frank Welch, who had a great night, gave the Crackers a rousing send-off when he picked out one of the Duster's fast ones and poled a home run into the left field stands in the first inning with two out. For six innings it was anybody's ball game and it looked like it might be another Cracker night.

Mails, who was at a disadvantage pitching against a solid row of right-handed hitters, finally had to vacate the hillock in the sixth. Again Frank Welch, who larruped a pair of doubles in addition to his homer, started things off with a hard liner against the stands for two bases, narrowly missing a second homer. Johnny Chapman punched him home with a single to left. When Cummings singled and Chatham was hit by a pitched ball, Niehoff rushed in Barfoot. Eisemann dropped what would have been a single into left to score Chapman, but Bill Andrus picked up the ball off his shoe strings and forced Cummings at third.

TIES SCORE.

This inning tied the score. Marquard tossed a scoreless sixth, but in the seventh the Lookouts got three more and added two in the ninth.

LOOKOUTS BRILLIANT.

The Chattanoogans fielded brilliantly as against their lax work of the night before. Shortstop Wilburn made a wizard of a stop on Bobby Goff's hard-hit drive in the second with Barron on second to cut off a

Louisa Robert To Swim In Trials This Morning

Atlanta Star To Compete in Field of 16 at Jones Beach; Finals in Afternoon.

By Jack Troy.

This morning the 16 leading women swimmers of the United States will knife through the waters at Jones Beach, L. I., in qualifying heats for the Olympics. Atlanta will be ably represented by Miss Louisa Robert, 17-year-old star, who has won national and southern honors in the backstroke.

The finals will be held in the afternoon and the first three finishers will automatically qualify for the "big swim" at Los Angeles. Sixteen excellent swimmers were eliminated in sectional meets.

With three places available out of 16, Miss Robert's chances to qualify are considered excellent. Eleanor Holm, national champion, is the favorite. But outside of the New York star the field is left more or less wide open.

It is a fact that Miss Robert has not been extended in any of her races to date. She has not, to all outward appearances, produced her best time. And it has been pretty well established that she has been saving her best for the Olympic trials.

SWIMS 100 METERS.

She holds the southern senior record for the 100 yards, having established a new mark of 1:16 at Rome, Ga., recently. However, she will swim the 100 meters at Jones Beach today, a longer distance but one which she has been working on assiduously in practice.

This is the first major competition for Louisa Robert in two years of meteoric development. Like a tale from a fairy book she has realized an ambition to compete against Eleanor Holm in practically no time at all.

That desire to beat Eleanor Holm, who has had Olympic experience, will spur her on as perhaps nothing else could. To Miss Robert there will be no one else in the field except the New Yorker, She has often said while in training in Atlanta that to beat Miss Holm was her chief ambition.

GOOD CHANCE.

She can hardly be expected to realize her desire in so short a time, but on the other hand, it would not be surprising if she should.

A pair of southerners, two years younger than Miss Robert, have gained team positions. Both were from Miami. Miss Katherine Rawls, 14, dethroned Georgia Coleman as national diving champion, and Ralph Flanagan, also 14, qualified by virtue of a flashing stroke, as the youngest male ever to win an Olympic swimming berth.

Georgia and the south will be pulling for Louisa Robert today.

Sportsman's Day At Skeet Club

The Atlanta Skeet Club will hold a Sportsman's Field Day this morning at 10 o'clock. The program calls for pistol, rifle and skeet shooting with trophies for the winners and runners-up in each class of skeet.

A number of the most prominent rifle, shotgun and pistol experts will be on hand to compete in the program. There will be a sterling silver trophy for the winner.

The skeeters welcome all visitors whether shooters or not. It will afford an opportunity to see the best shots, rifle, shotgun and pistol there are in the state of Georgia. There is no cost. The traps are located just below Adamsville on the Ben Hill road.

NEW SPEED BOAT.

DETROIT, July 15.—(AP)—Gar Wood, speed boat ace, revealed today that his new Harmsworth trophy defender, Miss America X, now being completed, will have a power plant of four 12-cylinder engines, developing 6,400 horsepower. This compares with 2,800 horse power in the Miss America IX, with which Wood made his world's straightaway record of 111.712 miles an hour in Florida last winter.

Jones and Martin Finals Referees

Bobby Jones, retired golf champion and winner of the first Georgia state amateur golf championship tournament on the Capital City course in 1916, will be the referee this afternoon on the same course in the final 18 holes of the 15th annual tournament, as Charley Yates and Dave Black play for the crown.

R. H. Martin, president of the Atlanta Golf Association and a vice president of the state association, will be the referee during the morning 18 holes.

TOMMY BARNES, SCOTT HUDSON MEET DEFEAT

Champion Wins on Extra Hole in Semi-Finals. 36 Holes Today.

By Roy White.

Charlie Yates, East Lake youth, will defend his Georgia amateur golf championship today on the Capital City Country Club course against Dave Black, champion in 1930, in the 36-hole finals of the 15th annual tournament. The morning round of 18 holes will be played at 9:30 o'clock with the afternoon round slated for 2:30 o'clock.

Yates entered the finals with two victories Friday over Dean Smith, runner-up last year, and Tommy Barnes, one of the most improved players in the city. Yates eliminated Barnes on the 19th green in one of the closest and hardest fought battles in recent years in the semi-finals.

HUDSON BEATEN.

Black won the right to meet Yates for the title with quarter and semi-final victories over L. R. Hunter and Scott Hudson Jr.

Finals in all other flights will be played this morning over the 18-hole route and will start at 8:45 o'clock, with the championship match slated to leave the starting tee last.

Today's title match should be one of the best of the entire tournament and the general public is cordially invited to witness both rounds, free of charge.

Dave Black is an experienced player and will be playing on his home course. He won the Georgia title in 1930, and after a year in which he has played but little competitive golf, Dave is coming along fast now. He has played probably the most consistent golf of any player in the tournament. He played 16 holes in Friday morning's quarter-finals in one stroke over par. He came back strong with another fine round Friday afternoon to beat Hudson.

TWO GREAT ROUNDS.

Charlie Yates played two great rounds Friday and should be at the peak of his game in today's match. He set the pace in the practice rounds and was the only golfer to break par consistently prior to the tournament.

In the Friday rounds which were witnessed by more than 500 spectators despite a blistering hot sun all day, both Yates and Black were outstanding with their consistency. Yates played practically every shot perfectly during the morning and was equally as good during the afternoon.

GREAT FIGHT.

Barnes played one of his greatest games, but lost to a more experienced player in the semi-finals. Barnes outdrove Yates on many of the holes and was only one down at the turn. The West End youngster won the hearts of many in the gallery for his great fight against Yates.

Yates was outstanding with his putting and won the match on the 19th, as Barnes missed a short one.

Black was only one over par for 16 holes in the quarter-finals and equalled par for the first nine in the semi-final match with Hudson and was four up at the turn. Black slowed up a bit on the back nine, due to almost unbearable heat, but tightened up near the end and won out, two up. Hudson played an exceptionally good game against Garlington in the quarter-finals, but found many rough places during the afternoon and lost six straight holes on the first nine against Black. He took advantage of the chance on the back nine and was only one down and one to go, but weakened on the 18th hole.

WINS AGAIN.

Roby Robinson, who won his first-round match on the 25th green, won another extra-hole match Friday when he beat Arch Martin on the 19th green.

J. D. Kirven Jr., of Columbus, won a quarter-final match on the 19th green, but lost in the semi-finals, 1 up, while his father lost on the 19th green in the quarter-finals.

Scottie Beverly, the golfer and fisherman from Thomasville, who will be host to the 1933 tournament on the Glen Arven club, had the best record for match play in the tournament, although he was in the fifth flight. Scottie won his Wednesday and Thursday matches without losing a single hole and lost only two holes in the quarter-finals Friday. He will meet Tully Walsh, a Capital City player, for the fifth flight title today. "I didn't win so many holes, but truly had to work to keep my opponents from winning," was Beverly's remark as he finished a real day's work Friday afternoon. "This tournament play may be all right for the youngsters, but it is too hot for me. I like my fishing better," he added.

GRIFFITH NOT INTERESTED IN ADDITIONAL 'FARMS'

THINKS MAJORS HURT MINORS BY GIVING HELP

Washington Club Owner, Here for Visit, Praises Joe Engel.

By Ralph McGill.

Clark Griffith, "the old fox" of the American league, paid Atlanta his first visit Friday night since the spring of 1929 when he appeared here to sign an option on the Atlanta baseball club.

A lot of water has been used as chasers since then. The option was abandoned and Joe Engel, who was already working as president of the club, appeared with him Friday night as owner of the pennant-contending Chattanooga club. Which has for its Santa Claus the Washington ball club owned by Clark Griffith.

ABOUT MINORS.

Griffith, one of the smartest men in baseball and one of the finest gentlemen in the game, was willing to be quoted as follows:

He is not interested in purchasing any baseball club in the minors. He does not believe in it and positively is not interested, no matter what you may offer.

He thinks that one trouble with the minor leagues is not lack of help from the major leagues but too much of it.

"Leave the minor leagues alone," he said, "and they will come back. They have come to depend too much on major league help. If they had a fellow like Joe Engel to help them organize and if they would make sensible organization they would come back.

TIMES IMPROVE.

"I recall when the Southern league was the only minor league. It is the only one that has gone through. The double A leagues folded. Times aren't as bad as they have been. The minors will come back if they will leave the major leagues alone and if the majors will quit encouraging them with promises."

Griffith also believes that Babe Ruth will go to the Red Sox next year as a playing manager. "They are crazy about Ruth there," he said, "and he has enough punch to hit them out of the cellar. He pointed out that the Red Stockings had already strengthened at the bat.

Asked about Joe Engel, he declared that Joe Engel was the man who had kept the Southern league going this year. "I think he's done a good job," said Griffith.

ENJOYS GAME.

Griffith enjoyed watching the duel between Rube Marquard and Duster Mails. "You don't look any older than you did in 1920," he told Marquard as he gave him a warm greeting.

Griffith thinks Atlanta is the best baseball city in the minor leagues and hopes for a good club here.

As for the American league race, he thinks his club has a good chance if the Yankees can be pulled on down.

After the game Griffith and R. J. Spiller shook hands. It was the first meeting between the two since Griffith surrendered his option in 1929 when he agreed to purchase the club. Law suits and harsh words were in the air for a time.

Last night it was, "Glad to see you. How are you?" And a pleasant smile.

Griffith will be here with Engel today and leave Saturday night for Washington.

Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington baseball club, and affectionately known as "The Old Fox," paid Atlanta a visit last night. He watched the Chattanooga ball club, for which he is "Santa Claus," beat the Crackers. SIMMONS SLUGS THREE HOMERS BUT A'S LOSE

Detroit Wins in 11 Innings, 11-10; Stone Homers Twice.

PHILADELPHIA, July 15.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers won a heavy-hitting 11-inning contest from the Athletics, 11 to 10, today to even the series here at one game apiece. Tying the score at 10 to 10 with a two-run uprising in the eighth inning, the Bengals won out in the 11th.

Simmons and Stone led the onslaught that found five pitchers working for the Tigers and two for the Mackmen. Simmons hit three home runs and a double, driving in six runs and running his total of homers for the season to 24. Stone hit two for the circuit on his first two times at bat, each time with a man on base.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Completely dispelling the jinx the Browns have held over them, the Washington Senators today defeated St. Louis for the second time in the current series, 8 to 7, and boosted their winning streak to seven games.

Washington successfully beat off a five-run rally by the Browns in the eighth, and then Cronin's double, scoring Rice from first with two men out, won the game for the Senators. West got four hits, including three doubles, in four times at bat.

YANKEES 8; INDIANS 5.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Blasting Wes Ferrell from the mound in the fourth inning, when they scored five runs, the Yankees went on to interrupt Cleveland's winning streak, 8 to 5, in the second game of the series today.

Where Ferrell, seeking his seventeenth victory, was unable to cope with the leaders' big guns, Lefty Gomez returned to form and, although touched for nine hits, had little trouble chalking up his fifteenth win. The Castilian had lost his last three previous starts.

In addition to pitching well, Gomez shared hitting honors with Lou Gehrig, each driving across three runs. Jack Russell, who relieved Ferrell in the fourth, allowed only five hits the rest of the way.

Chalmers Cissell collected three of the Indians' nine hits off Gomez, while Earl Averill hit his twenty-first home run of the year in the eighth inning.

PITTSBURGH, July 15.—A brilliant bit of pitching by the veteran Remy Kremer allowed the Pittsburgh Pirates to even their series with the Boston Braves today, 1 to 0.

The Frenchman, displaying his best form of the season, let Boston down with three hits. Hub Pruett hurled masterful ball for the Braves, giving the Pirates but five hits. Both pitchers were given errorless support.

CHICAGO, July 15.—Lonnie Warnek got off to a shaky start today, the Brooklyns rapping him for two runs in the first inning, but from there on the big fellow from Arkansas was at his best and sailed through to his sixth straight victory, 8 to 3.

Charlie Grimm's home run with Barton on base put the Cubs ahead in the second inning, and they were never headed, hitting Cy Moore, Phelps and Mungo impartially.

PHILLIES 4; REDS 3.

CINCINNATI, July 15.—Outhit and outpitched, the Phillies nevertheless made smart fielding count for all it was worth to defeat the Cincinnati Reds today, 4 to 3, in 12 innings. In the first inning a double play nipped off a pending run. In the sixth the garden work intimidated Grantham so that he threw away a chance to score and stopped at third. Despite Herman's homer in the third and a bunch of doubles, the Reds had 15 left on the bags to outweigh having no strikeouts chalked against them in favor of Philadelphia pitchers.

ST. LOUIS, July 15.—Three big innings, two of which were climaxed by home runs with plenty of men on the bases, gave the New York Giants their second straight over the Cardinals today, 12 to 4.

The Giants jumped on Bill Hallahan early, scoring five runs in the second inning, and Freddie Lindstrom disposed of the southpaw for good when he hit one out of the lot with the bases full in the fifth. Mel Ott provided three more runs in the sixth with a homer off Stout.

Jim Bottomley hit two homers and Jim Collins another to account for three of the losers' runs off Fitzsimmons.

VARIETY, ACTION ON WEBER CARD

Bear hugs, headlocks, cradle splits and most of the other methods of muscular mistreatment which are part and parcel of the wrestling profession, will be on exhibition at Ponce de Leon park Tuesday night when Henry Weber puts on his third outdoor show of the current season.

All four grapplers who perform in the two main matches, each scheduled for an hour and a half time limit, best two falls out of three, have been going well of late. Jim Clinkstock, 230-pound Cherokee Indian who meets Milo Steinborn, the Titanic Teuton, in one of the bouts, only a few days ago conquered "Wee Willie" Davis, the Virginian, in a feature match at Chicago.

Steinborn, the bear hug specialist, pinned Paul Harper, the Texan, at New Orleans Thursday in his latest engagement. On the same card Ernie Dusek, the Nebraska kid, vanquished Marshall Blackstock, Atlanta grappler. Ernie's opponent here Tuesday, big George Zaharias, the St. Louis Greek, scored a sensational victory over Herman Hickman, ex-Tennessee grid star, last week.

Tickets for the matches are going fast at the Piedmont Hatters and Davison-Paxon's. Ladies will be admitted for 75 cents in accordance with Matchmaker Weber's custom.

score and in the fourth Johnny Gill snagged Mule Shirley's low liner with a miraculous catch. With two runners on base, Boss and Barfoot smothered Marquard's rap in the sixth for a third out.

Marquard's undoing might be traced to the fifth for with one out, Bolton and Boss delivered successive singles. He walked Travis, filling the bases. He had previously fanned Bonowitz. Wilburn hit to Chatham with a double play in sight but Goff failed to complete it and Bolton scored. Duster Mails then pulled the surprise of surprises and singled to left to score Boss and Wilburn. The Duster hasn't made many hits this season, but boy he was proud of that one.

NEAR RIOT.

The game was not without its sideline excitement. In the seventh the Lookouts alleged that Eisemann, Cracker catcher, had tripped Barfoot in tagging him out at the plate and considerable chin wagging ensued, bordering on a near fisticuff and Manager Barron vigorously took Eisemann's side.

Chattanooga's fandom was well represented, a group of citizens keeping up a noisy din of cowbells and sirens in an effort to rattle Marquard. It sounded like the same cowbells that were rung so incessantly at Chattanooga Sunday.

Today's game, closing out the series, starts at 3 p. m. Hearn will pitch for Atlanta and McColl for Chattanooga. Bob Hasty was due to work but hasn't been put on the roster. The series is now even and after the fracas of last night, the Crackers announced they are out to make it two out of three.

CHANDLER LIKED BY NEW YORK

Spurgeon Chandler, former University of Georgia pitching star, will be recalled by the New York Yankees in the early fall and given a trial on the mound, it has become known through Yankee scouts visiting in Atlanta.

One of the Yankee ivory hunters told Bill White, Chandler's coach at Georgia yesterday, that he had received direct word from the Yankee office that Chandler's splendid showing since being sent to Springfield, in the Eastern league, had warranted a trial in the Yankee stadium, and that he would not be surprised to see the former Bulldog performing under Joe McCarthy's critical eye in an American league game as early as the middle of August.

Since being sent to Springfield by the Yankees Chandler has not lost a single game, and has hurled two shutouts. He was a star on the Georgia football team for three years and probably the best punter that Harry Mehre ever coached.

TO BARNSTORM.

GENOA, Italy, July 15.—(AP)—Plans for a barnstorming tour of major United States cities by the Italian Olympic boxing squad were disclosed today by Filiberto Ferri, manager of the squad, as he sailed to join the team in Los Angeles. Ferri said the Italians will box in tournaments in Chicago, Detroit, New York, Philadelphia and other cities following the Olympics.

Top Flight Favorite In Rich Classic Today

By George Kirksey,

United Press Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, July 15.—(UP)—Top Flight, queen of the American turf, tonight was favored to win the Arlington classic, world's richest 3-year-old race, at Arlington park tomorrow before an expected crowd of 30,000 persons.

Beaten only once in her career, Top Flight was quoted a 7-5 favorite for the mile and a quarter race which may produce the leading contender for the 3-year-old championship of 1932.

Top Flight has won 10 out of her 11 starts, finishing fourth in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica early in the spring in her first competition as a 3-year-old. C. V. Whitney's filly ranks sixth of the money winners on the American turf and if she gallops home first tomorrow in the $70,000 added classic will move up just behind Sun Beau, world's leading money winner. Sun Beau has won $576,744 and Top Flight $260,925.

Thirteen 3-year-olds were named today for the rich stake but overnight scratches are expected to reduce the field to 10. If 10 start the race will gross approximately $85,000.

Top Flight's three leading rivals seem to be Faireno, winner of the Belmont, Shevlin and Dwyer stakes in the east who is making his first start in the west, Gusto, American Derby winner, and Stepenfetchit, Latonia Derby winner, who apparently has improved considerably after disappointing showings in the Kentucky and American derbies. Faireno is quoted second choice at 5-2 and Gusto third choice at 4-1.

FIGHT FOR LEAD IN DIXIE LEAGUE HOLDS INTEREST

North Atlanta Baptist and Northwest Atlanta To Battle Today.

Runner-up meets leader in three of the four leagues of the Y-Church A. A. today and fans of the city are assured some unusually hard-fought battles. In the other league, the leader will meet a newcomer to the loop.

North Atlanta Baptist will attempt to gain a tie with Northwest Atlanta for the Dixie league lead, in the game that will attract fans of this circuit. The Atlantic Steel Plant diamond is the scene.

Interest of the Piedmont league fans will center on the Kirkwood Baptist-Alpha class game at Grant park as the former can tie the latter for the lead by winning. Carter will hurl for the Baptists, while Fowler will be on the mound for the leaders.

Inman Yard Baptist, undefeated leaders of the second half of the Sewanee league race, will meet the first-half winners, J. O. Y. class, of Central Baptist at Inman Yards in the best game of the league series.

Pattillo Memorial Feds, taking the place of the Bethany Methodist Juniors in the Fulton league, will make their debut against the leaders, Capitol View Methodist, at the Waterworks diamond. All games will start promptly at 3 o'clock, with the following schedule to be played:

DIXIE LEAGUE.

CITY LEAGUE.

One of the most important games of the year is scheduled in the City league this week when City Hall meets Douglasville at Clark University diamond. City Hall gave Douglasville a hard chase for the championship in the first half of the league, and the honors for the second half also seem to be between these two. The winner today will have a toe-hold on the league title. The game is being played at Clark instead of Almand park. Ray Francis, ex-Cracker, will pitch for City Hall. Whittier will play Fisher Body a hard game at Whittier also. Griffin travels to College Park to play this time.

Postoffice will attempt to maintain a perfect record this week against Southern Bell at Piedmont, while in the other corner Standard Oil will engage Buick. Exposition Mills has dropped out of the Scott league, making it necessary for Railway Mail to be idle this week.

CITY LEAGUE.

City Hall vs. Douglasville at Clark University.
Marietta vs. Hapeville at Marietta.
College Park vs. Griffin at College Park.
Whittier vs. Fisher Body at Whittier.

SCOTT LEAGUE.

Postoffice vs. Southern Bell at northeast Piedmont.
Standard Oil vs. Buick at northwest Piedmont.
Railway Mail Service takes a bye.

SOUTHWEST LEAGUE.

With the strong Ben Hill team firmly entrenched in first place in the Western league, interest in the Southwest Sunday School Athletic Association will center around play in the Southern league of the association, where the teams seem to be more evenly balanced.

The feature battle on Saturday afternoon's card is expected to be staged on the Central Christian diamond where the Christians act as host to the Oakland City Methodists. Central Christian at present is sharing the leadership of the Southern league with Lakewood Baptist, while Oakland City Methodist is only a notch behind in second place with a record of two victories and one setback. Lakewood is booked to meet Park Street Methodist Saturday.

Ben Hill, Western league leader, is scheduled to meet Center Hill, one of the three teams tied for second place. White, who last week pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Cascade, in all probabilities will be on the firing line for Ben Hill.

SATURDAY'S SCHEDULE.

SOUTHERN LEAGUE.

Lakewood Baptist vs. Park Street Methodist at Joe E. Brown.
Oakland City Methodist vs. Central Christian at Central Christian. Umpire, Flynn.

Center Hill vs. Ben Hill at Ben Hill. Umpire, McDonald.
Central Presbyterian Co-Eds vs. Calvary Methodist at Adair park.

Sandlot Games.

NORTH SIDE LEAGUE.

Roy Shoemake held the batsmen of the North Side Rebels hitless for nine innings and would have scored a shutout but for errors and bases on balls. The North Side Terrors won, 3 to 2, and hit when hits meant runs. As usual A. T. Hornsby led the attack with a single and double. Marion, of the winners, and Levkoff, of the losers, starred in the field.

N. S. Rebels ...... 000 010 010—2 0 0
N. S. Terrors ...... 110 000 10x—3 4 2

SOUTH SIDE LEAGUE.

The South Side Cubs defeated the South Side Aces, 16 to 11, in an old-fashioned slugfest. Everhart and A. Hendrix led the victors with three hits in four tries, with McCart hitting best for the losers.

WIN IN NINTH.

Cunningham hit a homer in the ninth inning to give Forest Park a hard-earned 8-to-7 victory over the Lakewood Hustlers. R. Adams led the hitmen of the game with three out of four. Phillips fanned 10 and L. Stith 6.

Forest Park .... 110 020 022—8 11 2

Reviewing the Shows

"Burly" Bancroft Stars In Paramount Film

Out of the many varied and difficult roles in which Paramount has placed Bancroft, "Lady and Gent," the feature attraction which opens today at the Paramount theater, gives him more latitude for his abilities.

Petite Wynne Gibson, latest Hollywood "find," who did so well with her role as Clara Deane, plays opposite the virile Mr. Bancroft, and Charles Starrett, James Gleason, John Wayne and Joyce Compton have other leading parts.

Bancroft and Miss Gibson are cast as a couple of self-styled "big-timers" who dwell on the shady side of Broadway, battling merrily with each other and with anyone else who crosses their path. The uneven tenor of their lives becomes even more uneven when Bancroft's best friend dies and leaves a 12-year-old son alone in the world. Just what their responsibilities are to the lad, they sit down to consider, and they reach a conclusion that produces results as whimsical as they are radical.

New Picture at Rialto Is "Hollywood Speaks"

The new feature this morning at the Rialto theater is "Hollywood Speaks," a Columbia production that goes a step further than anything hitherto made in exposing some of the not too savory conditions under which stars are made in Hollywood itself.

It tells the story of a girl, consumed with ambition for success on the screen who is ready to do anything at all to win favor with the great among the directors and other powers that be in the movie world. How close she comes to utter ruin and how she is only awakened and saved at the end by realization of the danger others have incurred for her sake, makes a powerful and emotion-filled drama.

Genevieve Tobin and Pat O'Brien, of "The Front Page" fame, have the principal roles, while others in the cast include Rita LaRoy, Lucien Prival, Ralf Harolde, Leni Stengel, etc. Eddie Buzzell directed.

Clever comedies, late newsreel flashes and other short subjects complete Manager Murray's new program for his popular downtown house.

Five Teams Lost To Sandlot Loop

Five teams in Atlanta's junior sandlot league are faced with expurgation from the organization for using players under assumed names and the schedule now is being revised to allow for their dismissal, it became known yesterday.

Complaints registered by several competing teams that these clubs had used boys under fictitious names led to the investigation by Major Trammell Scott. A few years back, Major Scott was forced to forfeit a number of games because some of the teams played boys over age.

Jim Cagney at Georgia In "Winner Take All"

During the filming of fight scenes for his pugilistic role in "Winner Take All," which opens at the Georgia theater today, hundreds of extras were used in a reproduction of Madison Square Garden, where James Cagney, star of the picture, was putting on his fights.

In order to get the necessary amount of footage, Cagney would fight and the cameras would grind just as long as the fighting actor was able to stand up under it. The midday pause was usually called when Cagney was too tired to go on, and the same went for the end of the day.

But Cagney had a lot of stamina and stood up under it all too well, with the result that the extras had two yells which they used at their respective times of the day.

One was, "Knock Cagney out! We want to eat," or "Knock Cagney out! We want to go home." However, Cagney was never knocked out because he had trained for several weeks for this picture, and in many instances he was on the verge of actually knocking out his opponents who were real masters of the art of self-defense.

In addition to the feature picture, the Georgia also offers the latest news events in Pathe news, an Andy Clyde comedy entitled "The Gay '90s," and a screen song.

Smith To Pitch For Constitution

Harry Smith, the latest sensation of the Press league, will pitch for The Constitution nine against the Jewish Progressive Club Sunday morning at Almand park.

Last week Smith, making his debut in the league, struck out 20 Georgian batters, being a new record. The medium-sized right-hander breezed a fast ball down the alley that figuratively left smoke in its wake.

The Constitution was unable to defeat the J. P. C.'s in the first half and will rely on the able right arm of Smith to lead them to a victory tomorrow. The game will begin at 10 a. m. There is no admission fee.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—Operations for the advance were resumed in today's stock market and found traders willing to participate in a moderate mark-up.

Some hesitation was evident in the early dealings, but with activity getting progressively duller on the reaction efforts to turn the trend encountered little resistance. Tobacco shares led the rally, which was joined in turn by rails, oils and other classifications.

At the close several leaders were 1 to 3 points higher, but the average gain fell somewhat short of Wednesday's. Transactions totaled 816,940 shares.

With the market commodiy-conscious, it was apparent that renewed strength in cotton and steadiness of wheat after yesterday's sharp decline were factors.

American Telephone closed 1 5-8 to the good.

Tobacco shares were stimulated by recent reports that June cigaret consumption showed a smaller decline from 1931 than has been the case recently. American Tobacco "B" gained 2 points and Liggett & Myers "B" 3 points in active trading.

Industrials showed fair strength, Steel common being up nearly a point.

Weekly mercantile reviews were interested in the prospect of improved purchasing power through higher commodity prices, especially in the important farming country.

Foreign Markets

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

LONDON—Most sections drooped on the stock exchange due to profit-taking and less favorable overnight Wall Street reports. However, more cheerful Paris reports and repurchases in the afternoon caused a steadier close.

PARIS—The bourse finished the week with an excellent tendency. Under favorable reports from foreign markets and the influence of the Anglo-French agreement, prices soared throughout the session and closed firm.

BERLIN—Trading was quiet on the boerse and the close was lower.

TRADE TRENDS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

CONSTRUCTION—Swelled by a $10,000,000 order for work on the Hoover dam, heavy engineering contracts last week reached a valuation of $35,700,000, the second highest week for the year, according to Engineering New-Record. This compares with a weekly average of $29,000,000 so far in July and a weekly average of $23,000,000 for June.

STEEL—A few steel manufacturers in the Youngstown district report gains in some departments in spite of the generally stagnant state of business. Increased operations are largely based on orders for special products apart from the general run of finished and semi-finished lines.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, 15 points up at 5.65.

Receipts, 3; shipments, 74; stocks, 158,567.

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—The cotton market was generally higher today on trade buying and covering prompted by relatively steady Liverpool cables, and apprehension that a continuance of very high temperatures in the south might cause plant deterioration.

October contracts closed at 5.84, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 17 to 19 points.

The opening was 2 to 4 points higher in response to the relatively steady showing of Liverpool. Offerings increased slightly on the bulge owing to reports of continued favorable weather for boll weevil control in the south. Offerings were absorbed on comparatively slight reactions. The market then steadied. July sold at 5.72 and December at 6.06, making net gains of about 14 to 23 points on the general list.

General business was quiet. Reports that entomologists had found slightly decreased weevil damage in South Carolina as a result of hot, dry weather came in for some comment, but evidently had little effect on the market.

Selling of new crop positions recently attributed to brokers with co-operative connections was much less in evidence. Liverpool cable reported local and Bombay liquidation with a poor off-take in that market. Exports today 20,349, making 8,591,396 so far this season. Port receipts 11,314. United States port stocks 3,493,363.

18 TO 20-POINT GAINS MADE IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, July 15.—(AP)—Cotton, after starting comparatively slow, became quite active and prices advanced sahrply despite the continued fair weather. The advance was due to fears that the high temperatures would do damage, firmness in the stock market, reports of considerable shedding and weevil spread in Texas and the prospect of an early adjournment of congress.

By the late afternoon prices showed gains of 25 points over the opening figures. There was a reaction of 4 to 5 points on realizing at the end and the market closed steady at net gains for the day of 18 to 20 points.

The market opened rather irregular. Liverpool cables came in 1 to 2 penny points worse than due and private cables stated that there was local and Bombay liquidation with a poor offtake. Manchester cabled that there was a fair cloth demand from the home trade and the near east.

Liverpool was due on New Orleans tomorrow 9 to 10 penny points up.

Port receipts 12,035; for week 32,216; for season 9,972,679; last season 8,963,490. Exports 20,657; for week 86,317; for season 8,399,643; last season 6,613,412. Port stock 3,514,839; last year 2,866,890. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 62,724; last year 38,010.

Brokers' Views

Stock Letters.

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER.

NEW YORK, July 15.—Today's market ostensibly drew upon political news for impetus behind the vigorous rally which developed in the latter part of the session. The political situation, however, has developed no unexpected angles and the belief that congress would adjourn late tonight or tomorrow was similarly without the element of surprise. Actually, we believe that a good part of strength represented in the recovery of stocks from their July 8 lows is attributable to the basic change which has developed in recent weeks in the commodities price situation. The current rally gives indications of being further extended tomorrow.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, July 15.—After a sluggish morning, stocks showed quiet strength, making up before the close most of their losses from yesterday's highs. Stocks seem to be in a position to extend their advance a little further, especially in the event of constructive news, but the basis for anything beyond a secondary recovery cannot as yet be discerned.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, July 15.—After early weakness the market turned around today and gained ground in the afternoon in line with expectation expressed in our morning wire. Reports that congress was likely to adjourn tonight or tomorrow helped sentiment considerably. Believe there will be continued chances for trading turns, but, except in specialties, would buy only on dips and take quick profits whenever available. American Commercial Alcohol and National Distillers also are specialties that indicate a better uptrend. The short interest seems largely concentrated in the trading favorites such as Can, Steel, Telephone, etc., and would therefore continue only a trading attitude toward those stocks, buying only on dips and selling on run-ups as soon as they occur.

DOBBS & CO.

NEW YORK, July 15.—We are not impressed with the argument that the prospect of further dividend reductions and omissions and poor second quarter statements will prevent a further recovery in the stock market after adjournment of congress. We prefer to hold the view that factors, such as the Lausanne reparations agreement, the Franco-British accord and other recent developments of a constructive character are of sufficient significance to more than counteract the discouraging aspects of the current business situation. The market today gave definite evidence of its ability to break away from the influence of the wheat market, and we view this as favoring continuation of the recovery.

Grain Letters.

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER.

CHICAGO, July 15.—Although wheat prices again made new low records for the season, selling pressure seemed to spend its force early in the day and the market demonstrated better rallying power and just before the close prices showed a fair advance as compared with last night. Liverpool completely ignored our weakness yesterday, closing practically unchanged for the day while Buenos Aires was slightly higher at noon. Winnipeg again acted independently of our market, being held firm by the same character of support which has been in evidence there all week. Were it not for selling the market would appear to have fully discounted the bearish news.

Cotton Letters.

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The market fluctuated near the previous close during greater portion of the first hour but later turned upward and by midafternoon established net gains of 19 to 25 points. Slight recessions occurred in late trading but final prices were 17 to 19 points above the close of yesterday. The most important factor in the advance today was active covering by professional operators heretofore quite bearish. They were influenced partly by increasing complaints of damage from excessive temperatures in the south and from continued weevil activities in much of the belt and partly by better action of securities and more favorable advices from Washington regarding relief legislation and adjournment. We look for considerable irregularity but have decided preference for the constructive side on recessions.

BEER & CO.

NEW ORLEANS, July 15.—With Liverpool cables one to two penny points worse than due and early reports indicating dry and hot weather over the cotton belt, with no prospect of rain in the offing, the local cotton market opened about unchanged and for some reason undetermined began to advance slowly after the opening and rose slowly about 20 points during the morning. Some claim the intensely hot weather will damage cotton, but to our way of thinking this weather is ideal for cotton and destructive to weevils, as there is plenty of moisture in the soil in the west and even in the east cotton could likely stand a longer period of hot weather without sustaining damage. We believe the real cause of the advance was a report from Washington indicating progress toward completion of the relief bill with prospects of congress adjourning late today. Market closed with net gains of 16 points.

HUBBARD BROS. TO DOBBS & CO.

NEW YORK, July 15.—After a rather quiet opening and a few points advance the market tapered off after the map was posted showing fair weather conditions over the belt. However, it was not long until reports began to reach the trade that temperatures in many quarters were considered too high and bad for cotton because of the fact that the plant was inclined to be sappy after the protracted wet spell during the month of June. The market has given a very good account of itself, proving its ability to resist the low points for the move. Reports from Washington that congress would adjourn tonight had a stimulating effect on the market.

CHICAGO, July 15.—(AP)—Sudden bulges in corn values rallied the grain markets today after wheat had collapsed to within 3-8 of the all-time bottom price record.

Corn closed unsettled 1-2 to 7-8 above yesterday's finish, wheat unchanged to 1-2 higher, oats 1-8 off to 1-8 up, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents down. Some buying of corn against simultaneous selling of wheat was apparent. Oats weakened with wheat, and both made a new low price record for the season. Oats and rye harvesting was said to be achieving rapid progress.

Provisions sagged owing to correct anticipation that Chicago stocks of lard would exhibit a large decrease for the last fortnight.

Senate Body to Probe Canada, U.S. WaterPact

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP)—The senate today approved an investigation by its foreign relations committee of the St. Lawrence waterway treaty between the United States and Canada.

Without a record vote it passed a resolution by Chairman Borah, republican, Idaho, authorizing an inquiry into the treaty by a subcommittee of the foreign relations committee with power to hold hearings during the summer.

Borah obtained committee approval of the resolution by polling members on the floor in his move to expedite action prior to adjournment and after members had agreed, brought the resolution up out of order and obtained its approval.

RESERVE GOVERNORS MEET IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 15.—(AP)—Governors of most of the 12 federal reserve banks of the country conferred here today with members of the federal reserve board.

The nature of the conference was not divulged and officials of the board declined to say what was discussed. It was not a regular meeting of the board but the governors meet frequently between scheduled sessions.

In addition to George L. Harrison, governor of the New York bank, W. R. Burgess, deputy governor, also was present.

Eugene R. Black, governor of the Sixth Federal Reserve bank, at Atlanta, is in Washington attending the conference, the bank stated Friday. Officers here said that the matters to be taken up by the reserve bank governors were not known in Atlanta.

DOW, JONES SEES CUT IN A. T. & T. DIVIDEND

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—Dow, Jones & Co., said today that directors of American Telephone & Telegraph Co. are "certain to discuss a reduction in the $9 annual dividend rate" when they meet on August 17.

It was pointed out that earnings of $4.02 per share reported for the first half fell somewhat short of the $4.50 dividend requirement, and in addition reflected the fact that subsidiary and associated companies paid out in dividends roughly $8,000,000 more than they earned. Had they not paid out that much from surplus, the earnings of American Telephone for the first half would have been about $3.60 a share.

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—Bonds continued to make headway in moderate trading today.

The United States governments were barely steady, and some of the foreigns reacted moderately, but among the domestic issues striking gains were made in spots, particularly among second-grade rails and in the oils. Price index of 60 corporate issues gained 1-5 of a point. The turnover approximated $9,893,000, par value, virtually duplicating yesterday's.

In the rails, a feature was a large turnover and an advance of more than 4 points in the Nickle Plate 6s. In the utilities, the Consolidated Gas issues eased slightly. The American Telephone issues were about steady.

In the oils, gains of about 1 to 2 points appeared in issues of Phillips Petroleum, Sinclair, Shell, Texas Corporation and others.

In the foreigns, the German governments recovered from an early sag to close about steady.

Highlights of Wall Street

BY CHARLES W. STORM,
Editor, the News Service of Wall Street.

NEW YORK, July 15.—The stock market today began discounting adjournment of congress. The street believes adjournment will be followed by an influx of buyers into both the stock and bond markets in sufficient number to cause a sharp advance in prices of securities.

The better undertone shown in the stock market today reflected buying of the more venturesome speculator who has started to anticipate the upward movement.

Strength of the general share list, at a time when wheat prices touched a new low for the season, was considered significant. Professional bears hold the present strength is only a rally, but investment banking interests believe it is the beginning of recovery.

MOST HOPEFUL SIGN.

One of the most important developments contributing to the better absorption of stocks is the surprisingly quick sale the last three days of approximately $70,000,000 of public utility bonds by investment bankers.

The lead was taken by the National City Company, and the quickness with which that investment banking institution disposed of $10,000,000 of Brooklyn Union Gas and $30,000,000 of Consolidated Gas bonds gave the lie to the repeated declaration that there was no money available for investment.

An issue of $25,000,000 of Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston bonds also was disposed of rapidly. The buyers of the new offerings embrace all types and included insurance companies, trust companies, banks and individuals.

Subscriptions came from all parts of the country for Brooklyn Union Gas. Orders for the Consolidated Gas bonds were heaviest from the metropolitan area but also came in heavy volume from New England, the far west, Philadelphia and Chicago.

UTILITIES STAND UP.

One of the most pleasant surprises of the day was furnished by the public utility group which stood up well in the face of an unfavorable statement of earnings by the American Telephone & Telegraph Company for the first six months of this year, showing less than the dividend earned during that period, and the issuance of an order by the public service commission of Wisconsin restraining the public utilities operating in that state from declaring dividends.

Despite this order, viewed as unprecedented, the news failed to depress the public utility issues which participated with the rest of the list in the upward movement.

The action of the Wisconsin public service commission is understood to be based on a desire to prevent dissipation of assets of operating companies through dividend declarations to holding companies.

B. M. T. STATEMENT.

Recent reports that prominent financial and business authorities contemplated forming a protective committee to take a more active part in the affairs of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit elicited a formal statement today from Bernard M. Baruch, Elisha Walker, Joseph P. Kennedy and Herbert Bayard Swope that they were not forming such a committee, but added they had been offered two places on the board of the B. M. T.

The joint statement was a source of gratification to owners of B. M. T. securities since it was accepted as indicating that Messrs. Baruch, Walker, Swope and Kennedy would take an active, constructive interest in the company's affairs.

B. M. T. common advanced a point and the preferred more than a point following publication of the statement.

ADVANCE RESUMED IN CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—The curb market resumed its advance in the afternoon trading today.

Gains predominated among the more active issues at the finish. Trading slackened, the turnover of 80,000 shares falling 30,000 under yesterday's.

Some of the more thinly traded utility issues made substantial gains.

Associated Gas "A" again made a new low, at 5-8, and closed at 7-8. American Gas & Electric gained a point, and Electric Bond was up a fraction.

Oils were steady to firm, with both Gulf and Indiana up fractionally. Industrials were mixed.

M. G. M. ANNOUNCES CUT IN SALARIES

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—Artists, directors and other employes of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Loew motion picture interests earning $1,500 or more a week will have their pay checks cut by 35 per cent under a general salary reduction order effective next Monday. Announcement of the slash was made today by Nicholas M. Schenck, president of both companies.

CONGRESSMAN, LAWYER FIGHT IN ARKANSAS

CONWAY, Ark., July 15.—(AP)—A fist fight between Congressman Heartsill Ragon and Frank Bird, Little Rock attorney, enlivened a political rally and picnic at Mount Vernon, near here, yesterday.

Order was restored by two sheriff's deputies who stepped between the congressman and his adversary after they had exchanged several blows. The fisticuffs were precipitated when Bird shouted "Liar!" during an address Congressman Ragon was making in behalf of his renomination in the forthcoming democratic primary.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

In his essay on Silence Maeterlinck quotes Caryle as follows: "Silence and Secrecy! Altars might still be raised to them (were this an altar building time) for universal worship. Silence is the element in which great things fashion themselves together, that at length they may emerge, full-formed, majestic, into the daylight of life, which they are henceforth to rule. Nay, in thine own perplexities, do thou but hold thy tongue for one day and on the morrow how much clearer thy purposes and duties!"

These men of contemplative mood may apostrophize silence as being the most fertile soil for thought, they may tell us a thousand beautiful things about it, thought will not work in any but the silent atmosphere, but when they have finished the talkers remain talkers and the silent men, silent.

"Silence is golden," says the young salesman, "but I sell my line by talking about it." "Let the prospective buyers sell themselves," my boss tells me, but my experience is that the prospective buyers are too busy trying to sell their wares to others to be interested in selling my wares to themselves. No, I say if you can't hand them a good talk about your own line you can't expect them to divine its merits or to test its lasting qualities. Talk to 'em, that's my way to make 'em see it the way I see it, and if the first talk fails, then try another."

Intellectually and emotionally that young man and Maeterlinck belong each to a different race. Members of one have nothing in common with members of the other but feet and legs and a few animal propensities. Each of them is right as far as he goes and each of them is practical from his point of view. The poet composes rhythmic sentences about the beauty of silence and the salesman declaims the virtues of his line. Silence is becoming to one because he makes his living writing his thoughts while the other makes his living giving vocal expression to his, if indeed they are his, and not memorized thoughts that his boss has advanced to him in case he should have none of his own. The salesman is further justified in his contention because he is convinced that he has something to say, something which the world will be much better for hearing. Most of us that lay such store by talk, haven't such justification. We talk because we hate silence. We talk because we haven't self-control enough to remain silent. We talk because we know an entertaining piece of news. We talk to put ourselves in a better position, as if we could do it by mere talk. We talk to induce others to reply and tell us what we wish to hear. We talk, hoping by our apparent frankness to draw our friends away from the center of our thoughts where are lodged some things about which we not only won't talk, but some things about which we won't think. We talk in temper. We talk in grief and we talk in joy, and we generally say foolish things that we forget, or if we remember, things that we regret. In almost every instance we would be far better off if we held our tongues. Have you ever been sorry, reader, for having held your peace? Have you ever been sorry for having wagged your tongue? If both, count the ratio. It is probably 99 to 1 in favor of silence.

There are all sorts of silent people. But the two main classes are the stupid and the astute. Those that belong to the first class are conscious that they have no thoughts worth expressing but as compensation they have a sort of cunning that teaches them to hide their deficiency behind a curtain of silence. People may suspect that they are stupid, but they cannot prove that they are so long as they don't express themselves. Isn't it fear of being classified with this group that makes many people "out-talk themselves." Nobody wants to be thought stupid, not even the stupid man himself.

The other class of silent people are the astute, whose very consciousness of superior mental capacity and mental attainment makes them feel free to sit back in silence while the garrulous gabble. They have read history and have discovered that many of its tragedies have been the result of too much talk. They have observed life and have discovered that, oftener than otherwise, the still tongue has indicated the wise head. They have observed that the man whose opinion is withheld until it is asked is the man whose opinion men respect. They have seen unfortunate situations precipitated by talk when by silence they might have been avoided. They have seen what should have been pleasant intercourse between friends completely spoiled by the mistaken idea that silence on the part of a host or hostess indicated lack of hospitality and that silence on the part of guest indicated boredom. All these things they have seen, and being astute, they have refused to fall into the talk trap. And they have said to us by their silence that they are wise in this world's ways.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

The Lure of Seven-Card Suits.

Whenever a hand contains a suit of seven cars or more, most players become affected with a complex, and insist that the hand be played in that particular suit, regardless of the fit of the hand with partner's. Actually, holding a seven-card suit should only slightly complicate the question of finding the best bid in the combined hands, which is the primary object of Contract bidding.

Recently, Mrs. R. W. Bardwell, of Madison, Wis., sent me the hand below and asked me to give the correct bidding, pointing out at the same time that in a Duplicate game in that city every East player had insisted upon playing the hand in spades, while there was a game available at notrump or hearts.

South—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

North:
♠ Q
◇ K 9 7 4 2

West:
◇ A J
♣ K Q 10 9 2

East:

◇ Q 5 3

South:
♠ K 9 7 3

◇ 10 8 6

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♡(1)	Pass	1♠(2)
Pass	3♣(3)	Pass	3♠(4)
Pass	4♣(5)	Pass	4♡(6)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Not strong enough to open with a Forcing bid of two in a suit.
2—This hand is not strong enough to force. The "One over One" response to an Opening bid is almost sure to elicit further bidding from partner.
3—Showing a second biddable suit, and insisting that the hand be played at game.
4—Disclosing Rebid strength in the spade suit.
5—Asking for a choice between the two suits.
6—East, perhaps reluctantly, makes a choice.

Played in hearts, the question of making six-odd is only a matter of the diamond finesse, although six should not be bid.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Few players are strong enough to resist the lure of extremely long holdings in bidding a hand at Contract. Even freakish holdings, however, should not blind the player to the fact that the object of Contract bidding is finding the correct declaration in the combined hands.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

West—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

North:
♠ K 7 6 2
♡ 10 9 8 7 4
◇ 9 8 4
♣ A

West:
♠ A 8

East:

◇ Q J 10 7 3

South:
♠ Q J 10 5 4 3
♣ K Q J 6 5 3 2

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

FLAGLER HEIRS NAMED DEFENDANTS IN SUIT

NEW YORK, July 15.—(AP)—The trustees and beneficiaries of the will of the late Henry Flagler's widow were named defendants in a suit filed in supreme court today by Scott M. Loftin, receiver for the Florida East Coast railway. The action involves a trust fund of $12,000,000.

The defendants were William R. Kenan Jr., and Lawrence Haines, trustee of the estate of Mrs. Mary Lily Flagler Bingham, to whom Flagler was reputed to have willed $100,000,000 when he died in 1913; Mrs. Jessie Kenan Wise and Mrs. Sarah Graham Kenan, of Wilmington, N. C., Mrs. Bingham's sisters; Mrs. Louise Clisby Wise Francis, a niece, and the University of North Carolina among other beneficiaries.

TRUCK KILLS BOY, 12, ASLEEP UNDER WHEELS

MIAMI, Fla., July 15.—(AP)—Jesse Morrison, 12, who came here last night with a truck load of produce from Belle Glade, was killed today when the truck, under which he had gone to sleep after arrival, was driven off. A rear wheel passed over the child's head.

Allen R. Parker, Miami, driver of the truck, was being held pending investigation of the death.

BIG DECREASE FORESEEN IN GA. TOBACCO CROP

ATHENS, Ga., July 15.—(AP)—A decrease of 72 per cent in tobacco production in Georgia this year, due to a March freeze and damage from blue mold, is indicated in the July summary of the Georgia crop reporting service.

With the exception of tobacco and the fruit crops, however, the reported condition of all Georgia crops was above that of one year ago.

The report said:

"Acreage of tobacco has been cut nearly two-thirds from last year. Early season plans were for a substantial decrease ind fewer seed beds were sown. The early March freeze, together with ravages of the blue mold, were responsible for a plant shortage, which resulted in acreage being lowered to about 36 per cent of 1931. With an indicated yield of 550 pounds, production upon the 30,000 acres should approximate about 16,500,000 pounds as compared with 59,640,000 pounds harvested last season, or a decrease of 72 per cent."

Insurance Declines.

NEW YORK, July 15.—(UP)—New life insurance totaling $5,027,768,000 was issued during the first six months of 1932, 13.9 per cent below the first six months of last year.

TARZAN THE UNTAMED No. 24

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Copyright, 1932, by Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc.

After the next shot Tarzan moved with pantherlike stealth down the steep hillside. From the edge of a low cliff, he saw upon a ledge fifteen feet below him, a Red soldier lying concealed from the British.

The Red sniper lay well back of his own lines, firing over the heads of his fellows. As the ape-man discovered him, he had laid aside his binoculars and was preparing to fire again at the British.

That shot was never fired. Suddenly a brown body sprang forward from the cliff above. Probably the Red never knew what alighted on his back, for Tarzan's steel fingers circled his throat. There was a moment of futile struggling and——the sniper was done for. Tarzan now watched the Reds' trenches below. He saw a well-hidden machine gun striking at the British, who evidently failed to locate it. Using the dead sniper's rifle, Tarzan took careful aim.

SECKATARY HAWKINS

Up a Tree

By Robert Franc Schulkers

WHILE SHADOW AND I HAD BEEN OVER IN PELHAM LOOKING FOR THE RED-HEADED ENEMY, OF OUR TWO NEW CLUB-MEMBERS, WE MET QUAYLE, AN OLD MEMBER OF SADLER'S SEVENTEEN GANG, Seck.
HAWKINS, THERE MUST BE A RED-HEADED CLUB NEAR HERE- WE BOYS HAVE SEEN THREE DIFFERENT RED-HEADS AROUND HERE—
WE HELD A MEETING AND DECIDED TO FORM SCOUTING PARTIES — SHADOW AND I WERE TOGETHER
HAWKINS, LET'S GO IN THE SAME DIRECTION ARTHUR AND WALTER DID—THOSE RED-HEADS ARE LIABLE TO TACKLE THEM
ALL RIGHT, SHADOW! I'LL GO BY THIS PATH AND YOU GO BY THE OTHER- THEN WE'LL BE SURE NOT TO MISS THEM—
OKAY, SECK! SEE YOU LATER—
I WALKED ALONG UNTIL I SAW TWO BOYS STANDING UNDER A TREE- THE SUNLIGHT GLINTED COPPER COLORED IN THEIR HAIR!
RED-HEADS!
I SHINNED UP A TREE AND IT WAS LUCKY I DID, BECAUSE THEY CAME AND SAT DOWN UNDER THE VERY TREE I WAS IN.
THE REST OF THE GANG IS COMING—THEY MUST HAVE CAUGHT THOSE TWO KIDS!

POSTMASTERS OF U. S. URGED TO ORGANIZE

Action Would Insure Passage of Beneficial Legislation, Meeks States.

ROME, Ga., July 15.—E. A. Meeks, president of the national district of postmasters, delivered the principal address at the state district convention here Friday, in which he urged postmasters to organize in order that beneficial legislation, which the national organization is sponsoring, may be carried through. He said it was necessary to keep such problems before the lawmakers to prevent passage of harmful legislation but that it would be an act of disloyalty, however, to force appropriations from congress beyond the power of the treasury to meet.

Louis Brehm, director of the service relations division of the postoffice department, brought greetings from Postmaster-General Brown to the convention and spoke of the benefits that the service relations division has given postal workers.

Officers re-elected were H. C. Hays, Mansfield, president; Mrs. L. Bertie Rushing, vice president; B. N. Walters, second vice president; Miss Mattie Lewis, third vice president, and Miss Mellie Pitts, secretary. Miss Lewis was also selected as a delegate to the national convention. Macon was chosen as the site for the convention in 1933.

'Live-at-Home' Plan Would Save State $48,000,000 Each Year

ATHENS, Ga., July 15.—A "live at home" program, which, if successfully carried out will save the people of Georgia nearly $48,000,000 yearly, was outlined at the closing session of the annual institute of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs Friday by Dr. J. Phil Campbell, director of agricultural extension at the Georgia State College of Agriculture.

"The people of the state," Dr. Campbell declared, "spent $48,000,000 last year in food and feed purchases from other states. Practically all of this money can be saved for the state by the raising of the products at home. Furthermore, the products can be raised on half the land now cultivated for cotton."

Dr. Campbell was introduced by Mrs. John K. Ottley, Atlanta, a leader among women farm specialists, and who led the discussions about the program. She declared, in her introductory remarks, that prosperity of farmers is essential to prosperity to other classes of people.

Mrs. John Barnes, Royston, was named to represent the state federation in working with Dr. Campbell and others to promote the "live at home" program. District and local representatives are expected to be appointed also.

A plea for America to take courage and "break away from the psychosis of fear" was made by Dr. S. V. Sanford, president of the University of Georgia, at the morning session. Dr. Sanford used as a topic "Our National Challenge."

Dr. J. H. T. McPherson, head of the University of Georgia history department, gave a brief talk on "How to Study International Problems" and Miss Emily Louise Plumley, institute director, spoke on the significance of the White House conference on child health and protection, home ownership and home building.

Two forums, one at 3 p. m. and the other at 4 p. m., closed the institute program Friday.

"Through the Gateway" was the theme of the first forum, which was led by Mrs. W. W. Starke, Commerce. The theme of the other forum was "The Significance of the Club Conference," led by Mrs. John MacDougald, Atlanta.

FORWARD GEORGIA BODY GATHERS IN DOUGLAS

DOUGLAS, Ga., July 15.—(AP)—An enthusiastic meeting of the Forward Georgia movement, under the auspices of the Douglas Chamber of Commerce, directed by President W. R. Wilson, was held at the county courthouse this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The radio address from Atlanta last night over WSB by Mike Benton, chairman of the radio committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, was heard in Douglas with much appreciation.

The speakers this afternoon, besides the local president and other local people, were Roy LeCraw, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Jack Hart, of the extension division, department of agriculture; W. S. Brown, district agricultural agent, and C. G. Garner, marketing specialist.

The principal object of the meeting was to promote better marketing of Georgia products and the co-operation of county agents and civic bodies, looking to the ultimate establishment of a central market with ample warehouses in Atlanta, where all Georgia farm products could be stored and placed on the market to the best advantage.

With prices of farm products below costs of production, speakers declared, many farmers realize that their future depends largely upon improved marketing facilities and they all appear willing to co-operate to the utmost.

The Douglas Chamber of Commerce through the work of President Wilson, is arousing considerable interest in the Forward Georgia movement, which will evidently bring results.

LOWER SCHOOL BUDGET IS SEEN FOR VALDOSTA

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 15.—On the basis of estimated reductions in property valuations, a reduced budget is expected for the city public schools for the term commencing in September, according to members of the board of education.

Because of a reduced income last term from the city, the board cut salaries 10 per cent. At the close of last term the teachers were re-elected, with notice that when they returned in the fall they could expect to meet another 10 per cent cut. Under the charter provisions of the city seven mills are levied by the council for the support of the schools and as the valuations fall in volume the amount collected on the millage is correspondingly reduced.

PUBLIC SERVICE BODY AT SAVANNAH TRIAL

Wrong Bear Barbecued For Corn Patch Raids

PENIA, Ga., July 15.—(AP)—Over at Pitts, Ga., residents killed and barbecued a bear, but it was not the one they thought it was, says S. B. Christmas.

The bear they thought they killed, he says, is still raiding his corn patch.

The animal in question escaped recently from its owner at Cochran, Ga. It had been purchased from a defunct circus.

Christmas says he frequently sees bear tracks in his cornfield and along side them are the marks of a chain which the animal is wearing about his neck.

REP. STEWART ANSWERS BAHNSEN'S COMMENT

The following is the final reply of C. E. Stewart, Coffee county legislator, to the concluding statement of Peter S. Bahnsen, former state veterinarian, in their controversy over the administration of the state veterinarian laws:

Editor Constitution: Chief Horse Doctor Bahnsen goes up in the air again and shouts "liar" and sueing for damages, etc., and is trying to switch from the subject of grafting the farmers of Georgia on serum and virus to talking about ticks. I have not said anything about his tick record while he was chief horse doctor of the state. I just hope that his tick record is not as black as his serum and virus record. I am sure, however, that the ticks never bled the cows as much as Bahsen and his crowd have bled the farmers of Georgia. I shall hold the doctor to our oginal subject, viz: His grafting on the farmers of this state on hog cholera serum and virus. When I mentioned about the legislative committee trying him for grafting on the farmers on serum and virus and recommending his removal from oifce, etc., he shouts "liar" and talks about ticks and tries to condemn Hon. Green Williams, of Worth county, the chairman of the committee which tried him. I will say in passing that the late lamented and distinguished legislator, Fermor Barrett, of Stephens county, also served on this committee. Here is what the House Journal says about the matter. I guess the chief horse doctor wil say that the Journal of the house of representatives "lies" too. The following are excerpts from the report of this legislative committee investigating and trying Bahnsen. Pages 1196-1197, House Journal, 1920: "It also appears from the evidence of Dr. Bahnsen, state veterinarian, that his profits on these articles (serum and virus) was about $6,000 net. There was other evidence to show that the profit was much larger. The distribution of the article named was handled by the office force of the state veterinarian."

"For lack of records in the office of the state veterinarian, we are unable to determine the exact amount of profit made in the handling of the serum."

"Under the law the state veterinarian is not authorized to engage in the private purchase of serum and virus."

After the senate and house committee had made their report condemning Horse Doctor Peter F. Bahnsen, the following resolution was prepared and offered in the house of representatives. See House Journal 1920. Pages 1170-1171.

"Whereas, the majority of said committee (six out of eight) have reported adversely against the said Peter F. Bahnsen, and

"Whereas, the evidence adduced at said investigation shows misconduct and unfitness for office on the part of the said Peter F. Bahnsen,

"Therefore, be it resolved by the house, the senate concurring that the said Peter F. Bahnsen is unfit longer to hold the office of the state veterinarian, and that the commissioner of agriculture is hereby instructed upon the passage of this resolution to vacate the said office and appoint, as soon as practicable, according to law, a successor to the said Peter F. Bahnsen."

That famous machine (of which Bahnsen was its rottenest part) saved Bahnsen's hide and prevented his impeachment. And he hung onto this office until Talmadge destroyed the machine and forced Bahnsen to resign for profiteering on the farmers.

CHARLES E. STEWART.

JUDGE MOON NAMED HEAD OF COWETA BAR

FRANKLIN, Ga., July 15.—Judge E. L. Moon, of LaGrange, was elected president of the Coweta County Circuit Bar Association today at the annual meeting and barbecue held at Flat Shoals camp. Judge Frank L. Loftin, of Franklin, was named an honorary president for the next year.

Ellis G. Arnall, Newnan attorney; Judge John Sibley, of Atlanta; Jack Allen, of Greenville, and Sam Boykin, of Carrollton, addressed the association during the session. Mr. Arnall, in his speech, eulogized the lawyer as a mainstay of civilization, saying that without lawyers there could be no laws, and without laws there could be no civilization.

The association unanimously passed a resolution extending pledges of loyalty and devotion to Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is an honorary member of the association. The resolution carried the best wishes of the association for a successful campaign as the presidential nominee of the democratic party.

Wave of Ice Burglaries Accompanies HeatWave

MACON, Ga., July 15.—(AP)—This middle Georgia city where the mercury has hovered around 99 degrees for two days has something to worry about besides hot weather.

A wave of ice thefts has been reported to police by ice plants and delivery men. One plant wired its premises to shock ice thieves but the wires were cut and the thieves kept on stealing. A young negro was arrested with a big block of stolen ice yesterday but the evidence melted.

RUSSELL ASSAILS CRISP, CONGRESS

Failure To Inflate Currency and Afford Relief for Jobless Hit.

ROYSTON, Ga., July 15.—Speaking in behalf of his candidacy for United States senate at Cromer's Mill, Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. declared today that when the congress convened in December it should have afforded relief to all of the people by immediately inflating the currency and making money more easily available instead of first rushing through a moratorium for the benefit of Europe and the Reconstruction Corporation for the benefit of big business. He declared that neither of these bills had put a single one of the unemployed to work and outlined a program of relief to the farmers and business generally.

He asserted that the times demanded the utmost rigid economy in the operation of the affairs of the national government and stated that this country could not survive in a time of prosperity with a tax burden of $5,000,000,000 per year and that in times of depression such an annual budget amounted to the confiscation of property and the deprivation of the right to live.

He assailed his opponent, Congressman Crisp, for his failure to show any interest in the welfare of the people of Georgia and particularly criticized him for proposing and passing an amendment to transfer the tax on electric current from the power trusts to the consumers.

He declared in favor of a tariff on jute, and in discussing this question Governor Russell said:

"In an effort to pose as a friend of the Georgia farmer, Mr. Crisp slyly states that he sought to arrange for a committee hearing for the tariff on jute without pointing out to the farmers of Georgia where he had once really made a fight to give them protection by a tariff on this commodity, which would cause the use of two and a half to three million bales of low-grade cotton each year. Mr. Crisp has been in the congress for 20 years; on the ways and means committee, which fixes the tariff schedules, for many years, and acting chairman of that committee since the democrats took charge of the house. Not once has he raised that clarion voice that forced, through the moratorium for the benefit of European countries and levied taxes on his own people, in defense of the Georgia farmer who is competing with the slave labor of India that produces jute.

Crisp Was Asked To Help.

"I hold in my hand the Congressional Record of Saturday, March 26, 1932, which shows that during the time of Mr. Crisp's greatest power in congress, caused by the sickness of Representative Collier, the chairman of the ways and means committee, that Representative Fulmer, of South Carolina, offered a tariff on jute and that he begged Mr. Crisp to help him impose this tariff to benefit the American farmer, but that Mr. Crisp either stood mute or left the floor of the house. Representative Fulmer said:

"'My friend from Georgia has been a member of the great ways and means committee for many years and is now acting chairman. He has either refused in the past to put a tariff on jute or he has been unable to do so. I think it comes with poor grace and certainly poor statesmanship on the part of the gentleman from Georgia to be romping on democratic members who refuse to go along with him in placing a sales tax on his people and our people who are now facing bankruptcy. In the gentleman's amendment now pending and which I am trying to amend so as to place a tax on jute, he proposes to place a tax on oil. I know of no oil wells in the gentleman's state, yet the gentleman is offering the amendment, but is unwilling for other members to enjoy the same privilege that he has taken upon himself. If this oil and gas provision raises revenue, it will be paid by his people and my people. In the meantime, when I offer an amendment to place a tariff on jute to give his farmers and my farmers a chance to control the American market, he would try to have the congress believe that I am trying to destroy the democratic party.'

"Representative Fulmer's speech is too long to read in full, but it contains not only a criticism of Mr. Crisp for offering an amendment to protect oil, but refusing to protect the farmer who buys the oil, but it shows the workings of the jute trust and its power in Washington.

Pledges Fight for Farmer.

"If I had been in congress for 20 years, with opportunity after opportunity to raise my voice against the large trusts and in defense of the Georgia farmer and could only show that I had extended some one the courtesy of a hearing before the committee on the traiff on jute, I would hang my head in shame every time I saw a cotton farmer in a faded hickory shirt and a patched pair of overalls. When I speak your voice on the floor of the United States senate, I will fight for equal protection for the farmers with the privileged industries of the nation and it will not take me 20 years to agree to a committee hearing on a tariff on jute, but at the first opportunity I will raise my voice to demand this tariff that will result in a substantial increase in the price of cotton and will permit the wheels of the cotton mills to again turn and give employment to cotton mill employes.

"A recent editorial in The Atlanta Constitution, before the senatorial campaign got under way, estimates that the price of cotton would immediately advance from two to three cents a pound if the tariff was imposed upon jute and I do not see how Mr. Crisp can face the cotton farmers and mill workers of Georgia and seek to explain his huge tax bill when he has never raised his voice in their behalf on the floor of the American congress.

"Agriculture is our basic industry and is the true source of all wealth and prosperity and until the American congress gives the farmer a square deal and equal protection no line of business in this country can prosper.

"Mr. Crisp's latest explanation of why he proposed an amendment which took the three per cent tax on electric current off of the power trusts and placed it on the backs of the consumers of the nation may satisfy the stockholders in the various units of the power combine, but I do not believe that it will appeal to the reason and justice of the people of Georgia. Mr. Crisp, as an astute lawyer of years' experience knew that this was the only fair tax levied in the bill that could not be passed on to the consumer for the public service commissions would not have permitted an increase in rates. The power companies are charging as much for their products as they did in war times when every other commodity has been reduced in price. They are selling more power today than ever before and electricity is fast becoming a necessity. Despite this the power corporations have cut wages and laid off employes and should be collecting more money than ever before.

"I am glad that Mr. Crisp has abandoned his ridiculous explanation that he made this change for the benefit of the widows and orphans who own stock in the power corporations. The fact remains that the senate had imposed the tax where it properly belonged, on the power trust, and that if Mr. Crisp, as chairman of the conference committee on the part of the house, had agreed thereto, the struggling home owners of America who use electricity would have been relieved of this additional burden.

"Much of the bitterness and spleen Mr. Crisp showed in his opening speech was caused by my asking him the simple question, that the people of Georgia are entitled to know, of whether he was not almost constantly in conference with the president of the largest power concern in Georgia, long recognized as a factor in our political life, before and during the midnight hour when he proposed this amendment relieving the power trusts of taxation in the conference committee. It will be noted that Mr. Crisp has not yet answered that simple question, but, on the contrary, arises in his wrath to abuse me and misrepresent my efforts to serve the people of Georgia as their governor.

"The discovery and use of electricity has been a great factor in our modern civilization and has benefited our state and nation. I have no criticism of the employes and many of the officers of the local power companies in Georgia. However, it is high time for the American people to take notice of the principle involved in the organization of the power trust with all of its holding companies, interlocking units and many ramifications. The federal government itself has spent months in seeking to determine just where the head and tail of the power trust are without satisfactorily solving its mysterious organization.

"Nobody objects to the power trust making a fair return out of its development of the great natural resources of the country, but when it undertakes to dominate the people's government or to inject itself into the election of public officials, it is time to call a halt and for the people to arise in their might and see that this trust does not become so powerful as to control the government.

Power Trust Taxes Hit.

"My enemies can cry demagogue to their heart's content, but I insist in all good faith that it was inexcusable and unpardonable to relieve the power trusts of the nation of this tax burden and place it on the struggling home owners and operators of small business.

"Mr. Crisp insists that this tax does not amount to a great deal and only applies to 15 per cent of the people of Georgia and therefore should not be mentioned. The principle involved is as broad as representative government itself. Only by gradual encroachment have the big interests obtained their unconscionable hold through the present preferential system of laws. If a great advantage was sought at any one time the people would protest, but these interests cleverly filch the rights of the people bit by bit in order that the masses will not notice it. This is a clear illustration of the power exerted by the big interests in the national congress. Representative Rainey, the floor leader of the democrats in the house, and numerous senators denounced the transfer of this tax from the trusts to the consumer as being a complete surrender by congress to the power trusts.

"My opponent takes the position that because he has occupied a seat in the congress for 20 years he should be sent to the United States senate. It has been customary to teach the youth of this land that people are rewarded for true service and their desire to benefit the condition of the masses. Until Mr. Crisp can point out one single measure that he has sponsored and passed during the 20 years he has drawn the salary and all the other benefits which accrue to a congressman, which tends to help the average Georgia citizen, I cannot see how the mere fact that he has been in congress 20 years can redound to his advantage. Long tenure in office should be no recommendation unless the people who have paid the salary have derived some benefit from the services supposed to have been rendered.

"Mr. Crisp seeks to excuse his abandoning the prestige that has come to him by occupying a seat in congress for 20 years and the seniority that he has obtained during his long years of service, by saying that he is acquainted with the members of the senate. His constituents should be glad to know that he has at least been active enough to recognize the men with whom he has been associated for so many years, but everybodys knows that seniority in the house cannot be transferred to the senate and that if Mr. Crisp is elected, which is most unlikely, he would start from scratch in the senate just as I will have to start.

"Lack of service in the house has never been considered any handicap to service in the senate. Neither Senator George nor Senator Harris ever served a single day in the house nor did Senator Bacon, Senator Smith nor Senator Clay. Senator Watson had only served one term and that 25 years before his election to the senate and who would say that the people of Georgia had suffered on account of the lack of house service by these men?

"As a matter of fact though there are 435 members of the congress there are only 27 of the 96 members of the senate who ever served in the house. There are only 48 governors in the United States and 19 members of the senate are ex-governors. The proportion therefore seems to be against Mr. Crisp and in my favor.

"Mr. Crisp's friends claim he is a great parliamentarian. I do not pretend to be a great parliamentarian but I have served four years as speaker of the Georgia house of representatives, actually applying parliamentary rules to present problems and Mr. Crisp has never had this actual experience. The rules of the Georgia house of representatives are not greatly different to those of the national congress and I do not think that the people of Georgia are afraid that I will not be able to find my way about when they send me to Washington."

Now, I was glad he asked me this question and I replied "We are just as much skeptical of a party selling us, as the public are when buying from us and I have my mechanics check the cars from every angle, and if they O.
